Q8. In the alcohol strategy, the government committed to introducing a minimum unit price for alcohol in England and Wales. This consultation will contribute to the debate on the most appropriate price per unit and the mechanism by which, once set, minimum unit pricing would remain effective. It is also an opportunity for interested parties to raise other issues around minimum unit pricing. The purpose of minimum unit pricing is to reduce alcohol consumption, particularly by the most hazardous and harmful drinkers who tend to show a preference for the cheapest alcohol products. By doing so the government estimates there will be a reduction in the associated crime and health harms, especially the numbers of hospital admissions, alcohol-related deaths and alcohol-related crimes. Minimum unit pricing is not intended disproportionately to affect responsible drinkers or particular social groups but to reduce the availability of alcohol sold at very low or heavily discounted prices. More information (including the definitions of hazardous and harmful drinkers) is available in the full consultation document and the impact assessment. Do you want to answer questions on minimum unit pricing? Please select one option.

Q9. The impact of minimum unit pricing will depend on the price per unit of alcohol. The government wants to ensure that the chosen price level is targeted and proportionate, whilst achieving a significant reduction of harm. The government is therefore consulting on the introduction of a recommended minimum unit price of 45p. The government estimates a reduction in consumption across all product types of 3.3 per cent, a reduction in crime of 5,240 per year, a reduction in 24,600 alcohol-related hospital admissions and 714 fewer deaths per year after ten years. Do you agree that this minimum unit price level would achieve these aims? Please select one option.

Yes

If you think another level would be preferable, please set out your views on why this might be in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

We fully support the implementation of the MUP, but do not support any measures to relax licensing, enforcement or availability. It needs to be implemented at a level in accordance with the evidence base with optimum price to maximise effect and inflated to reflect 2014 prices. The SchARR model strongly supports 50p MUP (2009 prices) with more lives saved, less admissions, reduced absenteeism, reduced crime, and only a small increase per week to the moderate drinker (6p) than at 45p level (Purshouse et al. 2010).

Q10. Should other factors or evidence be considered when setting a minimum unit price for alcohol? Please select one option.

Yes

If yes, please specify these in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

•The support and benefits of the on-licence trade sector; by reducing the price differential with the off-trade sector and supporting the shift of consumption towards community pubs with regulated, safer environments. •Reducing publicly anti-social drinking: the impact, appeal and access of 5% alcopops to young people street and party drinking; and the impact of street drinkers' consumption of super strength beers and ciders. •The relationship of alcohol misuse on: violent crime; domestic abuse; and on families and children's wellbeing and opportunities to thrive. •A possible increase in crime to fund alcohol use. •The impact of any MUP difference with Scotland. •The SchAAR model was calculated on 2009; the price should ensure alcohol doesn't get more affordable. •The treasury should recoup additional money gained by industry from MUP, redirecting it to services that reduce alcohol harm.

Q11. The government wishes to maintain the effectiveness of minimum unit pricing and is therefore proposing to adjust the minimum unit price level over time. How do you think the level of minimum unit price set by the government should be adjusted over time? Please select one option.

The minimum unit price should be reviewed after a set period

Q12. The aim of minimum unit pricing is to reduce the consumption of harmful and hazardous drinkers, while minimising the impact on responsible drinkers. Do you think that there are any other people, organisations or groups that could be particularly affected by a minimum unit price for alcohol? Please select one option.

Yes

If yes, please specify in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 100 words):

•Young people in relation to their consumption: the types of beverage drunk, cost/affordability, volume, and associated impact. •Families affected by alcohol misuse, with reference to safeguarding children and vulnerable adults, and domestic abuse. •Reduction of alcohol related harm amongst offenders and their families. •Wider effects on public spaces, including but not limited to reduced anti-social behaviour and supporting the regeneration of town centres. •On-trade sector; reducing the price differential with the off-licence sector. •Potential impacts on small alcohol producers.

Page 4: A ban on multi-buy promotions in the off-trade

Q13. The government is consulting on introducing a ban on multi-buy promotions in the off-trade (e.g.

shops and off-licences) as part of its wider strategy to reduce excessive alcohol consumption, and alongside the introduction of a minimum unit price. A ban on multi-buy promotions would therefore not apply to pubs, clubs, bars or restaurants. The term 'multi-buy promotions' refers to alcohol promotions that offer a discount for buying multiple items. The aim of a ban would be to stop promotions that encourage people to buy more than they otherwise would, making it cheaper (per item) to purchase more than one of a product than to purchase a single item. As well as being part of a wider strategy to reduce consumption and tackle irresponsible alcohol sales, a ban on multi-buy promotions would also contribute to the government's aim of encouraging people to be aware of how much they drink and the risks of excessive drinking, so that they can make informed choices. The aim of this consultation is to assess support for such a ban and contribute to our understanding of the impact a ban on multi-buy promotions may have. The types of promotion it is proposed that a ban would include, are: two for the price of one, three for the price of two, buy one get one free, buy six and get 20 per cent off, 24 cans of lager costing less than 24 times the cost of a single can of lager in the shop, a case of wine sold cheaper than the individual price at which the same bottles are sold in the shop, 3 for £10 where each bottle costs more than £3.33. More information is available in the full consultation document and the impact assessment. Do you want to answer questions on a ban on multi-buy promotions in the off-trade? Q15. Are there any further offers which should be included in a ban on multi-buy promotions? Please select one option.

Yes

If yes, please specify in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 100 words):

- It would need to be implemented in line with the evidence base (Purshouse et al. 2010), i.e. in conjunction with MUP to counter heavily discounted items not included in the ban. It would need to be carefully monitored in order to identify potential loop-holes and opportunities for market manipulation (e.g. de-listing).
- Ensure alcohol can't be given free or discounted below the MUP with other purchases.
- Banning loyalty points or coupons linked to alcohol.

Q16. Should other factors or evidence be taken into account when considering a ban on multi-buy promotions? Please select one option.

Yes

If yes, please specify in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

- Ensuring it is introduced with a MUP in line with the evidence (Purshouse et al. 2010), and no alcohol is sold below that price when discounted/on promotion.
- Alcohol products should be sold at the same price regardless of volume or quantity of packaging.
- Protecting children and young people; alcohol promotions encourage 16-24 years to drink more (Alcohol Concern and Balance).
- Reducing the availability of alcohol to children and young people in the home environment, where they get most their alcohol from.

•Reducing health inequalities, as lower income groups suffer disproportionate alcohol related health harms. •Resources required for trading standards to enforce the ban.

Q17. The aim of a ban on multi-buy promotions is to stop promotions that encourage people to buy more than they otherwise would, helping people to be aware of how much they drink, and to tackle irresponsible alcohol sales. Do you think that there are any other groups that could be particularly affected by a ban on multi-buy promotions? Please select one option.

Yes

If yes, please specify in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 100 words):

The reduced differential between on and off licence prices will support a shift towards increased use of on-licence premises. •Young people with reduced access to affordable drink from off-licence premises and home, and reduced pre-loading and binge drinking. •Reduced burden on emergency services from binge drinking. •Reduced violence and aggression towards front-line staff. •Employers, from reduced absenteeism.

Page 6: Reviewing the mandatory licensing conditions

Q18. In its response to the 'Rebalancing the Licensing Act' consultation in 2010, the government committed to review the impact of the current mandatory licensing conditions. More recently, the alcohol strategy made a commitment to review these mandatory licensing conditions to ensure they are sufficiently targeting problems such as irresponsible promotions in pubs and clubs. The government has also committed to consult on whether these mandatory licensing conditions should, where relevant, apply to both the on- and off-trade. This consultation forms part of that review, and will contribute to the government's understanding of how these mandatory conditions are perceived. The five mandatory licensing conditions currently set out in regulations in relation to the supply of alcohol are: a ban on irresponsible promotionsa ban on dispensing alcohol by one person directly into the mouth of anothera requirement to provide free tap water on request to customersa requirement to have an age verification policy to prevent the sale of alcohol to persons under 18 years of age, anda requirement to make available to customers small measures such as half pints or beer or cider or 125ml glasses of wine More information is available in the full consultation document. An explanation of each of these terms can be found on page 20 of the consultation document, in the glossary at the end. Q20. Do you think that the mandatory licensing conditions do enough to target irresponsible promotions in pubs and clubs? Please select one option.

No

If no, please state what more could be done in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 100 words):

•Yes as irresponsible promotions are defined in the Licensing Act, but the sale of cheap drinks (e.g. £1.50) needs to be prevented. •Technical aspects need to be improved to prevent loopholes, e.g. you can't give alcohol for free, but you can supply it free with a purchased meal. •Age verification schemes should be a minimum 'check 25', have a written policy and include mandatory signage on premises. •The unit content of all drinks should be clearly visible at the point of sale so customers know what they are drinking. •Remove the 'glamourisation' test for promotions and ban all irresponsible promotions.

Score

Q21. Are there other issues related to the licensing objectives which could be tackled through a mandatory licensing condition? Please select one option.

Yes

If yes, please specify in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

•Many issues can be dealt with in hearings through the voluntary imposition of additional conditions. •There are risks in town centres from alcohol related disorder associated with local football matches. Mandatory conditions could enable the restriction of opening times and the number of premises open. •Incidents of domestic abuse are associated with major football tournaments. •A proportionate seating and standing ratio should be dictated by the capacity of the premises. •Soft drinks should be priced cheaper than the cheapest alcoholic drink to remove the incentive for people to drink alcoholic drinks. •Beer should be decanted from bottles at the bar. As there are more bottle related incidents involving beer bottles than glasses. •A ban on irresponsible drinks promotions should be applied to the off-trade. •Loyalty point schemes for the purchase of alcohol which encourages increased consumption should be banned. •Offering shots of spirits away from the bar area should be banned. •Happy hours should be banned as they sell discounted alcohol. •Organised commercial pub crawls should be banned. •Ladies nights, (where there are discounted or free drinks) should be banned as they encourage excessive consumption of alcohol.

Q22. Do you think that the current approach, with five mandatory licensing conditions applying to the on-trade and only one of those to the off-trade, is appropriate? Please select one option.

No

If no, please explain why you think the current approach is not the best approach (keeping your views to a maximum of 100 words):

•There should be a ban on off-licence irresponsible promotions, with consistency between on and off-licences. •Supermarket alcohol sales now account for 70% of off-trade sales and can sell alcohol at discounted prices. Stopping irresponsible promotions would also help to tackle pre-loading and binge drinking of alcohol purchased from the off-trade. People who have pre-loaded are more likely to be a victim or perpetrator of crime.

Page 8: Health as a licensing objective for cumulative impact policies

Q23. We want to ensure that licensing authorities are able to take alcohol-related health harms into consideration when making decisions about cumulative impact policies (CIPs) which can be used to manage problems linked to the density of premises in specific areas. A CIP introduces a rebuttable presumption that all new licence applications and variations in that area will normally be refused if the licensing authority receives a relevant representation stating that the application will add to the cumulative impact. However each application must still be considered on its own merits and the licensing authority may still grant the application if it is satisfied that the application will not contribute to the cumulative impact. We are proposing that licensing authorities will be able to take evidence of alcohol-related health harm into account in deciding whether to introduce a CIP and the extent of that CIP. This would be a discretionary power and not an obligation. We expect that those areas with the highest levels of alcohol-related health harm, or fast rising levels of harm from alcohol, will be most likely to use this power. It will allow local health bodies to fully contribute to local decision making and mean licensing authorities can restrict the number of licensed premises in the local area on the basis of robust local evidence. More information is available in the full consultation document and impact assessment. Do you want to answer questions on health as a licensing objective for cumulative impact policies? Q24. What sources of evidence on alcohol-related health harm could be used to support the introduction of a cumulative impact policy (CIP) if it were possible for a CIP to include consideration of health? Please specify in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

The data quality threshold would need to be established and whether population level data would be acceptable. The sources would be dependent on the quality (robustness) of the data required. Hospital accident and emergency and ambulance service data on alcohol related accidental and assault injuries, and under 18 years alcohol related presentations could be used but the quality is relatively poor. Most alcohol related chronic illness data is at a population level and generated from alcohol attributable fractions (NWPFO). The coding of alcohol attributable conditions of local hospital inpatient data is patchy. Other possible sources include local GP, alcohol treatment service and domestic abuse data.

Q25. Do you think any aspects of the current cumulative impact policy process would need to be amended to allow consideration of data on alcohol-related health harms? Please select one option.

Yes

If yes, please specify which aspects in the box below (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

•There would need to be clarity as to whether the health contribution was obligatory or mandatory in relation to the process. •Other authorities in addition to the police should be able to object to applications covered by a CIP, e.g. health grounds.

Q26. What impact do you think allowing consideration of data on alcohol-related health harms when introducing a cumulative impact policy would have if it were used in your local area? Please specify your answer in the box below, providing evidence to support your response (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

•It would be of limited impact itself, and be just one of many considerations. It would add greater weight and greater clarity where there are areas/issues of concern. It would enable a more comprehensive perspective of issues and responses.

•The impact is also relative in relation to the significant issues and burden associated with takeaways.

Page 10: Freeing up responsible businesses

Q27. The government has committed to consult on giving licensing authorities greater freedom to take decisions that reflect the needs of their local community. Following the government's Red Tape Challenge in 2011, three areas of reform were specified: alcohol licensing for certain types of premises providing minimal alcohol sales, temporary event notices (TENs) and the licensing of late night refreshment. This section asks for views on these proposals and suggests further ways to reduce burdens on business. The proposals set out here can be seen alongside work undertaken by the Department for Culture, Media and Sport to remove unnecessary red tape from regulated entertainment. More information on each of these areas for reform is available in the full consultation document. There are five subjects covered in this section. They are: ancillary sales of alcohol, occasional provision of licensable activities at community events, an extension of the temporary event notice limit at individual premises, late night refreshment, and further proposals to reduce burdens on business. Q28. Ancillary sales of alcohol For many businesses, the sale of alcohol is only a small part of, or incidental to, their wider activities, and occurs alongside the provision of another product or service (which this consultation refers to as an 'ancillary sale'). For example, a guesthouse might wish to provide wine to its guests with an evening meal or a complimentary bottle of wine in a guest's room, while a hairdresser might wish to offer clients a glass of wine. Should special provision to reduce the burdens on ancillary sellers be limited to specific types of business, and/or be available to all types of business, providing they meet certain qualification criteria for limited or incidental sales? Please select one option in each row.

Q30. Do you have any suggestions for other types of businesses to which such special provision could apply without impacting adversely on one or more of the licensing objectives? Please write your suggestions in the box below, keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words:

- All alcohol sales should be regulated, ensuring appropriate education of vendors, proper responsibilities and accountabilities, and necessary enforcement. An ancillary scheme would undermine this.
- There is concern some barbers shops in certain locations with certain clientele would be difficult to enforce in relation to the supply of alcohol, the type supplied, the volume, and the associated risk of young people drinking in an unregulated environment and anti-social behaviour. By reducing the burden on hair and beauty salons it may have inadvertent negative consequences.
- Ancillary sales would further normalise alcohol consumption.

Q31. The aim of a new 'ancillary seller' status is to reduce burdens on businesses where the sale of alcohol is only a small part of their business and occurs alongside the provision of a wider product or service, while minimising loopholes for irresponsible businesses and maintaining the effectiveness of enforcement. Alternatively, a second option is to broaden the definition of 'ancillary sales' to include all businesses (and/or not for profit activities) through the use of a general set of qualification criteria, for example, to the effect that: alcohol must be sold or supplied as a small part or proportion of a sales transaction or contract for a wider service, and the amount of alcohol that could be supplied as part of that contract cannot exceed a prescribed amount Do you think that the qualification criteria proposed meet this aim?

No

Please use the space below to provide further comments (keeping your views to a maximum of 200 words):

•All alcohol sales should be regulated, ensuring appropriate education of vendors, proper responsibilities and accountabilities, and necessary enforcement. An ancillary scheme would undermine this. •Ancillary schemes would be open to market manipulation and creation of loopholes. •The amount of alcohol needs to be carefully defined; how much can be supplied and the proportion that is ancillary in relation to the main business. •Ancillary sales would further normalise alcohol consumption.

- Ensuring licensing retain authorities for monitoring and enforcement.
- Ensuring the same rules apply in relation to irresponsible promotions and cost.
- The need to be able to impose, if required, a full licence review.
- To consider any premises subject to lighter touch authorisation in relation to CIPs, and the possibility of revoking ancillary sales or reducing sales hours.
- The risks and harms associated with further normalising alcohol.
