FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT 2000 REQUEST REF: 0211-16

Thank you for your email of 18 February asking for information under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) 2000. You asked:

'In relation to the case of Abdul-Hakim Belhaj and another v Jack Straw and others, since June 2012:

On how many occasions and on which dates did FCO officials (including civil servants and ministers) communicate with US officials regarding Mr Belhaj's case.

The term "communicate" includes any written (such as letters and emails) and oral (such as face-to-face meetings and telephone conversations) communication.

The terms "US officials" includes US government employees working in the State Department or any other US government agency.'

I am writing to confirm that we have now completed the search for the information which you requested. I can confirm that the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) does hold information relevant to your request.

Our records show that FCO officials communicated with US officials regarding Mr Belhaj's civil case on 4 April 2013.

Once an FOI request is answered, it is considered to be in the public domain. To promote transparency, we may now publish the response and any material released on gov.uk in the FOI releases section. All personal information in the letter will be removed before publishing.

The copies of information being supplied to you continue to be protected by the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988. You are free to use it for your own purposes, including any non-commercial research you are doing and for the purposes of news reporting. Any other re-use, for example commercial publication, would require the permission of the copyright holder. Most documents supplied by the FCO will have been produced by government officials and will be protected by Crown Copyright. To re-use Crown Copyright documents please consult the Open Government Licence v3 on the National Archives website.

Information you receive which is not subject to Crown Copyright continues to be protected by the copyright of the person, or organisation, from which the information originated. You must ensure that you gain their permission before reproducing any third party (non-Crown Copyright) information.

Yours sincerely
