

THE QUEEN'S AWARDS FOR ENTERPRISE 2013

The Queen's Awards for Enterprise

Background Note:
Business Awards

BACKGROUND

1. The Award Scheme, originally known as The Queen's Award to Industry, was instituted by Royal Warrant in 1965 following the recommendations of a Committee chaired by HRH The Duke of Edinburgh. The first awards were made in 1966.

The Scheme was reviewed in 1970 by a Committee chaired by Lord McFadzean and in 1975 by one again chaired by HRH The Duke of Edinburgh, as a result of which The Queen's Award to Industry was replaced in 1976 by two separate Awards – The Queen's Award for Export Achievement and The Queen's Award for Technological Achievement.

In 1993 a third Award, The Queen's Award for Environmental Achievement, was instituted by Royal Warrant. The Scheme continued until 1999 when a Committee chaired by HRH The Prince of Wales carried out a comprehensive review. They recommended that the Awards be collectively known in future as The Queen's Awards for Enterprise with three categories of Award for outstanding achievement in International Trade, Innovation and Environmental Achievement. The last was to be replaced as soon as possible by a category for outstanding achievement in Sustainable Development. The first Queen's Awards for Enterprise were made in 2000 and the Sustainable Development category introduced in 2001. The Review Committees' recommendations form the basic rules under which the Scheme operates.

2. The criteria for the Awards for International Trade, Innovation and Sustainable Development are given below. Details of the number of Awards granted and entries received are given in Annexes B and C.

3. HM The Queen makes the Awards on the advice of the Prime Minister, who is assisted by an Advisory Committee that includes representatives of Government, industry and commerce, and the trade unions. They are announced annually on 21 April, The Queen's birthday.

4. The Advisory Committee is served by three Panels of Judges to examine entries, one for each category of Award. Each Panel is chaired by a Permanent Secretary: Department for Business, Innovation and Skills (Innovation), Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Sustainable Development), and the Chief Executive of United Kingdom Trade and Investment (International Trade). There are no set numbers of Awards, the nature of the Scheme is competitive and the Advisory Committee is charged with maintaining a high standard. The membership of the Advisory Committee is given in Annex A.

5. Since the entries are judged solely on merit, there is no allocation of Awards for particular industries or regions, although there is usually at least one winner in each of the English regions, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

6. All organisations – large, medium or small – which operate regularly as a ‘business unit’ in the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man and which can meet the criteria, are eligible to enter; they do not need to be sponsored or nominated. Unlike personal Honours, these Awards are given to a business as a whole; entries are not accepted from individuals, but sole proprietorships with at least 2 full time employees are eligible. Entries are accepted from ‘divisions’ within organisations if they have sufficient separate identity.

7. Businesses will also be required to provide assurances of responsible conduct in managing the impact on society and the environment, in the selection and control of suppliers, management of the production process and of human resources, and customer service. They will be invited to provide evidence of success in these fields, including any specific initiatives. Such evidence will count in the entrant’s favour.

8. Entries will first be appraised by contracted technical assessors. Those which pass this stage will then be considered by Committees which appraise the relative merits and commercial success of the business concerned. Any entries that may bring a reputational risk to the Awards will not be accepted.

9. Unsuccessful businesses receive feedback on the assessment of their entry. This highlights their perceived strengths and weaknesses, indicating whether the entry has failed to match the competitive standard when judged by one of the key criteria or has been unsuccessful for some other reason. It may also indicate the assessors’ view of their underlying performance and provide guidance about how they might improve their entry, should they decide to re-enter.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

10. Businesses may enter under either of the following:

Outstanding achievement in international trade, resulting in substantial growth in overseas earnings and in commercial success, sustained over not less than three years, to levels which are outstanding for the goods or services concerned and for the size of the business operations.

or:

Continuous achievement in international trade, resulting in substantial overseas earnings with growth and commercial success, sustained over not less than six years, to levels which are outstanding for the goods or services concerned and for the size of the business operations.

11. Businesses should provide a written outline of the achievements which are the subject of the entry. They will need to provide information about their international marketing strategy and its implementation, as well as trading results.

12. Businesses will need to show that the pattern of growth of earnings amounts to "commercial success", by reference to such indicators as they see fit. These may include details of profitability, turnover, market share, performance in relation to business plan targets, and others. Estimates of earnings are acceptable as evidence of commercial success, provided that these estimates are auditable and their accuracy can be confirmed by an auditor's certificate. If estimates are provided, particulars of the methodology used in preparing the estimates must be given. In all cases, the entrant must show that total earnings including overseas earnings are consistent with (or exceed) an international marketing strategy for the goods or services concerned. Overseas earnings may include business done in the UK with overseas customers. The term "UK" includes the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man.

13. Figures are required over either three or six consecutive financial years and the final year must end between the preceding 1 October and 30 September of year of entry. Entrants can choose any year ending in this period but they must be their financial year end dates.

14. Businesses should explain how the increase in overseas earnings has been achieved (for example, through improved export sales, marketing organisation or new export market initiatives), and to describe any special market factors.

15. Generally indirect exporters of goods are ineligible, except in special cases of major components, (e.g. marine engines) where the producer clearly demonstrates that they have undertaken the selling effort overseas.

16. Assessors will examine the figures supplied in the entry to see how far overseas earnings have increased, and the extent to which the increased business has been sustained over the period. Each year of the entry period must show growth in overseas earnings over the preceding year. They will compare the level of overseas earnings and the rate of increase with those of others trading in similar goods and/or services, and the general trend in international trade. The size of the business's operations will also be taken into account. In addition the assessors will consider the overall performance of the unit, taking into account:

- the level of overseas sales achieved (a figure below £100,000 in any year will be considered insufficient by the assessors);
- the proportion of goods and/or services sold overseas;
- special measures taken to stimulate overseas sales;
- the information provided on markets and marketing.

INNOVATION

17. Businesses may enter under either of the following:

Outstanding innovation, resulting in substantial improvement in business performance and commercial success, sustained over not less than two years, to levels which are outstanding for the goods or services concerned and for the size of the business operations, and arising in the fields listed below.

or:

Continuous innovation and development, resulting in substantial improvement in business performance and commercial success, sustained over not less than five years, to levels which are outstanding, for the goods or services concerned and for the size of the business's operations, and arising in the fields listed below.

Achievements under either criterion may be in any of the following fields:

the invention, design, production (in respect of goods), performance (in respect of services, including advice), marketing, distribution, after sales support, of goods or services.

18. Businesses should provide a written outline of the achievements which are the subject of the entry. Entrants will need to be able to show that their achievement has been truly innovative. This may include novel applications of established techniques, but not simply bringing activities into line with established best practice.

19. The business will need to show that the pattern of growth of earnings amounts to "commercial success", by reference to such indicators as the entrant sees fit. These may include details of profitability, turnover, market share, performance in relation to business plan targets, and others.

20. Estimates of earnings are acceptable as evidence of commercial success, provided that these estimates are auditable and their accuracy can be confirmed by an auditor's certificate. If estimates are provided, particulars of the methodology used in preparing the estimates must be given.

21. Figures are required over either two or five consecutive financial years and the final year must end between the preceding 1 October and 30 September of year of entry. Entrants can choose any year ending in this period but they must be their financial year end dates.

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

22. Businesses may enter under either of the following:

An outstanding advance in sustainable development contributing to a substantial improvement in business performance and commercial success, sustained over not less than two years, to levels which are outstanding for the goods or services concerned and for the size of the business operations, and arising in the fields listed below.

or:

Continuous achievement in sustainable development contributing to a substantial improvement in business performance and commercial success, sustained over not less than five years, to levels which are outstanding for the goods or services concerned and for the size of the business operations, and arising in the fields listed below.

Achievements under either criterion may be in any of the following fields:

the invention, design, production (in respect of goods), performance (in respect of services, including advice), marketing, distribution, after sale support, of goods or services; and/or the management of resources (including natural, manufactured and human resources) and relationships (with people and organisations).

23. Businesses should provide a written outline of the achievements which are the subject of the entry. Entrants need to demonstrate how the activities in the entry make a positive contribution to sustainable development, based on the business's response to the four dimensions of sustainable development (Environmental, Social, Economic and Leadership & Management). Businesses are encouraged to use suitable indicators such as energy use per unit of production, percentage of waste recycled, percentage of materials sourced from fair trade sources to demonstrate improvement over time or high performance relative to comparable organisations.

24. Figures are required over either two or five consecutive financial years and the final year must end between the preceding 1 October and 30 September of year of entry. Entrants can choose any year ending in this period but they must be their financial year end dates.

25. Businesses will need to show that the pattern of growth of earnings amounts to "commercial success", based on suitable indicators such as profitability, turnover, market share and performance in relation to business plan targets.

26. Estimates of commercial performance may be acceptable, depending on the reliability of the estimates, and the circumstances preventing the submission of more accurate figures and that these estimates are auditable and their accuracy can be confirmed by an auditor's certificate.

27. Businesses are encouraged to describe and provide evidence for the commercial, reputational and other business benefits associated with the high and/or improved environmental and social performance.

STANDARDS OF PROPRIETY

28. The Queen's Awards Office is charged with ensuring that the Awards are only granted to businesses that maintain the highest standards of propriety. All entrants are therefore required to give their consent on the entry form to all necessary enquiries being carried out by The Queen's Awards Office.

29. In addition to the above, but only if requested by The Queen's Awards Office, entrants will be required to provide an independent qualified accountant's or auditor's certificate confirming their commercial performance figures or estimates, and that the business has complied with the applicable accounting standards in preparing the entry.

GENERAL

30. Entries must be made on the appropriate form(s) on-line and submitted electronically from the Queen's Awards website www.queensawards.org.uk

31. Forms are usually available from end-April to September. The closing date for entries is the last working day of September.

32. Details of Awards winners are announced on 21 April the following year and are published as a supplement to the London Gazette, and are also listed on The Queen's Awards Website.

33. The presentation ceremony is conducted at the winners' premises by the Lord-Lieutenant of the County as HM The Queen's representative. The Awards consist of a Grant of Appointment and a presentational item bearing the Emblem.

34. An Award is valid for five years. Successful businesses may fly the Queen's Award flag at their principal premises and are entitled to use The Queen's Award Emblem on their stationery, advertising and goods. Commemorative articles can be given to employees.

35. Additionally, HM The Queen usually hosts a reception at Buckingham Palace for representatives of the winning businesses.
