

THE PRIME MINISTER'S HOLOCAUST COMMISSION

CALL FOR EVIDENCE

1. What examples of Holocaust education are you aware of? How effective are they and what evidence is there that they work?
2. What more needs to be done to strengthen education or research resources and ensure they are relevant to future generations?
3. What examples of commemorative events, memorials and museums are you aware of? How effective are they in commemorating the Holocaust?
4. What more needs to be done to develop or create new commemorative events, memorials or museums and ensure they are relevant to future generations? Where and how should this be done?
5. Given that we will not always have the survivors with us, what more should be done to ensure that their testimony is preserved for future generations?

Please tell us anything else you think is relevant: (for example, if you are aware of innovative work in other countries or have specific views on remembering Britain's place in this part of history)
