PNE

1 To raise the question of indications that DTI will not underwrite further support for PNE studies.

2 To take note that whilst PNE may not have commercial application of interest to the UK firms, other countries indulge in such activities. For example, the French ([REDACTED]) could advise).

3 It is for debate whether we should ask the French to advise us if they are now proceeding with the development of PNE devices and whether they have any programme for using them within the environs of the UK.
