

EMPLOYMENT TRIBUNALS

Claimant

Respondent

Miss V Georgiev
Miss S Krasteva

AND

Imperial College of Science Technology & Medicine

HELD AT: London Central ON: 27 August 2019

BEFORE: Employment Judge D A Pearl (Sitting alone)

Representation:

Claimants: Do not appear
Respondent: Ms T O'Halloran (Counsel)

JUDGMENT

The claims are dismissed under rule 37(1)(d) as the Claimants are not and have not been actively pursuing their claims.

REASONS

1. This is the Respondent's strike out application. Ms O' Halloran's skeleton sets out the chronology. It is at least arguable that the Claimants failed to comply with an Order to provide particulars, made on 22 May. However, whether that is correct or not, they have failed to engage with any of the subsequent correspondence raised by the Respondent's solicitors after 19 June. They have failed to engage with the trial process in relation to the bundle or witness statements. Finally, they have failed to attend today and there is no explanation of this, or any communication with the tribunal.
2. In these circumstances I am satisfied that they have failed to pursue their claims. Quite separately, and as an aside, I note that if it is correct that they were paid 'rolled up' holiday pay as they went along, the claims appear to lack any merit.
