

River Thames – river restriction

Henley Reach From Wednesday 21 May to 06:00 on Monday 16 June 2014 Henley Royal Regatta course construction

Directions for navigation and general information during the construction period:

The Henley Royal Regatta course is being constructed during the above dates. The following restrictions will apply to all boats, including power driven, manually propelled or sailing, which are navigating anywhere between Henley Bridge and the downstream end of Temple Island:-

All boats travelling downstream must navigate on the Berkshire, Remenham side of the river within the regatta course.

All boats travelling upstream must navigate on the Buckinghamshire, Fawley Court side of the river.

Boats may cross from one side of the river to the other provided they do not impede any boats travelling up or downstream.

No mooring is allowed within the regatta course booms at any time.

No mooring is allowed to the bank in the vicinity of the site of the former Fawley Court Boathouse.

Andrew Graham
Harbourmaster 21
May 2014

Notice archived: This river restriction is no longer in force.