Dear

A12 junctions 11 to 33 – active speed cameras

Thank you for your email of 21 September 2020 requesting the following information:

- The number and location of active AVERAGE speed cameras on the A12 stretch of road between the Brook Street interchange (M25/J28) and junction 33, Copdock interchange, Ipswich.
- The number of speed cameras and their locations on the same stretch of the A12

We have now completed our search for the requested information.

There are two average speed camera systems on the A12 between junction 11 (Brook Street Interchange) and junction 33 (Copdock Interchange).

The first is located on the A12 at Hughes Corner (between Stratford St Mary and East Bergholt) and the second on the Kelvedon Bypass (between the East Thorpe junction and the slip road).

At Hughes Corner there are a total of 12 cameras, 6 on each carriageway at 4 locations. These are painted yellow and are visible to drivers.

On the Kelvedon Bypass, there are a total of 18 cameras, 9 on each carriageway at 8 locations. Again, these are painted yellow and are visible to drivers.

These are the only speed enforcement cameras permanently located on the A12 between junctions 11 and 33. However, the police may choose to carry out mobile enforcement at other locations.

If you are unhappy with the way we have handled your request you may ask for an internal review. Our internal review process is available at:
