Thank you. I will therefore take this as confirmation that the Pembroke plants should not be included in the TNP.

Richard,
Sorry for the delay in replying. Having now checked with Andy Roberts at UKPIA we now believe that refineries are not eligible for inclusion in the TNP.
Thanks.

Mr -

You sent me the attached spreadsheet, which on the face of it contains all the information needed for the plants to be placed in the TNP, except for the date that each was first permitted or entered service and I would be grateful to have that by 7 December at the latest.

However, I need you urgently to confirm that none of the liquid and gaseous fuels used were derived from 'gasification of refinery residues or the distillation and conversion residues from the refining of crude oils'. If any of the combustion plants used such fuels, even in conjunction with other fuels, Article 32(1)(b) of the industrial emissions Directive prevents them being placed in the TNP.
