The Armed Forces Covenant

An Enduring Covenant Between

The People of the United Kingdom
Her Majesty's Government

– and –

All those who serve or have served in the Armed Forces of the Crown

And their Families

The first duty of Government is the defence of the realm. Our Armed Forces fulfil that responsibility on behalf of the Government, sacrificing some civilian freedoms, facing danger and, sometimes, suffering serious injury or death as a result of their duty. Families also play a vital role in supporting the operational effectiveness of our Armed Forces. In return, the whole nation has a moral obligation to the members of the Naval Service, the Army and the Royal Air Force, together with their families. They deserve our respect and support, and fair treatment.

Those who serve in the Armed Forces, whether Regular or Reserve, those who have served in the past, and their families, should face no disadvantage compared to other citizens in the provision of public and commercial services. Special consideration is appropriate in some cases, especially for those who have given most such as the injured and the bereaved.

This obligation involves the whole of society: it includes voluntary and charitable bodies, private organisations, and the actions of individuals in supporting the Armed Forces. Recognising those who have performed military duty unites the country and demonstrates the value of their contribution. This has no greater expression than in upholding this Covenant.

Section 1: Principles Of The Armed Forces Covenant

1.1 We OLC (Europe) Ltd will endeavour in our business dealings to uphold the key principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, which are:

- no member of the Armed Forces Community should face disadvantage in the provision of public and commercial services compared to any other citizen
- in some circumstances special treatment may be appropriate especially for the injured or bereaved.

Section 2: Demonstrating our Commitment

2.1 OLC (Europe) Ltd recognises the value serving personnel, reservists, veterans and military families bring to our collegiate. We will seek to uphold the principles of the Armed Forces Covenant, by:

- promoting the fact that we are an armed forces-friendly organisation by publicising our Armed Forces Covenant on the OLC College intranet, website and other social media;
- seeking to support the employment of veterans young and old and working with the Career Transition Partnership (CTP), in order to establish a tailored employment pathway for Service Leavers and striving to support the employment of Service spouses and partners through networking with our contacts within the further and higher education sector;
- seeking to support our employees who choose to be members of the Reserve forces, including by accommodating their training and deployment where possible;
- offering support to our local cadet units, either in our local community or in local schools, where possible and in particular with the support of programmes of education and transferable skills development and delivery;
- promoting the armed forces as a career option to our college students, learners and research communities during student recruitment drives, delivery of education provision, graduation ceremonies and to our Student Alumni;
- aiming to actively participate in Armed Forces Day by promoting and increasing awareness of Armed Forces Day and Reserves Day through internal communications and promotion of this Armed Forces Covenant during charity events that are focused on Armed Forces Charities;
- promoting the participation from members of military service families in higher education by offering support for obtaining education fees, research work and consultancy activities to members of the Armed Forces Community;
- We at OLC (Europe) Ltd also offer pro bono the use of our premises and education campuses at a reduced rate, or whenever possible pro gratis, for armed forces events, training and skills development of serving personnel, reservists, veterans and military families.

2.2 We will publicise these commitments through our literature and/or on our website, setting out how we will seek to honour them and inviting feedback from the Service community and our customers on how we are doing.
