

3.3 Debendox

3.1. [REDACTED] informed members that the Secretariat had studied the complete transcript of the trial and had not identified any new scientific data though there had been argument about the interpretation of the data. He explained that Debendox had been referred to in an Adjournment Debate, initiated by [REDACTED] on the previous evening but no details were yet available. Copies of the transcript of the trial would be available if any member wished to see them. It was agreed that [REDACTED] should be invited to comment on those parts of the transcript which contained statistical evidence.
