Dear Colleague

The 7 Principles, also known as the Nolan Principles that guide all of us involved in public life, are 25 years old this year.

Accountability, Honesty, integrity, Objectivity, Selflessness, Openness and Leadership continue to convey the standards of behaviour expected by the public of those who serve them.

To mark this anniversary and to act as a reminder about the importance of these principles, my Committee has produced a set of very short videos. We have published these on our website today.

We hope they will be useful as a starting point for staff discussion and for induction and training for organisations and individuals across the public sector, and also for companies and charities delivering services to the public. I would be very grateful if you would share them as widely as possible with colleagues, on your intranet, and on your social media.

If you would like any more information about the work we do, please do not hesitate to get in touch.

Lord Evans of Weardale KCB DL
Chair, Committee on Standards in Public Life
