The Armed Forces Covenant

An Enduring Covenant Between

The People of the United Kingdom
Her Majesty's Government and -

All those who serve or have served in the Armed Forces of the Crown

And their Families

The first duty of Government is the defence of the realm. Our Armed Forces fulfil that responsibility on behalf of the Government, sacrificing some civilian freedoms, facing danger and, sometimes, suffering serious injury or death as a result of their duty. Families also play a vital role in supporting the operational effectiveness of our Armed Forces. In return, the whole nation has a moral obligation to the members of the Naval Service, the Army and the Royal Air Force, together with their families. They deserve our respect and support, and fair treatment.

Those who serve in the Armed Forces, whether Regular or Reserve, those who have served in the past, and their families, should face no disadvantage compared to other citizens in the provision of public and commercial services. Special consideration is appropriate in some cases, especially for those who have given most such as the injured and the bereaved.

This obligation involves the whole of society: it includes voluntary and charitable bodies, private organisations, and the actions of individuals in supporting the Armed Forces. Recognising those who have performed military duty unites the country and demonstrates the value of their contribution. This has no greater expression than in upholding this Covenant.

Section 1: Principles of the Armed Forces Covenant

- 1.1 We Chartwell Care Services Limited will endeavour in our business dealings to uphold the key principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, which are:
  - no member of the Armed Forces Community should face disadvantage in the provision of public and commercial services compared to any other citizen
  - in some circumstances special treatment may be appropriate especially for the injured or bereaved.

Section 2: Demonstrating our Commitment

- 2.1 We recognise the value that serving personnel, reservists, veterans and military families bring to our country. We will seek to uphold the principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, by seeking to:
  - promote the fact that we are an Armed Forces-friendly organisation, to our staff, residents, families, suppliers, contractors and wider public;
  - support the employment of military veterans, recognising military skills and qualifications in our recruitment and selection process; working with the Career Transition Partnership (CTP) to support the employment of Service leavers;
  - identify all residents / patients who have a connection to the military, personally or through families; and facilitate a sense of community between all those with a military connection;
  - facilitate links with any relevant local charities, particularly Armed Forces charities, and regimental associations relevant to our residents; support Armed Forces charities with fundraising and support any staff who volunteer to assist;
  - support national events such as Armed Forces Day, Reserves Day, the Poppy Appeal Day and Remembrance activities; provide opportunities for the involvement of residents / patients who are veterans or military spouses etc.;
  - 2.2 We will publicise these commitments on our website and social media, setting out how we will seek to honour them and inviting feedback from the Service community, our staff and our customers on how we are doing.
