Section B: General Environmental Issues

Next are some questions about your general attitudes towards environmental issues.

Q8 How concerned, if at all, are you about climate change, sometimes referred to as 'global warming'?

- Very concerned
- Fairly concerned
- Not very concerned
- Not at all concerned
- Don't know

Q9 The UK government is aiming to reduce UK greenhouse gas emissions to 'net zero' by 2050. This will involve significantly reducing emissions produced by our industries, transport, food, and homes. Any remaining emissions will be balanced by actions that reduce greenhouse gases already in the atmosphere, such as planting trees.

Before today, how much, if anything, did you know about the concept of 'net zero'?

- Never heard of this
- Hardly anything but I've heard of this
- A little

Q12 In the lead up to 2050, the way we heat almost all of our homes and buildings will need to change in order to reach the UK government's net zero target.

Before today, how much, if anything, did you know about this?

- Never heard of this
- Hardly anything but I've heard of this
- A little
- A fair amount
- A lot

Q13 The next question is about low-carbon heating systems. By this we mean environmentally friendly heating systems which no longer rely on conventional gas central heating but instead use energy from low-carbon alternatives such as hydrogen, the sun, or heat pumps which draw heat from the ground, air or water to heat your home.

Before today, how much, if anything, did you know about low-carbon heating systems?

- Never heard of this
- Hardly anything but I've heard of this

Section C: Energy

Now some questions about sources of energy.

Q15 Fusion energy is an experimental technology that works by fusing together atoms in order to release energy. The UK is exploring whether this technology could be used to generate low carbon electricity.

Before today, how much, if anything, did you know about fusion energy?

Q18 Carbon capture and storage is a technology that stops greenhouse gases entering the atmosphere. It typically involves capturing carbon dioxide (CO₂) emissions from power stations or industrial facilities where emissions are high. The CO₂ is then piped to offshore underground storage sites, where it can be safely and permanently stored.

Before today, how much, if anything, do you know about carbon capture and storage?

➔ Please cross one box only ☒

- Never heard of this
- Hardly anything but I've heard of this

| <input type="checkbox"/> Don't know | Go to Q22 |

Q20 You said you support the use of carbon capture and storage in the UK. Why is this?

➔ Please cross all that apply ☒

- I think it would help combat climate change and reduce carbon emissions
- I think it would create jobs
- I think it would benefit the UK economy
- I think it would provide an opportunity for the UK to be a world leader in this technology
- It can re-use existing infrastructure such as oil and gas pipelines
- Other – please specify

➔ Now go to Q22

Q21 You said that you oppose the use of carbon capture and storage in the UK. Why is this?

➔ Please cross all that apply ☒

- I don't know enough about the technology
- I am concerned about safety
- I think it would be too expensive
- I don't think it would be effective in reducing emissions
- I think we should use more natural strategies (such as tree planting) to capture and store carbon
- I think it wouldn't tackle the cause of climate change or stop emissions
- I think it would be disruptive to the local areas where it is situated
- Other – please specify

Don't know

Q22 The next question is about shale gas. Shale gas is natural gas found in shale, a type of rock which does not allow the gas to escape.

Hydraulic fracturing or “fracking” is a process of pumping water at high pressure into shale to create narrow fractures which allow the gas to be released and captured. The gas can then be used for electricity and heating.

Before today, how much, if anything, did you know about hydraulic fracturing for shale gas, otherwise known as 'fracking'?

- Never heard of this
- Hardly anything but I've heard of this
