

Dear Department of Energy and Climate Change,

I wish to object strongly to the proposed plan to build nuclear waste storage facilities near Wylfa Nuclear Station, Anglesey.

I live in nearby Gwynedd, and a risk of nuclear contamination from these dumps is the last thing we need for this area. To my knowledge there have been no safe methods devised to store this highly toxic material .

The spent fuel rods and other waste will not be safe for 160 years. Anglesey is a Welsh lovely rural county heavily dependent on tourism. Why should our land be despoiled by such a nuclear dump?

In face of the huge outcry against such plans, across all political and social divides locally and throughout Wales, we demand that you shelve them immediately. If you choose to ignore local feelings and go ahead, this will be another reason to support the growing campaign for complete independence for Wales's energy policy- similar to what is likely to happen in Scotland.

Yours truly,

Dyfan Roberts
