I would like to comment on this product.

I have difficulties with colds in that I suffer immensely with nasal congestion whilst suffering and try lots of over the counter remedies. I do use this product and get good response from its soothing effects in opening the airways which assist in the free passage of blocked mucus.

However, I have to say that it tends (on me) to have an opposite effect well before the 10 day suggested period of use. If I use it for 5 days or slightly more I feel I need to use it more than the once per day to gain the same soothing effect.

Obviously I am medically trained and attempt to avoid this with other products. I can see the uneducated would continue to use this product with adverse effects.

I hope this assists your investigation.
