| Risk Description                 | The product presents a high entrapment risk as a finger trap was found between black steel stay arms, which can easily trap the consumer's fingers when folding the product. The product also presents a risk of injuries as the ladder step width does not meet the relevant dimensional requirements, leading to the overhang of the step being too great. As the consumer is descending the step stool, they can't place their foot fully on the step due to the incorrect overhang, which may cause them to fall off the step stool. The product does not meet the requirements General Product Safety Regulations 2005. |
| Corrective Measures              | The import has been rejected at the border and product has been destroyed  |
