
From:

Sent:

24 June 2014 16:16

To:

Subject:

FW: Consultations on non Residents - response from

-----Original Message-----

From:

Sent: 11 May 2014 13:41

To: TaxTeam, CapitalGains (CAR Capital Gains)

Subject: Consultations on non Residents

Dear Sirs

Would you consider the following exemptions from Capital Gain Tax:- I bought an apartment purely to provide accommodation for my son's education in one of the London Universities. As he is pursuing a medical degree for a 6 years period, the purpose was to ensure he has a "permanent accommodation" during the duration of his studies. In addition, we would like to visit him occasionally and have a place to stay while we visit London. This apartment has never been rented out to earn rental income since it was purchased. We intend to sell once he finishes his education in 2016.

We have only one property in UK and could this also be considered as the main resident. Could you please consider such circumstances in your consultation period and relief CGT for such cases.

Thanks

Yours Sincerely