

From: Derek Brazell [REDACTED]
Sent: 23 December 2015 15:29
To: Section52CDPA
Subject: Re: New consultation on revised transitional arrangements for the repeal of section 52 of the CDPA - AOI

Categories: Blue Category

Association of Illustrators - consultation on the repeal of Section 52 of the CDPA

Dear [REDACTED]

I am writing to say that the Association of Illustrators officially support the response to the consultation on the repeal of Section 52 of the CDPA from the Association of Photographers.

The concerns for illustrators are closely aligned with those of photographers and the AOI has strong concerns over the potential issues arising from incidental inclusion in illustrations of works which may become copyright protected.

All the best

Derek

Derek Brazell

Projects Manager

Association of Illustrators, Somerset House, Strand, London WC2R 1LA

Telephone [REDACTED] email: [REDACTED] Varoom site www.theaoi.com/varoom-mag

World Illustration Awards 2016

enter at <http://www.theaoi.com/awards/enter-info.php>

Varoom 31 – The Visionaries issue

From: Section52CDPA <Section52CDPA@ipo.gov.uk>

Date: Thursday, 17 December 2015 17:21

To: AOI Publications [REDACTED]

Subject: RE: New consultation on revised transitional arrangements for the repeal of section 52 of the CDPA

Derek,

Thank you for your email. Any works which now enjoy the full term of copyright protection by virtue of the repeal of section 52 would have to be treated in the same way as any other copyright-protected work which illustrators already draw (such as a sculpture). They might consider whether a copyright exception applies for the purpose of the illustration or whether they should obtain permission from the rights holder.

I hope that this clarifies the position for you.

[REDACTED]
Intellectual Property Office | 1st Floor | 4 Abbey Orchard Street | London | SW1P 2HT | www.gov.uk/ipo
Email: Section52CDPA@ipo.gov.uk

Making life better by supporting UK creativity and innovation

-----Original Message-----

From: Derek Brazell [REDACTED] On Behalf Of Derek Brazell

Sent: 17 December 2015 15:13

To: Section52CDPA

Subject: Re: New consultation on revised transitional arrangements for the repeal of section 52 of the CDPA

Hello

I'm getting in touch from the Association of Illustrators. Can you confirm that illustrators drawing a 3D manufactured item that becomes protected by the extension of copyright will need to take the same route in seeking a licence to do so as photographers will?

Thanks for your response.

All the best

Derek

Derek Brazell

Projects Manager

Association of Illustrators, Somerset House, Strand, London WC2R 1LA Telephone [REDACTED] email:

[REDACTED] Varoom site www.theaoi.com/varoom-mag World Illustration Awards 2016 enter at

<http://www.theaoi.com/awards/enter-info.php>

Varoom 31 The Visionaries issue

On 07/12/2015 16:23, "Section52CDPA" <Section52CDPA@ipo.gov.uk> wrote:

>Dear stakeholder

>

>On 28 October 2015 the Government launched its consultation

>(<https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/transitional-arrangements-> >for

>-the-repeal-of-section-52-cdpa) on the revised transitional >arrangements for the repeal of section 52 of the Copyright, Designs and >Patents Act 1988. The consultation was due to close on 9 December. The >Government is extending this by two weeks to 23 December to enable more >detailed responses.

>

>Please could all interested parties submit their responses by 16.30 GMT >on Wednesday 23 December 2015. Submissions should be sent by this time >to section52CDPA@ipo.gov.uk or by post.

>

>If you have any further questions please do email the above address.

>

>

>Copyright Directorate

>Intellectual Property Office