Introduction

The information for firefighters' pensions within this release covers two schemes in England: the Firefighters' Pension Scheme ("the 1992 Scheme") and the New Firefighters' Pension Scheme ("the 2006 Scheme"). Both schemes are statutory, tax approved, unfunded, final salary occupational pension schemes.

Regular firefighters employed before 6 April 2006 were eligible for membership of the 1992 Scheme, which was closed to new membership on 5 April 2006. It is a final salary scheme which effectively provides $1/60^{\text{th}}$ accrual in the first 20 years of service and double accrual (i.e. $2/60^{\text{ths}}$ accrual) in the next 10 years of service, giving a maximum pension entitlement of $40/60^{\text{ths}}$. It has a normal pension age of 55, but provides for members to retire from age 50 years with 25 or more years' pensionable service.

The 2006 Scheme was introduced for regular and retained firefighters employed since 6 April 2006. It is also a final salary scheme with $1/60^{\text{th}}$ accrual for each year of service, providing a maximum pension of $45/60^{\text{ths}}$.

The responsibility for policy on both the 1992 and 2006 Schemes in England rests with the Department for Communities and Local Government whilst the administration and payment of pensions and benefits is the responsibility of each of the 46 individual English Fire and Rescue Authorities.

Under the current financing arrangements of both pension schemes, the employer's contribution together with the employee's contribution is paid into a locally managed pension fund account. Other sources of pension income (e.g. transfer-in payments, Ill-health charges) are also paid into the local pension fund. The authority pays pension costs out of this account. The shortfall (cashflow deficit) between the total annual pensions income received and the total annual pension expenditure is reimbursed to each Fire and Rescue Authority through the mechanism of the annual Pension Top Up grant which is paid by the Department for Communities and Local Government.

Pensioners

Of those leaving the schemes during 2013-14, 95% of normal retirements were from the 1992 scheme whereas 80% of deferred pensioners were from the 2006 scheme.

Table 1: Existing and Deferred Pensioners

	1992 scheme	2006 scheme
Pensioners at start 2013-14	38,349	229
Normal retirements during 2013-14	1,072	60
Deferred members who left employment prior to 2013-14	2,480	2,752
Deferred members who left employment during 2013-14	152	611

Active Members

Just over three fifths (61%) of the total membership of 34,921 are in the 1992 scheme, down from 63% in 2012-13 and 66% in 2011-12. 87% of those opting out during the year are in the 2006 scheme.

Members of the scheme may elect to opt out, thereby ceasing to pay pension contributions while remaining in employment as a firefighter with the FRA. Members of the 1992 scheme who opt out may not opt back in, whereas members of the 2006 scheme who opt out can later opt back into the scheme. Data on members of the 2006 scheme opting in are not collected.

Retained firefighters are personnel contracted to be available for agreed periods of time for fire-fighting purposes, but who could also have an alternative employment elsewhere.

Table 2 shows the numbers of active members and optants out at the start of 2013-14, as well as the numbers opting out of the schemes during the year, and the numbers of new members who joined during the year. The figures for 'optants out at year start' only include those firefighters who are entitled to a deferred pension and will include individuals that have left their employment as a firefighter without an entitlement to immediate payment of their pension, and those who have left the membership of the scheme but have remained in employment as a firefighter. It excludes those firefighters who opted out of their pension scheme and were entitled to a refund of pension contributions.

Table 2: Active and Opted-out Members 2013-14

	1992 scheme	2006 scheme (non-retained)	2006 scheme (retained)	Total
Active members at year start	21,210	5,564	8,147	34,921
Optants out at year start	348	298	285	931
Optants out during year	75	162	326	563
New members during year	N/A	410	1,552	1,962

Transfers

Transferring pension benefits is the process by which a member elects to transfer the value of their pension benefits in an external pension scheme to their firefighters pension scheme; or vice versa where they transfer the value of their firefighter pension benefits to another external pension scheme.

Club transfers involve members transferring their pension benefits within the Public Sector Transfer Club. This is a group of some 120 salary related occupational pension schemes.

Table 3 shows the numbers of transfers into and out of the schemes during the year 2013-14.

Table 3: Numbers Transferring Into and Out of Schemes, 2013-14
	Transfers in	Transfers out
External pension schemes	91	80
Of which - club transfers	25	31
Of which - other transfers	66	49

Ill-health Retirements

Ill-health retirement occurs when a member becomes entitled to immediate payment of their pension benefits as a consequence of becoming permanently disabled for undertaking their role as a firefighter. The lower tier award entitles any member who becomes permanently disabled for undertaking their role as a firefighter to the immediate payment of the pension benefits that they have accrued; the higher tier award entitles any member who becomes permanently disabled for undertaking their role as a firefighter and any other regular employment (defined as a minimum of 30 hours per week over a period of at least 12 months) to the immediate payment of a lower tier pension and also an additional enhanced higher tier pension.

Table 4 shows the numbers of ill health retirements, and how many of these are lower tier and higher tier retirements from the schemes during the year 2013-14.

	1992 scheme	2006 scheme

Of which - higher tier	18	7

The most relevant terms for this release are explained below.

Administering authority

A body responsible for administering the Firefighters' Pension Scheme.

Club transfers and external Pension Scheme transfers

Transferring pension benefits is the process by which a member elects to transfer the value of their pension benefits in an external pension scheme to their firefighters pension scheme; or vice versa where they transfer the value of their firefighter pension benefits to another external pension scheme. The transfer is carried out by transferring the Cash Equivalent Transfer Value (CETV), i.e. the capital value of the pension benefits, from the exporting scheme (the scheme paying the CETV) to an importing scheme (the new scheme receiving the CETV). The CETV will normally purchase a service credit in the importing scheme.

Club transfers involve members transferring their pension benefits within the Public Sector Transfer Club. This is a group of some 120 salary related occupational pension schemes. Further details on 'the Club' can be found at the following weblink;

<http://www.civilservice.gov.uk/pensions/transfer-club>.

Deferred pension

A person becomes entitled to a deferred pension if they leave employment, or make an election to cease paying pension contributions, prior to becoming entitled to receive the immediate payment of their pension. Deferred pensions come into payment when the member attains age 60 years in the 1992 Scheme; and 65 years in the 2006 Scheme.

Ill-Health Retirement

Ill-health retirement occurs when a member becomes entitled to immediate payment of their pension benefits as a consequence of becoming permanently disabled for undertaking their roles as a firefighter. There are two levels of ill-health retirement, lower-tier and higher tier awards. The lower tier award entitles any member who becomes permanently disabled for undertaking their role as a firefighter to the immediate payment of the pension benefits that they have accrued (i.e. a lower tier pension); the higher tier award entitles any member who becomes permanently disabled for undertaking their role as a firefighter and any other regular employment (defined as a minimum of 30 hours per week over a period of at least 12 months) to the immediate payment of a lower tier pension and also an additional enhanced higher tier pension.

Opting out

Members of the scheme may elect to opt out, thereby ceasing to pay pension contributions while remaining in employment as a firefighter with the FRA. Members of the 1992 scheme who opt out may not opt back in, whereas members of the 2006 scheme who opt out can later opt back into the scheme. Data on members of the 2006 scheme opting in are not collected.

Data collection

The information in this release is based on data returned to the Department for Communities and Local Government via the online LOGASnet system on the FPF forms by all 46 administering authorities in England.

Data quality

Figures are subjected to validation tests by statistical staff within the Department for Communities and Local Government once the data have been received.

Finally, the release document, once prepared, is also subject to intensive peer review before being cleared as fit for the purposes of publication.

Revisions policy

This policy has been developed in accordance with the UK Statistics Authority Code of Practice for Official statistics and the Department for Communities and Local Government Revisions Policy (found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/statistical-notice-dclg-revisions-policy>).

There are two types of revisions that the policy covers:

Non-Scheduled Revisions

Where a substantial error has occurred as a result of the compilation, imputation or dissemination process, the statistical release, live tables and other accompanying releases will be updated with a correction notice as soon as is practical.

Scheduled Revisions

At time of publication there are no scheduled revisions for this series.

Uses of the data

The data in this statistical release are essential for a number of different purposes. A central and immediate purpose is to provide Ministers with information about the Firefighters' Pension Schemes. The data may also be used by fire authorities and their associations.

User engagement

Users are encouraged to provide feedback on how these statistics are used and how well they meet user needs. Comments on any issues relating to this statistical release are welcomed and encouraged. Responses should be addressed to the "Public enquiries" contact given in the "Enquiries" section below.

Notes

The Firefighters' Pension Scheme 1992 is a statutory, tax-approved, unfunded, final salary occupational pension scheme. It was closed to new members from 6 April 2006. Membership was limited to regular firefighters appointed on terms under which they were or might be required to engage in firefighting.

The New Firefighters Pension Scheme 2006 (NFPS) is a statutory, tax-approved, unfunded, final salary occupational pension scheme. It was opened to membership from 6th April 2006 by any person taking up employment as a firefighter on terms under which he/she is, or may be, required to engage in firefighting, and whose role includes resolving operational incidents, or leading and supporting others in the resolution of such incidents. Membership is restricted to exclude those who join the Fire and Rescue Service at middle and senior management levels.

Both the 1992 Scheme and 2006 Scheme are unfunded schemes. Under the current arrangements both the employer's and employee's contributions together with other sources of authorised pension income are paid into a pension fund account. The authority pays pension costs out of this account. Any annual shortfall between receipts and expenditure is met by a top-up grant paid by the Department for Communities and Local Government.
