

To whom it may concern.

With all the current problems at the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Plant you would like to bring this nonsense to the shores of the UK.

This is not a legitimate way of producing electricity and is a stupid way to do nothing more than boil water.

Do not forget or lose sight of the fact that we are governed by informed consent. This consultation on nuclear energy forms the information, this is my legal/lawful reply.

Numerous applications for patents for free energy devices have been made, if the effort and energy that the manufacture and production of items used to kill Men, Women & Children around the world were used for good, we would soon have a better option for generating power and this Earth would be a better World for it.

Notice of Consensus Facit Legem. (Consent makes the Law)

You do not have my consent to any nuclear development anywhere.

Thomas Young