Freedom of Information Act 2000 Request

You asked for the following information from the Government Legal Department (“the Department”):

We have been informed by [redacted] that they have accepted a claim from [redacted] and we attach a copy of your letter to [redacted] dated 24th November 2016.

The letter to [redacted] has not been signed by the BV and therefore we would be most grateful if you would compare it to the original letter that you sent them and confirm that the copy letter that we have from them is full and complete in order to confirm its authenticity.

Your request will be dealt with by the Bona Vacantia Division (“the Division”) under the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

The Division holds all the information that you have requested.

I have withheld the information from the file as it is exempt from disclosure under section 41 of the Act as the Division considers that the information was provided to [redacted] in confidence, and that to reveal the information would constitute an actionable breach of the duty of confidence.

In considering whether disclosure would be an actionable breach of confidence the Division has considered whether there is a public interest in disclosing the information that would outweigh the public interest in keeping the information confidential.

There is a strong public interest in keeping confidential information that has been disclosed in confidence, and in this case there is no specific reason in favour of disclosure of the information. Disclosure would not protect public safety, nor would it expose wrongdoing such as misfeasance, maladministration, negligence or other iniquity on the part of the Division. In this case the Division considers that the public interest in keeping the information confidential outweighs the public interest in disclosing it.
