Freedom of Information Act 2000 Request

You asked for the following information from the Government Legal Department (“the Department”):

“I have a copy of her death certificate which does not suggest that she was married or give a maiden name.

However, on your latest spreadsheet you indicate that she was a widow and also went by the name of Crolla.

Please can you let me know where this information has come from and whether you hold a birth certificate for her? If you do, then it would be very helpful if you could let me have the reference of that birth certificate so that I might order it”.

Your request will be dealt with by the Bona Vacantia Division (“the Division”) under the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

The Division holds some of the information that you have requested.

Information provided by South Tyneside Council confirms the deceased was spinster, her occupation was a housewife, that she never married and that her previous name was Crolla. The unclaimed list has now been updated to reflect the information provided.

The division does not hold a birth certificate for the deceased.
