I really hope you will all listen to the resounding "NO" from Cumbria County Council and not start bullying and bribing to try and make them change their mind....no-one wants this waste anywhere near them but if it has to be buried then I think nearer London would be good - closer to those making the decision to a) produce this waste and b) want to bury it...it will never be a case of "out of sight out of mind" with this material.....underground is NOT the answer...it needs to be kept where it can be monitored closely.

best wishes,
