Dear [REDACTED],

I am writing about your email of 1 March 2022, requesting the following information:

'Would you please supply me with the unit service history and any other details held (mechanical servicing, maintenance ect) on a Land Rover (TUL) Wolf FFR Winter/Water. The vehicles in service registration number was PF 71 AA and is now in private ownership.'

Your request has been handled in accordance with the Freedom of Information (FOI) Act 2000.

A search has been carried out of Ministry of Defence (MOD) records and it is confirmed that some information is held on your vehicle that can be released. This is enclosed, as follows:

- Annex A – Transfer History
- Annex B – Fault History (Redacted)
- Annex C – Inspection History
- Annex D – Modification History (Redacted)
- Annex E – Service History

It has proved necessary to withhold some information related to your request. This is sensitive information in the Modification History (Annex D) which has been withheld under qualified exemptions Sections 26 (Defence) and 38 (Health and Safety), and commercially sensitive information in the Fault History (Annex B) relating to contractor repair times, which has been withheld under qualified exemption Section 43(2) (Commercial Interests). Sections 26 and 38 concern information which if disclosed would or would likely endanger the operational effectiveness of British Armed Forces or the physical or mental health and safety of any individual. Section 43 concerns information which if disclosed would or would likely prejudice the commercial interests of any person (including defence contractors and the public authority holding it).

As these exemptions are qualified, it was necessary to undertake a Public Interest Test to determine whether the balance for withholding the information outweighs that for disclosure. General arguments in favour of release were that full disclosure would demonstrate the MOD's commitment to openness and transparency; and make the UK Government more accountable to the electorate. The FOI Act also contains a presumption for release.

However, the Fault History provides details of the time taken by MOD contractors to rectify fault reports on PF71AA. This data, along with previously published information, could be used to make reasonable assumptions about hourly labour rates. As market sensitive information, this could then be exploited by commercial competitors to undercut the contractor when bidding for similar work. The Modification History contains details of sensitive vehicle modifications, the release of which could allow potential adversaries to modify their tactics better to counter these modifications and endanger the lives and operational effectiveness of British Forces personnel.

Given the arguments described above, on balance, it was determined that the information should be withheld. The level of prejudice against release of this exempted information has been set at the higher level of "would" rather than "would be likely to".

If you have any queries regarding the content of this letter, please contact this office in the first instance. If you wish to complain about the handling of your request, or the content of this response, you can request an independent internal review by contacting the Information Rights Compliance team, Ground Floor, MOD Main Building, Whitehall, SW1A 2HB (e-mail CIO-FOI-IR@mod.gov.uk). Please note that any request for an internal review should be made within 40 working days of the date of this response.

If you remain dissatisfied following an internal review, you may raise your complaint directly to the Information Commissioner under the provisions of Section 50 of the Freedom of Information Act. Please note that the Information Commissioner will not normally investigate your case until the MOD internal review process has been completed. The Information Commissioner can be contacted at: Information Commissioner's Office, Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire, SK9 5AF.
