Pre-announcing intention to publish
Management Information for
Probation, 1 June – 30 September
England & Wales

Background

Up until 31 May 2014, offenders in the community were managed by Probation Trusts. Under the new probation arrangements, active from 1 June 2014, offenders in the community are managed by the National Probation Service (NPS) and Community Rehabilitation Companies (CRCs).

This ad-hoc management information release presents the suite of management information used by the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) and the Ministry of Justice to monitor performance in probation during the transition period since the new probation arrangements became active on 1st June 2014.

What is being published, and why?

The management information is being released to support the Judicial Review of the changes to Probation under the Transforming Rehabilitation Programme.

As such, this management information release is a one-off ad-hoc release, and is not representative of how future probation performance information will be published. Regular publications of probation data will be made, but not necessarily limited to, or covering all areas covered in this release.

The management information in this release covers a number of areas, namely:

- 1 – Background & Executive Summary
- 2 – Public Protection
- 3 – Staffing
- 4 – Performance
- 5 – Risk of Serious Recidivism (RSR) assessment and Case Allocation

These data are presented at national level to examine performance across the probation system, with distinctions made between the NPS and CRCs where appropriate. Comparisons to historic information have also been made where appropriate.

This ad hoc management information release will be published on Monday 17 November 2014.
