Appendix

(provided to assist the respondent in drafting the letter of instruction for the expert evidence required for the remedy hearing and not comprising written reasons for any part of the Judgment)

- 1. The claimant was employed by the respondent as a store leader in training. He was disabled at the relevant times on account of his diabetes. The respondent had knowledge of that disability from October 2015.
- 2. The respondent's practice was on occasion to rota the claimant to work with fewer than three other staff.
- 3. This practice put the claimant at a substantial disadvantage in comparison with persons who are not disabled as he was consequently required to remain standing for long periods of time and do some heavy lifting. This resulted in foot problems and increased his stress levels which he says further impacted his diabetes. On at least one occasion (25 June 11 July 2016) his GP issued a fit note as a result. In November 2016 the claimant referred in an email to being on duty with just one colleague on several occasions since March 2015.
- 4. It would have been reasonable for the respondent to adjust its practice by changing the claimant's rota so that he worked with at least three other members of staff and/or changing the claimant's shift and/or considering alternative roles for the claimant.
