

Authorisation for copying, issuing to the public and making available for inspection on-line of United Kingdom patent applications and specifications and English translations of European Patents (UK)

As set out in the notice published in December 1990, and pursuant to section 47(3) of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, the Comptroller-General of Patents Designs and Trade Marks authorised the acts of copying and issuing to the public of copies of United Kingdom patent applications or United Kingdom patent specifications made open to public inspection pursuant to a statutory requirement, and English translations of French and German specifications of European patents (UK) filed at the Patent Office and published in accordance with the Patents Act 1977, for the purpose of disseminating information about matters of general scientific, technical, commercial or economic interest.

Amendments have been made to section 47(3) of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1998 by the Copyright (Public Administration) Regulations 2014 (SI 2014/1385). As a result of this the Comptroller-General of Patents Designs and Trade Marks confirms that he continues to authorise the acts of copying and issuing as set out above. He now also authorises the making available of such material for inspection on-line, providing that it is not already commercially available to the public

The above authorisation applies in respect of any patent specifications published on or after 1 August 1989. In 1969 the Comptroller of Her Majesty's Stationery Office gave notice that no steps would normally be taken to enforce Crown Copyright in United Kingdom patent specifications. That notice continues to apply to patent specifications published before 1 August 1989 in which the Crown holds rights.
