

Contents

- 5 What to do first
- 5 If someone dies in hospital
- 5 If a person dies somewhere else
- 6 If the cause of death is not clear
- 11 How to register a death
- 11 What happens at the Register Office
- 13 Tell Us Once service
- 13 The death certificate
- 14 Registering a still baby
- 16 Arranging the weral
- 16 Arranging the funeral without a funeral director.
- 17 Choosing a funeral director
- 18 Deciding about creation or burial
- 20 If the person died outside England Wales
- 20 Registering someone's death
- 21 Amerals abroad
- 21 Bringing a body back to England or Wales

- 22 Paying for the funeral
- 22 If someone has arranged to pay for their warfuneral
- 23 Employer pension schemes or personal pensions
- 24 Other pensions and Covments
- 5 Funeral Payments
- 27 When a wax pensioner dies
- 28 Othernetp
- 28 Dealing with someone's estate and belongings
- 28 The will
- 29 Jointly owned property
- 30 Getting permission to deal with the estate
- 31 What does the executor or administrator need to do?
- 36 Sharing out the estate and dealing with claims on the estate
- 36 Summary of the intestacy rules
- 38 Who can make a claim on an estate?

- Bereavement and tax 39
- 44 Help and support for you
- Bereavement benefits 44
- 47 Your benefit entitlements may have changed
- 52 Help to bring up a baby or child
- 52 Maternity benefits
- Child Benefit 52
- Guardian's Allowance 53
- to date information on GOV. 53 Help if you do not have enough to live or ware on a low income
- Child Tax Cre 54
- 55 Income Support
- 55 Jobseeker's Allowance
- 56 Pension Credit
- 57 Housing Benef
- 58 Universal Credit
- Help with health costs

4 What to do after a death in England or Wales

When someone close to you dies, you'll have to make decisions and arrangements at a time when you are very upset.

This leaflet gives you help and information about what

Lause of the control www.scotland.govuk or visit a Jobsephere in Scotland to get a leaflet produced by the Scottish Government.

You can find up

What to do first

If someone dies in hospital

The hospital will keep the body in the mortuary until someone, such as the executor or a family member, arranges for it to be taken as the executor' is the source. If someone dies in hospital, the hospital staff will contact a family

An 'executor' is the person named in a will ho should take of doing everything the will asks.

Most funerals take place with the support of a funeral take place with the sup will collect the body from the hospital. Most funeral rectors have a chapel of rest where the body will stay until the foneral.

If a person diescomewhere else

If you expected the person's death

If you expected the person's death you should contact the doctor who cared for them during their illness. If the doctor can confirm the cause of death they will give you:

- a medical certificate that shows the cause of death (this is free and will be in an envelope addressed to the registrar), and
- a formal notice that says that the doctor has signed the medical certificate (this liso tells you how to get the death registered).

If you did not expect the person's death

If the person's death is sudden or unexpected or you discover a body, you should contact the person's:

- · family doctor (if you know who it is), or
- nearest relative.

You must also tell the police. They can help you find the family doctor or nearest relative, if you need help with this.

If the cause of death is not clear

If the cause of death is not clear, the doctor or other people who helped to look after the person must report it to the coroner. The coroner looks into deaths that might

In these cases, the coroner may be the only person who can confirm the cause of death. The doctor will write on the formal notice that they have reported the death coroner.

If you want advice or inform ou have reported the death of the de office. You can get the contact details online, from a police station, your local where the person died.

Post-mortems

A post-mortem examination is a medical examination of the body after a death Meant to find out more about the cause of death. It sould not normally delay the funeral.

The coroner may arrange for a post-mortem. If you're a relative of the person who has died, they do not need your permission do this. But you are entitled to have a doctor represent you at the post-mortem. If you ask for this, the core will tell you when and where the post-mortem will

If the person dies in hospital, you may ask the coroner to arrange for the post-mortem to be carried out by a pathologist not employed at or connected to that hospital. The coroner will usually pay to have the person's body taken from where they died to the mortuary for the postmortem. They will choose a funeral director to do this. The coroner must tell you (if you are the person's next of kin) if on GOV! any organs or tissue need to be kept after the post-morten has been done. The coroner will ask you what to do about the organs or tissue when the tests are finished.

When the coroner has finished the post-mortem you choose a funeral director to carry out the funeral

If the post-mortem shows that a person has led from natural causes, the coroner may issue a patie known as 'pink form B' (form 100B). This form sheets the cause of death so that the death can be registered.

Burial or cremation may also be sethorised at this stoge (if a burial has not already been authorised). For cranditions the coroner will give you the certificate for cremation which will allow you to arrange the body to be cremated (see page 18).

If the investigation will take some time, you may ask the coroner to give you a 'certificate of death' or a letter confirming the person's death. You can use this certificate or letter for benefits and National Insurance purposes. You can use the 'certificate of the fact of death' to use the Tell Us Once swice. Banks and other financial organisations shoul as usually accept this certificate as evidence of the deoth. When the body does not need to be examined any more the coroner may give you an 'order for burial' or a 'enificate for cremation'. This means that you can arrapde the funeral.

igations and inquests

The purpose of an investigation is to find out who the deceased person was and how, when and where they died. An inquest is the formal part of the process carried out towards the end of an investigation. Here, evidence about the circumstances of a death are considered.

on GOV. JY The inquest hearing is held in public, sometimes with a jury. It is up to the coroner to decide how to organise the inquest in away which is best for everyone, including the relatives of the son who died.

The coroner will hold an investigation if they believe

- the person died a violent or unnatural death
- the cause of death is unknown, or
- the person died in custody or in state detention.

Coroners hold investigations in these vicumstances even f the person died outside England or Walks, if the body is prought back here.

If an inquest is held, the coroner must tell these people (if the coroner knows their name and address);

- the husband, wife wil partner or partner of the person who died, or
- a near relative, and
- the person's personal representative or executor, and
- other people who the coroller thinks are closely involved.

You can go to an inquest and ask the witnesses questions, but only about the medical cause and circumstances of the person's death, if you are:

- a parent, child husband, wife, partner, or personal representative of the person who died
- some one who will be paid under the insurance of the person who died
- 1 the insurer who issued the policy
- a person whose act or failure to act may have caused or contributed to the death
- a person appointed by the trade union of the person who died, if they may have died from an industrial injury or disease

- a person appointed by an enforcing authority or government department, or
- the chief police officer.

The coroner may decide to allow other people not listed

Janere is no prosecution

Linot expected to present legal

Linot. The coroner makes sure that the liquest is impartial and thorough. He or she is expected to help families and make sure that their quertions are answered.

If there is an inquest, when it finishes the coroner wilk a certificate to the Registrar of Pinns and Death the cause of death. This means that the register the death.

io to www.

Go to www.gov.uk/government/publications/quide-tocoroner-services-and-coroner-investigations-a-shortquide to see the Quide to coroner services'. This booklet has lots of information about a cover's investigation and inquest and the standards of service you can expect. You can get copy from your look coroner's office.

Summary of forms and certificates

Here are some of the forms and certificates you may be given by doctors and coroners. The list explains when and where you get each form.

Situation	You will usually get	You will got this from the
In all cases	formal notice	doctor
The death is not referred to a coroner	medical certificate	doctor
A baby is stillborn	medical certificate of stillbirth	doctor or midwife
The death is referred to a coroner, but there is no inquest	notification by the coroner (pink form	coroner (the coroner as ally sends this direct to the registrar, but you may be asked to take it to the registrar yourself)
There is an inquest and the body is to be buried	order for burial (form 101)	coroner
There is a post-mortem or an inquest and the body is to be cremated	oner's certificate for cremation	coroner
The body is to be moved out of England and Wales	removal notice (form 104)	coroner
You need to administer the deceased's estate and the coroner's investigation (and	Coroner's certificate of the fact of death	coroner therefore registration of the death) will take some time.

How to register a death

The death must be registered with the registrar of births and deaths. You can find the address in the phone book.

CONI If the death has not been referred to the coroner, you should. tell the registrar about it as soon as possible. The death pust be registered within five days (unless the registrar says valvan take longer than this).

If the death has been reported to the coroner, it son't be registered until the registrar has the coroner permission (see page 7).

You can give any registrar in England and Wales the information to register a death, but you will need to go to the register office to tell them formally about the person's death

Check when the registrar will be there and whether you need to take anyone else with you. I may be that someone else needs to give the registrar some information to register the death. The registrar will also be to advise on what documentation is needed to register death.

If the death happened in a different area from the registrar you choose, they will send the details to the registrar who covers that area to register the death. This may cause a delay in arranging the funeral.

If the person died on a ship or plane, check which country you need to register the leath in. Usually, this is the country that the ship or plane registered in.

What happens at the Register Office

When you go to the Register Office you should take:

- 1 the medical certificate which shows the cause of death
- the person's passport and proof of address, if you have them
- the person's medical card, if possible, and
- the person's birth and marriage or civil partnership certificates, if you have them.

You should tell the registrar:

- the date and place the person died
- the person's usual address (their only or main home)
- the person's first names and surname (and any other
- January if they were

  Jacupation and the name and occupation

  January in usband, wife or civil partner (if the person was married or in a civil partnership)

  If the person was getting a pension of benefit from the government, and the date of birth of their surviving husband, wife partner.

  The registrar who register

  a certificate of for

- form'), unless the coroner has given you an order for burial (form 100 or a certificate for cremation. These give permission for the body to be owned or for you to apply for the body to be cremated. You should take this to the funeral director so that the funeral can be held.
- a certificate of registration of death (form BD8). You should read the information on the certificate about the DWP Bereavement Service and call them to tell them about the death. They con do a benefits check of what you may be able to get take your claim for certain benefits over the phone and tell you who to contact to claim other benefits. If you can the DWP Bereavement Service to report the death you do not have to send in the BD8 form.

Phone 0345 606 0265 or 0345 606 0275 (if you speak Welsh and live in Wales) then:

select the option 'if you are calling to tell us about someone who has died, or check what help may be available following a bereavement'.

CONIN

If you register the death away from the area where the death took place, the registrar will post this information to you.

Tell Us Once

The 'Tell Us Once' service lets you tell some central and local government services that need to know about the deal by having just one contact. The 'Tell Us Once' service is offered by most local councils on behalf of the Department for Work and Pensions. The registrar will tell you which government services are taking part.

If your local council offers the service, the registrar will either offer you a Tell Us Once interview after you have registered the death or told them about it, or you will get a unique service reference number and contact details so you can tolk care of this over the phone or online at www.gov.uk/tell-us once

You can use the Tell Us Once service if you have received a 'certificate of the fact a death' from the coroner. Take the certificate to your local council if they are offering the Tell Us Once service.

You will not be able to make a new claim for a bereavement benefit or a timeral payment through the Tell Us Once service. If you want to make a claim to be eavement benefits or a funeral payment, contact the DWP Bereavement Service.

Phone 0345 606 0205 (0345 606 0275 if you speak Welsh and live in Wales).

The depth certificate

The death certificate is a certified copy of what is written in the death register. The registrar can let you have a death certificate if you want one, but you will have to pay a fee.

You will need a death certificate if you need to apply for Probate (see page 30), and for any pension claims, insurance policies, savings certificates and premium bonds.

You may want to ask for more than one copy of the death certificate straight away, as the price goes up if you need one later on. The registrar may not be able to give you all the copies straight away. They may ask you to call back or ask you to pay an

If a baby is stillborn baby

Some of pregnancy of the control of t examined the body, you must sign a term (form 35) which the registrar will give you.

The registrar will give you a certificate for burial of cremation and a certificate of registration of sillbirth.

You can ask to have a first name and surname for a stillborn baby registered. The registral will write the baby's name in the register and on the certificate.

You can give any registrar in Englocal or Wales the information to register a stillbirth. The procedure to register a stillbirth is similar to the procedure for registering a death (see page 11).

To find out more about and anging a funeral for a stillborn baby, see page 17.

If your baby tos soon after being born

If your baby born alive and then dies, you can still get Statutory Maternity Allowance if you meet the qualifying conditions.

Muwill be given a medical certificate signed by the midwife or doctor and you should give this to the registrar. If there wasn't a doctor or midwife there, and no doctor or midwife has examined the body, you must sign a form which the registrar will give you.

The registrar will give you a certificate for burial or cremation.

To find out more about arranging a funeral or how to register a death, see page 11.

Maternity benefits

If your baby is born alive and then dies, you may still get one of these maternity benefits.

Summary of forms and certificates

Here are some fine.

Here are some of the forms and cenificates the regist you when you register a death. The list explains when you get each form.

When you register and ath	You wilkusually get
If no coroner has bued a certificate for schnation or a burial order	certificate for burial or comation (the green form)
If DWZ needs to know about the death	certificate of registration of death (form BD8)
If you need evidence of the death for the will pensions claims, insurgince policies, savings certificates or premium bonds	death certificate
If a baby is stillborn	registration of stillbirth
I Daby is stillborn and you want a burial or cremation	certificate for burial or cremation (the white form)
If the local council where you register a death is providing a Tell Us Once service	Letter with a Tell Us Once unique service reference number

Arranging the funeral

Do not make final funeral arrangements until you are sure that you do not have to report the death to the coroner. This may affect the date when the funeral can organisation for the person who lied belonged to.

Arranging the funeral without a funeral director

Many people choose to use a professional funeral director to organise a funeral. They do this partly because it is essier, at what is usually a stressful time.

You can organise a funeral without the help of a funeral director, but you should ask the cemeteries and rematorium department of your local council for advice.

Choosing a funeral director

Friends, family, clergy or your doctor may be able to suggest a local company with a good reputation. If not, most local firms are listed in the Yellow Pages. Remember, charges can vary considerably from firm to firm. You may want to control or visit more than one firm.

,tion on covil Most funeral directors choose to join one of the two trade associations below, so you may want to check this before choosing one. However, funeral directors do not have to be in a trade association.

National Association of Funeral Direct

Phone: 0845 230 1343 Website: www.nafd.org.uk

National Society of Allied Independent Independent Directors

Phone: 0845 230 67 Website: www.saiforg.uk

Both organisations have codes of practice. Funeral directors who are men bers have to give you a price list when you ask, and the will not increase and costs they give you without your permission.

The funeral director will need:

- the certificate for burial or cremation (the green form), or
- an order for burial or a certificate for cremation from the coroner

Funeral for a stillborn baby

The hospital may offer to arrange a burial or cremation, free of charge, for a stillborn baby, whether they were born in hospital or at home. You should discuss the funeral arrangements with the hospital staff or midwife.

If you accept the offer, the baby will be cremated or buried after a simple ceremony. Or you can arrange the funeral yourself if you prefer.

The funeral director will help you to decide where the body should stay until the funeral, and when and where the funeral should take place.

If there is going to be a service or cerestontact a minister for the minister for the able to help you.

Cremation

No one can be remated until the cause of death is definitely known. The crematorium usually needs:

- an application form signed by the next of kin or executor, and either
- two cremation certificates (the first signed by the treating doctor and cook her signed by a doctor not involved with the treatment of the person who has died), or
- a cremation form signed by the coroner (if the death has been investigated by the coroner).

You have to pay for the cremation certificates signed by the doctors. If the coroner investigates the death and orders a post-mortem or opens an inquest, you do not need these two certificates. Instead, the coroner will give you a free certificate for cremation.

CONI

You or someone you choose can make an appointment to see the two doctors' certificates before the cremation, if you tell the crematorium and give them your contact details.

If the crematorium is satisfied that the cause of death is confirmed, and that all the forms are filled in correctly, the 'medical referee' will sign the form to authorise cremation. If there is a problem the medical referee can refuse the cremation and make further enquiries, but must give a reason for doing so.

A 'medical referee' is appointed by the Secretary of State to authorise all cremations in a crematorium.

If the person died outside England and Wales, see peop 20.

It is important to make it clear to the funeral director or crematorium staff what you want to be done with the ashes. If this is not clear, they will need to contact you to discuss what they should do.

You can scatter someone's ashes in a carden of remembrance on heir favourite place, bury them in a churchyard a cametery, or bury or scatter them on private land if you have the landowner's permission, or you can keep them.

In the case of babies and very young children, there may be no ashes after a cremation. At some crematoriums you can arrange to have a memorial plaque which you may have to pay for.

Burial (

Before someone can be buried, you must have a death certificate signed by a doctor and a certificate for burial from the registrar of births and deaths.

You should find out if the person has already arranged a grave space in a churchyard or cemetery, by checking their will and looking through their papers. There will be a 'deed of grant' which shows that a grave space has been paid for in a cemetery. Most cemeteries are open to all faiths, so you can have most types of service or ceremony. These cemeteries are owned by local councils or private companies, and their fees

If the person died outside England and Wales

Registering someone's death

If the person died in Scotlandor March egister their death in the state of the state o

If the person died abroad, or on a foreign ship or plane, you should register their eath in line with the laws of that country, and get a death wificate.

If the person woo died was a British national, you may also register the death with the Putish Consul in certain countries. If the death took place on a British-registered ship or plane, the death will be registered with the relevant authority in the UK (Registrar General for Shipping and Seamen, or the Civil Aviation Authority).

You will be able to get the death certificate from the British Consul who distered the death or, for deaths on ships and planes, for the Register Office.

Phone: 0300 123 1837

Website: www.gov.uk/order-copy-birthdeath-marriage-certificate

If the person died outside England and Wales in the circumstances listed on pages 5 and 6, or there is not full information about their death and their body is brought to England or Wales, you must report their death to the coroner where the funeral will be held, in the same way as if they had,

You can arrange a burial or cremation abroad The British Consul in that country can register the death. This choids the costs of bringing the body back to England or Wales

Bringing a body back to England or Wales

You may be able to bring the body back to England or Wales. Most funeral directors should be able to give you advice on how to go about this and what it is likely to cost

To bring a body back to ingland or Wales, you'll need the death certificate from the face the person and, or formal permission from the relevant authority in the mittry where the person died.

Arranging a burial in England or Wales

To arrange a burial in England or Wales for someone who died abroad, you'll need

- an approved translation of a foreign death certificate, or a death certificate issued in Scotland or Northern Ireland (these must show the cause of death), and
- a certificate of 'no liability to register' from the registrar in the grean England or Wales where the burial is going to take place. You do not need this certificate if a coroner has issued an order for burial.

Arranging a cremation

If a person died abroad and you have brought their body back to England or Wales to arrange a cremation, you will need a cremation order from the local coroner. You can get their details from any local funeral director.

In England or Wales, if you have either of the above for syou will not need the 2 forms signed by doctors. For teaths in Scotland, Northern Ireland, the Channel Islands on the Isle of Man, there are forms which you can use for a fremation.

CONIN

If the person did not die from natural cause, the coroner will start an investigation into their death. In these cases the coroner will issue a form for cremationer burial when the body is no longer needed for the investigation.

Paying for the functal

Funerals can be expensive So remember to check where the money for the funeral will come from before making any arrangements. Otherwise, you may have to pay the bill yourself.

Check first whether the person why has died had made any plans to pay for the funeral. The sections below give you some examples of what they might have arranged.

If no one is able or willing to arrange and pay for the funeral, the local council, or in some cases the health authority, may pay for the funeral. They will only do this if the funeral has not already been arranged was see page 25 about Funeral Payments.

If someone has arranged to pay for their own funeral

There may be money to pay for the funeral from money the person has left behind (their 'assets') or through schemes and pensions that they paid into during their life.

After someone dies, their bank account is 'frozen', unless it is a joint account. You may be able to use part of their savings to pay for the funeral. The bank will ask you to provide certain documents, which usually include the death certificate.

You should check the person's papers for a membership certificate of the Cremation Society, their life insurance policy or a funeral plan which has already been paid for. You should also look for letters from their past employers with details about any workplace pension scheme or personal pension. These might cover the cost of the funeral, and also provide other financial support for their surviving hasband, wife or civil partner.

If the person was living in hospital or presidential care-to-me, the hospital or home will hand over the person's belongings to the nearest relative, or to the person who has written permission from whoever is dealing with the will. There may be a limit on the value of the belongings the pospital or home can hand over. This is see by the local council for the area.

Employer's sension schemes or personal pensions

Many employers provide workplace pension schemes through work that pay a lump sure to help with funeral costs and sometimes pension benefits for a person's surviving husband, wife, civil partner or even children. You should check to see if the person who died has ever belonged to this sort of scheme. Look at their bank statements for payments from a pension scheme, or check with their employer. They may have made their own arrangements if they were self-employed, or if their employer did not have an employer's scheme.

If the person was getting a pension, or more than one, from a previous job or jobs, you should find out who is paying them. It might be an employer's pension scheme or an insurance company. You should tell the representative from that scheme about the person's death. Tell them if the person has a surviving husband, wife or civil partner or a dependent child or another dependent because ation on covil they may be able to get a pension. If they already get a pension they may be able to get more money.

If you have problems, you can get help from the Pension Tracing Service. You should find out if there was any pension due to

Phone: 0345 600 2537

Textphone: 0345 300 0169 (for people who find it hard to speakor hear clearly)

These lines or open Monday to friday from 9am to 5pt

Website: www.gov.uk/ma-lost-pension

Other pensions and payments

There may be pensions or lump sums payable from a trade union, professional body or other association, or from a provident club which pays benefit when a member dies.

If the person was getting a benefit before they died, there may be some of that benefit still due. When you tell the Department for Work and Pensions about the person's death, ask them to send you a form which you can use to claim any money owed.

If you are the executor, you will be paid this money. If there is no executor but you are paying for the funeral, you can claim up to the amount of the funeral costs.

Life insurance policies

ononGOVI The person who died may have taken out a life insurance policy which pays a lump sum if they die before a certain age. The lump sum is usually paid after the will has been dealt with but the insurance company may pay out some money when they have proof that the person has died.

The Cremation Society

If the person who died was a mermer of the Cremat Society you may be able to pay ower cremation fees. Or the Cremation Society may recy something towards the cost of the cremation.

Funeral Payments

If you or your partner are on a low ocome and have to arrange a function, you may get some help with the costs. A Funeral Fayment is a one off tax-free payment to help cover the necessary costs of a funeral. This includes:

- the necessary costs of a cremation, or
- the cost of reopering a grave and burial costs, or
- the cost of opening a new grave and burial costs, including gav 'exclusive right of burial fee' (this includes a reclain grave), and
- certail ther expenses such as the cost of the death certificate and certain transport costs, and
- Lip to £700 for any other funeral expenses like funeral director's fees, a coffin and flowers.

You must claim within 3 months of the date of the funeral.

You or your partner must get at least one of the following benefits:

- Income Support
- Income-based Jobseeker's Allowance
- Income-related Employment and Support Allowance
- Pension Credit
- tion on covil Working Tax Credit which includes a disability or selection. disability element
- Child Tax Credit at a rate higher than the family rate
- · Housing Benefit
- Universal Credit.

It must also be reasonable for you or your partner to pay for the funeral. We may produce to consider the? circumstances of other relatives of the person who has died.

For us to give financial kein, the person needs to have been living in the UK when they died, and the funeral usually needs to be keld in the UK.

If you get a Funeral Payment, you'll have to repay this from the estate of the person who died. Their estate includes money, property and other things that they owned. (Any home that it still lived in by a surviving partner or personal things left to relatives do not form part of the estate.)

How do I clair

You will read to fill in a claim form.

Go to www.gov.uk/browse/benefits and download the caim form SF200. Then print it out, fill it in by hand and post it to us. For more information, please contact Jobcentre Plus.

Also, you should contact the DWP Bereavement Service. They can do a benefits check of what you may be able to get, take your claim for certain benefits over the phone and tell you who to contact to claim other benefits.

Phone 0345 606 0265 (0345 606 0275 if you speak Welsh and live in Wales) then:

 select the option 'if you are calling to tell us about to meone who has died, or check what help may be available following a bereavement'.

The phone line is run by The Pension Service out deals with conform people of all ages.

When a war pensioner dies

We may pay expenses of £2,200 towards the cost of a funeral where a veteran dies and:

- death was due to service
- War Pensions Constant Attendance Allowance was being paid or would have been paid had the persioner not been in hospital when they died
- Unemployed bity Supplement was in payment at the time of death at a the War Pension Was being paid at the 80% rate or higher.

You will not have to pay any of the money back from the estate of the person who dieg.

A claim for functive expenses should be made within 3 months of the date of the faveral.

To claim of need to contact Veterans UK.

Phone: 0800 1914 218Textphone: 0800 169 3458

Monday to Thursday 7.30am to 6.30pm, Friday 7.30am to 5.00pm.

Website: www.veterans-uk.info

Other help

The hospital may arrange the funeral of someone who dies in hospital if they cannot trace the person's relatives, or if their relatives can't afford to pay for the funeral. The hospital may made. If they have a reason to think that the person who died did not want to be cremated they will not arrange a cremation. They may make a claim on the person's estate to pay for the funeral. Ask your council for more information.

Dealing with somble longer.

Dealing with someone's estate one belongings

The will

Before you start dealing with someone's property, you need to find out whether or not they left a will. If you can't find a will, or can find only a copy, sometime else may have it. This may be a bank, a solicitor, or the executor, and you should talk to them about it.

A will does not necessarily look like a legal document. Do not destroy any writen instructions left by the person who has died, because these may be their will.

A will says onat should happen to someone's estate when they die. A will has to be drawn up in line with strict rules. You may leed to get legal advice to check whether the document why Have is 'valid' – that is, it meets the requirements of those rules. If the person died leaving a valid will, their estate must be dealt with as set out in the will.

If there is no will (or no valid will), the person is said to have died 'intestate'. As a result, the estate must be dealt with in line with rules on 'intestacy', which set out who will inherit the estate, and how the estate will be shared tion on covil if more than one person inherits. A summary of the intestacy rules is on page 36.

Estate

A person's 'estate' is their money, property and belongings when they died. It may include intly owned property.

Jointly owned property

Two or more people may own the house or proper together as 'beneficial joint terants' or as 'terants' in common'.

- Beneficial joint tenants own the house or property jointly, so that the death of the to die the house or property passes to the survivor survivors) under the right of prvivorship. The house or property does not form part of the estate of the first person to die.
- Tenants in common ecch own a share in the house or property, and when one of them dies their share is included in their sate. It passes either according to their will, or (there is no will) follows the intestacy rules.

The nature the joint ownership should have been settled do recorded when the house or property was acquired - usually when it was bought. If you are not sure how he house or property is owned, you should get legal advice.

Getting permission to deal with the estate

If the person who died left a will, they will usually have asked an executor to deal with their estate.

3 non GOV! If the person did not name an executor or did not leave a will, an administrator will need to be appointed to deal with the estate. The administrator will usually be the person entitled to inherit under the intestacy rules. There can be more than one administrator.

Executors and administrators are also called personal representatives'.

If you are entitled to deal with someone's estate, you have to apply for permission from the Probate Service to manage it.

This permission is called 'a grant of representation' (or 'probate' for short). Or can apply for a grant of representation yourself or through a solicitor. There are three types of grapt ssued by the Probate Service. The grant issued will depend on the communication of the case.

Type of grant	X €iven to
Grant of 'probate'	One or more of the executors named in the will
Grant of 'letters of administration with will annexed)'	An administrator, who is appointed by a court when the executors named in the will are not available, not willing or not suitable to manage the estate, or if the will does not name executors
Grant of 'letters of administration'	Administrators when there is no valid will

You may be able to deal with someone's estate without having to apply for a grant of representation. You should contact the organisations holding the property, money and belongings of the person who died, to find out if they Jour CON'S need to see a grant before they release any assets to you.

For more information on how to get a grant of representation and about inheritance tax, contact the Probate and Inheritance Tax helpline.

Phone: 0300 123 1072

(Monday to Friday 9am to 5pm)

Website: www.gov.uk/inhextence-tax

You can also get information from the Probate Service. Go to www.justice.gov.uk and search for 'Probate Service'.

What does the executor or administrator need to do

As an executor administrator, you will have certain duties apdresponsibilities when dealing with the person's estate. You must:

- find out how much the restate is worth
- do everything you reasonably can to collect any money the person is owed
- pay any inheritance tax that might be due
- deal with only other outstanding tax matters up to the date of the person's death
- pay for the funeral
- ony liabilities (debts the person owed) from the assets in their estate, and
- pass on what is left of the estate to the people who are entitled to it.

Gathering details of someone's assets and liabilities

You should look carefully through the person's personal papers to find details of:

- iononGOVII • all their assets (such as bank accounts, building society accounts, insurance policies, share certificates, savings certificates, premium bonds and so on), and
- all their liabilities (such as money they owe for electricity, gas, water, phone bills and so on and personal debts such as credit agreements and credit card accounts).

You may be able to get back part of a money the person paid in advance for items whas a TV licence road tax, household insurance, council tax and soos. A tax refund might be due or sometax might still be owed up to the date of death. You should also find out which credit organisations the persocowed money to:

Make sure you of any debts

You should poonly debts, including funeral expenses, out of the person's estate. If there is no estate to pay for the funeral, see page 22.

You, as the executor or administrator, are responsible for paying the debts of the deceased out of their estate. You must make all efforts to trace any creditors of the estate.

You should tell the creditors that you are the executor or administrate. This may also mean telling organisations such as water, gas, electricity and telephone suppliers, and hire-purchase and rental companies.

One claim you may get is if DWP find they have paid too much benefit to someone who has died and ask for the overpayment back. If the person who died owes any National Insurance at the date of their death, this must also be paid out of the estate. If this is not paid, it may affect the benefit the surviving husband, wife or civil partner gets.

Snow GON! You may have to sell some or all of the assets in the state to pay off the debts of the person who died. However, do not rush into either selling assets or sharing of the estate. Get professional legal advice if you're not sakewhat to do.

Claiming any benefit someone week

The executor or administrator conclaim any state therefits someone is owed, even after they have died. They may be money due if the person was getting or had recently claimed a benefit.

To claim any benefit awed, first contact the DWP Bereavement Serme (see page 12 for details).

Sometimes, benefit can be paid mit nout having to claim if:

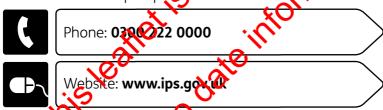

- the person who died was waiting for the result of an appeal against a decision about their benefit, or
- you think they may have been entitled to a benefit but did not claim it. You may be able to act on their behalf, and any benefit wey are owed may be paid to the estate. 4011 can

Things you will need to send back

You should send back the following items, with a note to explain what has happened and the date the person died:

- The person's passport. You should send this to the Identity and Passport Service for the of the posting it, please cut off the top right-hand corner of the passport. The Passport Office will give you where to send the passport.

  Phone: 030 • Any forms or cheques issued as part of a benefit claim.
- The person's passport. You should send this to the

- The person's driving licence. You should send this to: The Driver and Vehicle Kensing Agency Swansea SA99 1AB.
- The registration documents for the person's car, to record who now owns the car.
- Membership cards of any clubs, associations or trade unions.
- Library books and tickets.
- Any NHS equipment such as wheelchairs, hearing aids or artificial limbs.

- Disabled parking permit. You should send the disc back to your local council.
- Any certificates issued by the NHS Business Services Authority, for example a medical exemption certificate for free prescriptions. Phone 0300 330 1343.

www.the-bereavement-register.org.uk

You should also cancel things like the person's home keep services, meals-on-wheels, gas, water, electricity and telephone accounts.

People to tell

ou should

You should tell:

- any hospital thereon was going o for their medical appointments
- their dom
- HM Revenue & Customs
- Department for Work and Pensions Bereavement Service on 0345 606 0265 (0345 606 0275 if you speak Welsh and live (Wales)
- the person's employer and trade union
- the person's school or college
- the Student Loans Company, if they had a student loan
- the person's car insurance company (if you were insured) to drive the car under the person's name, you may not how be legally insured to drive the car)
- gas, water, electricity and telephone suppliers

- their local council (you may need to tell more than one department in the council, such as the housing, social services and council tax departments)
- the person's bank or building society
- the person's insurance company, and
- the Post Office so that they can redirect the person's post, if necessary.

Sharing out the estate and declin with claims on the estate

to administer the As executor or administrator, your role in estate.

Sharing out someone's property

When all the assets have been gathered in the taxes and debts have been paid, you, as the executor or administrator, must poss on what is left in the estate to the beneficiaries (persons entitled of get it). If there is a will, you must follow the instructions set out in the will.

If there is no will, you must distribute the estate in line with the laws of intestacy. The summary below explains the intestacy rules.

Summary of the intestacy rules

If a person dies leaving a husband, wife or civil partner, and children

The husband, wife or civil partner will take:

there ersonal chattels' such as household articles a 'statutory legacy' of the first £250,000 of the estate free of tax, and

• a life interest in half of the remaining estate (this may be turned into a capital sum, that is, money). The other half of the remaining estate goes to the children. If any child is under 18, this share is held in trust until either the child reaches 18 or gets married (whichever comes first). When the husband

..., wife or civil partner will take:

- the 'personal chattels' such as household offices

- a 'statutory legacy' of the first £450,000 ab the estate free of tax, and

- full ownership of half of the remaining estate.

The other half of the estate goes to the narwho has died (shared equallers') alive, then it is died. sisters, or their children they died before the deceased.

If a person dies with surviving husband, wife or civil partner

The estate goes to the person's boot or legally adopted relatives, in the following order:

- to they children, or children of a child of the deceased who died before the deceased, but if there are none
- to their parents, but Where are none
- to 'whole blood' brothers or sisters, or children of a brother or sister of the weased who died before the deceased, but if there are mone
- to their with blood' brothers or sisters, or children of a brother or sister of the half blood who died before the deceased, but if there are none
- to their grandparents, but if there are none
- to their 'whole blood' aunts or uncles, or children of aunts or uncles of the whole blood who died before the deceased, but if there are none

- to their 'half blood' aunts or uncles, or children of aunts and uncles of the half blood who died before the deceased, but if there are none
- to the Crown.

Other than parents and grandparents, if any relative listed above has already died but leaves children of their own, their share is divided equally among these chikaren.

'Personal Chattels'
These are personal ball furniture.

furniture, pictures, books and cars (but not more investments, property or business assets

'Whole blood' relatives share the safe mother and father.

'Half blood' relatives have only be parent in common.

Who can make delaim on an estate?

You do not have to related to the person who died. You can apply to the court for a share of their estate if they were supporting you financially in any way just before their death. This will apply to unmarried partners (or partners where there is no civi partnership) in a case where there is no will.

If you dualify, you must apply within six months of the date when the grant of representation was issued. The court may let you apply later in special circumstances.

If you want to apply, you should get legal advice as soon as possible after the person dies. Do not leave it until after the six months.

What happens if the person who dies has no relatives?

If there is no will and the person who died leaves no surviving husband, wife or civil partner, or blood or legally adopted relatives, the estate will go to the Crown. For make information, contact the Treasury Solicitor's Department

The Treasury Solicitor's Department (BV) One Kemble Street London WC2B 4TS

on CON; The effect of marriage, divorce and civil partnership on a will

If someone makes a will and then gets married of forms a civil partnership, their will is no larger valid unless the will is made 'in contemplation' of the marriage or civil partnership.

Generally, if someone makes a will and then gets divorced or ends (dissolves) a partnership:

- any gift left to their former hubband, wife or civil partner, and
- any appointment of their mer husband, wife or civil partner as executor does not take effect unless the will says otherwise.

Bereavement and tax

Telling HMRevenue & Customs (HMRC) that someone has died

HMR2 usually get information from Tell Us Once and DWP when someone dies. Tell Us Once is available at most local councils in England, Scotland and Wales. To use the service, your first step is to register the death with your local Register Office. They will then tell you what to do next.

If you do not use Tell Us Once, you should tell HMRC that the person has died, using the contact details below.

HMRC need to know the name and address of the person who is dealing with the tax affairs of the person who has died.

It will also help if you can give their date of birth and National Insurance number.

iononcovil Sorting out the tax and benefits of the person who died

Income Tax

Once HMRC has made contact with the Personal Representative, they will let them know if there is a refund due or any tax is owed.

If the person who diet had complex tax of airs, the Personal Representative may need to in a Self Assessment tax return.

HMRC have tax advisors who can help you with any auestion on Income Tax when someone dies. They can be contacted using the details below.

Phone: 0300 200 3300 Textpoole: 0300 200 3319

8am to 8pm Monday to Friday, Saturday 8am to 4pm.

National Insurance contributions

If necessary, HMRC will check to see if the correct National Insurance contributions have been paid. For more information:

If the person who died was getting Tox Tredits, or if you are getting them as a couple with the person who died the payments will need to be stopped. HMRC should stop payments when they are told about mportant that payments are paid too much more will be paid to be stopped.

Child Tax Credits will shally be paid for eight weeks from the date that a chiral died. If you had joint claim with the person who djed, you may be aby a make a new claim. For more information:

Phone: 0345 306 3900 Textphone: 0345400 3909

8am to 8pm Monday to Friday, Saturday 8am to 4pm.

Inheritance Tax

If you need to apply for probate to get the legal right to administer and distribute an estate you will need to fill in Inheritance Tax forms, even if the estate doesn't need to pay Inheritance Tax. Inheritance Tax usually only needs to be paid if the estate - including any assets held in trust, and gifts made by the person who has died within seven years of their death – is valued over the Inheritance Tax 'threshold' (set at £325,000 until 5 April 2015). Sometimes this threshold can be increased: for example, if the person who died was a widow, widower or surviving civil partner and their husband, wife or civil partner left their estate to them when they died.

If the person who died ran their own business, either as a sole trader, partner or company director you may need to contact HMRC to sort out employer or VAT matters as their personal tax, National Insurance by HMRC.

Go to

www.gov.uk/after-a-death/taxand-benefits

Sorting out tax: the effect on the surviving husband wife or civil partner

The death of your husband, wife or civil partner may affect the amount of tax that you pay. Make sure you fill in the section 'About' surviving spouse or civil partner' of form R27 if any of the following apply:

- the death changes the amount of pensions, annuities or benefit that you get - for example, if you now get a new pension, an existing pension goes up or down, or you get Bereavement Allowance
- Nor husband, wife or civil partner was getting Blind Person's Allowance or Married Person's Allowance, or
- you had previously registered to get bank or building society interest without tax taken off and your income has now gone up.

If you need to write to HMRC about Income Tax and bereavement, the address is:

HMRC

Pay As You Earn and Self Assessment PO Box 4000 Cardiff CF14 8HR

on on GOV! HMRC also has an online guide to bereavement. a short questionnaire which can provide a tailgred quide to the steps needed when dealing with HMR when someone has died.

HMRC online bereavement tool:

www.gov.uk/after-a-death/tax-and-benefits

There are also tax charities that may be able to help you:

Tax Help for Older People – for people over 60 and with an income under £17,000 come ar

Website: www.axvol.org.uk

Phone: 6845 601 3321 or 01308 488066

Email: taxvol@taxvol.org.uk

Tax Aid – for people with an income under £17,000 a year

Website: www.taxaid.org.uk Phone: 0345 120 3779

Help and support for you

If someone in your family dies it can cause money problems. This may only be for a short time, while you wait for their on GOV!IY estate to be shared out, or you may need long-term help.

This section is about benefits and other help you might be able to get after someone dies.

If you are widowed or your civil partner dies, thereal different kinds of benefits you can get. The benefityou get may depend on your age or the number of children you have living with you.

The type and amount of bereavement benefit you can ge is based on your husband's, wife's or avil partner's Nation Insurance contributions.

If you marry someone else, form a civil partnership, or live with someone as if they are your husband, wife or civil partner, you can't carry or getting bereavement benefits.

Bereavement benefits

The Bereavenent Benefit Scheme was introduced on 9 April 2001, and applies to people will owed on or after this date. It also applies to people who became surviving civil partners on or after 5 December 2005.

You may be able to got a Bereavement Payment and either:

- Widowed Parent's Allowance, or
- Bereavement Allowance.

For you to waiffy for these bereavement benefits, your husband, wife or civil partner must have paid National Insurance contributions. The contributions you've paid do nbt count for these benefits.

If they died because of an accident at work or an industrial disease, we will treat your case as if your husband, wife or civil partner had paid full National Insurance contributions.

Bereavement Payment

A Bereavement Payment is a tax-free lump-sum payment of £2,000 to help you at the time your husband, wife or civil partner dies.

you were living with sommarried or in a converse of the solution of the soluti

- you were in prisorfor legal custod

You can claim Bereavement Parment up to 12 months after your hasband, wife or civil partner died.

Widowed Parent's Allowance

Widowed Parent's Allowance is a regular payment you can get if:

- you're under State Pension age
- your huspand, wife or civil partner had paid enough National Insurance contributions, and either
- you have at least one child you're either getting Child Benefit for, or
- you're expecting the child of your late husband or civil partner (including as a result of IVF) and you were living with them just before they died.

If you are affected by the High Income Child Benefit charge and have not made a claim to Child Benefit, you will need to make one if you want to receive Widowed Parent's Allowance. Find out more about the High Income Child Benefit charge at www.gov.uk/child-benefit-tax-charge oncovil You must claim within three months of your husband, w civil partner dying, or you may lose benefit.

Widowed Parent's Allowance stops when you no longer have a dependent child. If this is within 52 weeks of your husband, wife or civil partner dying, you make able to get Bereavement Allowance.

You have to pay tax on Widowed Parent's Allowance.

You may also get Child Tax Credit (See page 54). This replaced the 'child dependency increase 'payment from 6 April 2003.

Bereavement Allowak

Bereavement Allowance is a regular payment which you can aet if:

- vou were 45 or over but below store Pension age when your husband, wife or civil partner died, and either
- they had paid enough National Insurance contributions, or
- their death was caused by their job.

You can't get Bereayement Allowance if, at the time your husband, wife or me partner died:

- you were divorced from them or your civil partnership had been leggly ended
- you were living with someone else as if you were married or in a civil partnership with them, or
- 1 you were in prison or legal custody.

You must claim within three months of your husband's, wife's or civil partner's death, or you may lose benefit.

How to claim bereavement benefits

You don't claim for each benefit separately. To start your claim you can:

3non GOV! 1 Contact the DWP Bereavement Service. They will do a quick. check of what benefits you may be able to get, and take your claim over the phone.

Phone 0345 606 0265 (0345 606 0275 if you speak and live in Wales) then:

- select the option 'if you are calling to tell's about someone who has died, or check what available following a bereavement
- 2 Download claim form 'BB1' yourself at www.gov.uk/bereavement-allowance/how-to

Your benefit entitlements may changed

You may find that can use your husband's, wife's or civil partner's National Insurance cutributions to claim new or increased benefits.

If you think this may affect other benefits that you already get, you must contact the DWP Bereavement Service (see page 12).

State Pension

The government is changing the State Pension from 6 April 2016. The pew State Pension will be for people who reach State Pension or after that date. This means:

- menborn on or after 6 April 1951
- women born on or after 6 April 1953.

If you reach State Pension age before 6 April 2016

The State Pension can be made up of basic State Pension and additional State Pension. Additional State Pension is known as SERPS or State Second Pension.

on GOV. JY If you don't qualify for a full basic State Pension on your on National Insurance record, your late spouse's or civil partier's National Insurance contributions may be used to increase your basic State Pension to up to a maximum of the full vote.

If they died because of an accident at work or an industrial disease, we will treat them as if they had partial National Insurance contributions.

You may also get some of their additional State Pension

If you were widowed or your civil to ther died while were under State Pension age, you may get some of their additional State Pension paid as part of pidowed Parent's Allowance. Otherwise, it will be paid when you claim you wan State Pension or straight away if you already getting State Pension.

If you were under Store Pension age Wen your husband, wife or civil partner died you will not be about o get any State Pension based on the National Insurance contributions if you get married avair or form a new Civil partnership before you reach State Pension age.

If you reach State Pension age on or after 6 April 2016

Your State Pension be worked out under new rules and will be based on your own National Insurance contributions.

You will not mally be able to use your late spouse's or civil partner's contributions to increase your State Pension, but if you're woman who paid married women's and widow's reduced-rate National Insurance contributions, you may be able ta q⊌alify under special rules.

You may still be able to inherit some of your late spouse's or civil partner's additional State Pension. This will be worked out in the same way as under the existing State Pension system.

As now, if you remarry or form a new civil partnership before you reach State Pension age, you will not be able to inherit any of your late spouse's or civil partner's State Pension.

oncovil You can find out more about the new State Pension by going to

www.gov.uk/new-state-pension

Please remember that the State Pension counts as taxable income'.

To find out more about State Pension, contact DWP.

Phone: 0345 60 60 265 (0346 60 60 275 if you speak Welsh and live in Wales)

Textphone: 0345 60.60 285 (0345 60 60 295 if you speak Welshand live in Wales

Website: www.gov.uk/state-pension

Employment and Support Allowance

If you are sick you could get imployment and Support Allowance. There are two types of Employment and Support Allowance:

- contribution-based if you have paid (or been credited with) enough National Insurance contributions, and
- income-related, if you don't have enough money coming in or savings, or you haven't paid (or been credited with) enough National Insurance contributions.

Contribution-based Employment and Support Allowance counts ct 'taxable income' and you might need to check your tax position.

Any bereavement benefit you get may affect the amount of Employment and Support Allowance you get, so ask Jobcentre Plus to explain this to you.

If you have not paid enough National Insurance contributions to get contribution-based Employment and Support Allowance and your husband, wife or civil partner has died, you could get special credits to get contributionbased Employment and Support Allowance.

To get special credits, you must be sick and must have stopped getting certain bereavement benefits. You con get special credits if your bereavement benefit stops because you:

- · get married again

Payments can be made units scheme for incl. Payments can be made under the Industrial Induses scheme for industrial accidents and diseases which happened or were coosed through work, or while unemployed and taking part in a work-based training scheme. Paymen fore made based on the level of disablement as a result of the inautrial accident or disease.

If your husband, wife or civil partner (or if you don't have one of these, one of your parents) has died and had an injury from an accident or a disease that happened through work, you way be able to claim Industrial Injuries Disablement Bore it now. The claim can be backdated for up to 3 months before their death. To get it, you have to:

- claim within 12 months of the issue of the death certificate
- gable to become an appointee within 6 months of the lissue of the death certificate, and
- claim within 6 months of becoming an appointee.

You may get less benefit if any of these conditions are not met.

ation on covil

CONI

Industrial injuries benefits can be paid with other benefits. However, it can count as income if you are getting incomerelated benefits. If you are already getting, or thinking about claiming, income-related benefits you should ask an adviser from a jobcentre or pension centre.

Lump-sum payments for industrial diseases

If you decide to make a claim for Industrial Injuries Disablement Benefit because your husband, wife or civil partner would have been getting it if they were still alive, you may also be able to get an extra lump-sum payment if your husband, wife or civil partner was disabled as a result of one of five dust-related diseases caused through work.

If your husband, wife or civil partner died from mesothelioma, you may be able to get a lump-sum payment whether or not they were getting Industrial Injuries Disablement Benefit.

Claims for lump-sum payments must be made within 12 months of the date of death.

Funeral grants when a veteran dies

If the person who died served in HM Armed Forces before 6 April 2005, you may be able to get a funeral grant if:

- · death was due to their service
- War Pensions Constant Attendance Allowance was being paid or would have been paid had they not been in hospital when they died, or
- Unemployability Supplement was being paid when they died and War Pension was being paid at the 80% rate or ligher.

You will not have to pay any of the funeral grant back from the estate of the person who died.

You need to make a claim for a funeral grant within 3 months of the date of the funeral.

To claim you need to contact Veterans UK.

Phone: 0800 1914 218 Textphone: 0800 169 3458

iononcovil Monday to Thursday 7.30am to 6.30pm, Friday 7.30am to 5.00pm.

Website: www.veterans-uk.info

Help to bring up a baby or the Child Benefit

If you are a parent you should already be getting child Benefit.

If, after someone die become responsible for bringing up their child you should also claim Child Benefit for that child as soon as possible. If you have a child that dies you may be entitled to Child Benefit Athem for up to eight weeks after her death. For more information contact HM Revenue & Customs.

Phone: 0300 2003101 Textphone 0300 200 3103

8am to 8pm Monday to Friday, Saturday 8am to 4pm

Website: www.gov.uk/child-benefit

Guardian's Allowance

You may also be able to get Guardian's Allowance if, after someone dies, you become responsible for bringing up their child.

To get Guardian's Allowance, you must be entitled to Child Benefit for the child. Also, one of the child's parents must have been born in the UK, or on the date the parent (or parents), tild, one of them must have been in the UK for at least 52 weeks in any two-year period since the age of 16.

Usually, both the child's parents must be decorbut in some circumstances Guardian's Allowance can be baid when only parent has died.

If only one parent has died, you may still be able to get the date of that parent's death:

- the surviving parent can't be traced and their whereabouts are not known
- the surviving parent is in prison with at least two years left to serve or is in hospital detained by a court order
- the parents were divorced or their will partnership legally ended, and the surviving partner was not awarded custody of the child and sn't maintaining them or ordered by a court to maintain them, or
- the parents weren't manied, the mother has died and the child's father is not known.

You can claim Child Renefit and Guardian's Allowance at the same time. If you have already made a claim for Child Benefit, make your claim for Guardian's Allowance as soon after this as possible.

Help if you do not have enough to live on a low income

If your husband, wife or civil partner dies, you may find that your income goes down, and you may have problems making ends meet. You may qualify for one or more types of support for people on a low income.

Working Tax Credit is designed to help people who work but are on a low income. The amount you get depends on a number of things, such as your income, whether you are responsible for children, and the number of hours you work.

To qualify for Working Tax Credit you need to do paid for work for at least:

• 16 hours a week if you are aged 60 or over or have a disability

• 30 hours a week if you are aged 25 or over the control of the control

To qualify for Working Tax Credit need to do paid or work for at least 16 hours a week.

You may also get help with some of your child are costs.

You do not have to pay tok on Working Tox Credit.

Child Tax Cxedit

Child Tax Credit is an allowance you may get if you're responsible for a child who normally lives with you.

Whether you qualify and the amount you may get depends on a number of things, such as your household income and the number of children you have and how old they are.

You claim tax creats from HM Revenue & Customs.

Rome: 0345 300 3900 Textphone: 0345 300 3909

8an to 4pm.

Website: www.gov.uk/child-tax-credit

Income Support

If you cannot work more than 16 hours a week and do not have enough money to live on, you may get Income Support. You must:

- be under 60
- have less than £16,000 in savings, and
- work less than 16 hours a week.

ghon covil You may have to talk to a job adviser to see if work is an option for you, before you can get Income Support. For more information go to our website at www.gov.uk/income-support

Jobseeker's Allowance

Jobseeker's Allowance is the main benefit, or can get if you're out of work, a you work for less than 16 hours a week on average and actively looking for work. To's benefit counts as 'taxable income'.

There are two pes of Jobseeker's Allowance.

- The first's contribution-based Jobseeker's Allowance. You may get this if you've paid enough National Insurance contributions in the last two tax years. We can pay this for up to 182 days. Generally, self-employed contributions will not help you qualify for contributionsbased Jobseeker's Allowance.
- The second type is income-based Jobseeker's Allowanie. It's based on your income and savings.

If you have savings over £16,000, you can't usually get ircope-based Jobseeker's Allowance.

For more information contact Jobcentre Plus or go to www.gov.uk/jobseekers-allowance

Pension Credit

If you have reached the qualifying age, you may be able to get Pension Credit to top up your income. There are ation on cov. V two parts to Pension Credit: the Guarantee Credit and the Savings Credit. The Guarantee Credit tops up your income to a minimum level. The Savings Credit is for people age? 65 or over who have saved towards their retiremen

To find out if you have reached the Pension Credit qualifying age you can use the State Pension cae calculator:

www.gov.uk/calculate-state-pension

Important – changes to Savings Credit

As part of the Pensions Act 2014, the Savgarredit part of Pension Credit will cose for people reaching State Pension age on or ofter 6 April 2016, Following changes in the law, this Michael those with a partner who reached State Rension age before April 2016. However, some protection will be given to these couples who were already getting Saving Credit on 6 April 2016.

You can apply for Pension Credit by contacting DWP.

Phone: 6800 99 1234 Textphone: 0800 169 0133

8am to Monday to Friday

Website: www.gov.uk/pension-credit

Housing Benefit

Housing Benefit helps towards your rent and service charges. You may be able to get it if you are on a low income and do not have a lot of savings.

For owner occupiers, help with mortgage interest payments may be available for those who get income Support, income-based abseeker's Alloward related Employment and Support Alloward alled Support for Mortan alled Support for Mortan aid direct to Garman mount. amount properties only the interest.

You can find up

Universal Credit

From 29 April 2013, Universal Credit was introduced in some areas of the country.

iououconin Universal Credit is a new single payment if you are under State Pension age and looking for work or on a low income. Universal Credit will eventually replace:

- income-based Johseeker's Allowance
- income-related Employment and Support Allowa
- Income Support
- Child Tax Credits
- Working Tax Credits
- · Housing Benefit.

You can find more information online, including whe Universal Credit will be introduced and what thinight mean for you.

www.gov.uk/universalar@i

Help with health costs

If your income is below a certain level or you are getting certain benefits (for example, Income Support, income-based do seeker's Allowance, income-related Employment and Support Allowance or tax credits), you may be able to get help with health costs.

To find out more about help with health costs from the NHS, ask at your doctor's surgery or health clinic.

Phone: 0300 330 1343

Website: www.nhs.uk/healthcosts

ou CON;

Call charges

You can use the 0845 code to call any of our 0345 numbers. Check with your phone company which code is cheaper for you.

Charges were correct as of the date on the back of this leaflet.

Calls to 0800 numbers are free from BT land lines by you may have to pay if you use another phone company, a mobile phone, or if you are calling from abroad.

Calls to 0845 numbers from BT land lines should cost no more than 4p a minute with a 15p call set-up charge. You may have to pay more if you use another phone company or a mobile phone, or if you are calling from abroad

Calls from mobile phones car cost up to 40p a minute, so check the cost of calls with your service provide:

You can ask us to call we back if you're toncerned about the cost of the call.

Textphones

Our text have numbers are the people who cannot speak or hear clearly. If you don't have a textphone, you could check if your local library or Citizens Advice has one. Textphones don't receive text messages from mobile phones.

Important information about this leaflet

This leaflet is only a guide and does not cover every circumstance. We have done our best to make sure that the information in this leaflet is correct as of October 2014. It is CONI possible that some of the information is oversimplified, or new become inaccurate over time, for example because of conges to the law.

You can find more information about benefits or online.

For benefits information, go www.gov.uk/browse/benefits

Tour can find up to date www.gov.uk/browse/working/state

© Crown copyright ISBN 978-1-78425-348-6 DWP011 | v1.0 (October 2014)