A message from the Minister

Tom Pursglove is the Minister for Disabled People, Health and Work.

He is a member of the Government.

He said:

'I would like to thank you for taking part in this consultation.

Together, we can change disabled people's lives for the better'.

A consultation means we are asking what you think.

Why we are asking what you think

We want the UK to be a place where everyone is included.

We have already done a lot of work to improve life for disabled people.

Our plan is a list of ideas for things that we can do now to improve the lives of disabled people.

Our plan includes ideas for different parts of the Government, called 'departments'.

We want to know what you think about these ideas.

We will listen to what you tell us, and use it to help write our final Action Plan.

The Government's plans for 2023 to 2024

This part explains what the Government will do in 2023 and 2024 to support disabled people.

Taking part in government services

We will do more to help disabled people get government services online.

People who have been in the armed forces

We will work on projects to support people who are disabled after being injured in the armed forces, like the army, navy or air force.

Companies and jobs

We will:

• Find out what stops disabled people from starting their own companies.

• Support carers to take 1 week of unpaid time off from their jobs each year if they need it.

• Work with groups of disabled people to plan for new rules about working.

These rules will say that anyone can ask to work at times that are good for them - this is called 'flexible working'.

Culture and sport

Culture includes art, theatre, films and museums.

We will:

- Work on projects that will make it easier for disabled people to go to:
 - The cinema.

• The theatre.

• Art galleries.

The countryside

sport.

We will spend money on making easier for disabled people to get parks, the countryside and forests

- Support social workers to help disabled people to take part in
- Write plans to support more disabled people to take part in sport.
- More

- Make the UK the place in Europe that is easiest for disabled people to get around.
- Support more cinemas, theatres and art galleries to work in ways that are good for autistic people.

We will also:

around.

Schools and learning

We will:

- Build more new special schools these are schools for children who need extra support to learn.
- Train more teachers and school staff who can work with disabled children.
- Spend more money on supporting disabled children to take part in mainstream schools.

Mainstream schools are the type of schools that most children go to.

• Write guides about what support children should be getting at school.

• Make it quicker and easier for children to get Education, Health and Care Plans.

These are plans that explain what extra support they need.

- Make it quicker for disabled students to get money for extra support.
- Spend money helping young disabled people to get jobs.
- Give money and support to families with disabled children who need extra help.
- Use a new way of finding neurodiverse children early, so they can get the support they need.

Neurodiverse children think in different ways to other children. Like, they may have autism.

- Support more disabled children to learn a musical instrument.
- Make a new GCSE for British Sign Language.

Heating and electricity

We will spend money making people's homes warmer.

This includes some disabled people's homes.

We will:

• Spend more money to improve adult social care.

Adult social care is care and support for people to live independently.

• Spend money to help disabled people make their homes easier to get around.

• Write guides to help services support people with Down Syndrome.

• Write new guides to help services support autistic people.

- Carry on supporting more people with learning disabilities and autistic people to live at home, not in a hospital.
- Make sure health and care staff get training about learning disability and autism.
- Get better information about people with a learning disability or autism.
- Carry on supporting people's mental health in better ways.
- Carry on working on our plan to help people with rare diseases - these are diseases that not many people have.

- Make sure that people can find out information about their health in ways they can understand.
- Make it easier for NHS staff to see if someone needs a reasonable adjustment.

Reasonable adjustments are changes that places and services can make so that disabled people can take part like everybody else.

Homes, buildings and including everyone

We will:

- Find out more about what changes should be made to houses so that disabled people can use them.
- Change how house builders write plans for new houses, so it is easier for local people to have their say.
- Find out more about how to make disabled people's homes safer from fire.
- Work with estate agents to get them to talk more about how easy it is to get around houses.

• Find out more about how much supported housing there is in the UK.

Supported housing is where you live somewhere that gives you extra support to live independently.

- Make a law to make local councils write plans about supported housing in their areas.
- Make more buildings safe and easy for disabled people to get around.
- Work to make it easier for disabled people to take part in elections.

Elections are where people vote to decide who should be in a council or government.

Science and technology

We will spend money on projects that help disabled people understand what they see and read online.

Transport

Transport is different ways of getting around, like trains, buses, cars and planes.

We will:

• Carry on making transport easier for disabled people to use.

- Check how easy all train stations are for disabled people to use.
- Look at projects to make train stations easier for disabled people to use.

Guide

We will also:

- Find out what more we need to do to make trains easier for disabled people to use.
- Write new guides to help disabled people use taxis.

• Help bus drivers to make space for disabled people on buses.

• Find out more about how to make buses and coaches easier for disabled people to use.

• Write a new law to make taxi drivers get training on what disabled people need.

• Change our service to make it faster for people to get a Blue Badge.

A Blue Badge lets you park your car in a special space if you are disabled or need some extra help.

- Train staff in airports to better help wheelchair users.
- Listen to what is important for disabled people when using transport.
- Make electric cars easier for disabled people to use.

Work and pensions

We will:

- Work on our plan for a new law that will support disabled people to:
 - Start work.
 - Stay in work.
 - Do well in work.

We will spend money and train staff to do this.

- Test new projects to make it easier for disabled people to get benefits and support.
- Write new plans to support people who have been ill for a long time to go back to work.

We will also support more autistic people to get jobs.

Around the world

We will:

• Follow our plan for how we will support countries around the world to include disabled people.

• Help disabled people around the world to take part in elections.

• Support other countries to get assistive technology that will help disabled people to live well.

Assistive technology is items like special computers that can make life easier for disabled people.

- Make sure disabled people get the support they need after a disaster, like a flood.
- Include disabled people when we think about how to stop climate change.

Climate change is all about big changes in the weather. For example, storms getting worse than they used to be. Or having less rain in some places.

These changes will make the lives of people, plants and animals around the world harder.

Police and border staff

Border staff check who is coming in and out of the UK.

Border Staff are like police officers but they look after airports and ports.

We will:

- Train some border staff in British Sign Language.
- Protect disabled people from abuse in their homes.

Abuse is when someone hurts you or treats you badly.

- Spend money supporting organisations that are run by disabled people or others to:
 - Support disabled victims of domestic abuse.

Domestic abuse is when you are hurt or treated badly by someone you are close to.

Armed forces

We will support our staff who are carers.

Courts and prisons

We will:

• Make sure the courts and prisons work well for neurodiverse people.

• Look at how people get reasonable adjustments in court.

Reasonable adjustments are changes that places and services can make so that disabled people can take part like everybody else.

Civil servants

Civil servants are staff who work for the Government.

We will:

• Support disabled civil servants.

• Look at getting more disabled people to become civil servants.

What do you think?

This part explains what the Disability Unit will do and how it will help the Government with its work in 2023 and 2024.

The Disability Unit works with all the different parts of the Government to improve the lives of disabled people.

Please answer these questions to tell us what you think of our plans.

Elected office

Elected office means working as a councillor or Member of Parliament. To work in elected office, people need to vote for you.

There are not enough disabled people working in elected office.

We would like to look at ways to make sure that disabled people have help to pay for the extra support they need to work in elected office.

We are also thinking of making a website with information and training.

Question 1a: Do you agree or disagree with our plans to support disabled people to work in elected office?

Question 1c: If you know about any training that already exists, please tell us about it here.

playgrounds that disabled children can use.

We would like to make a website with information about accessible playgrounds.

This website will help local councils make more playgrounds accessible.

Question 2a: Do you agree or disagree that we should make a website for councils to find information on accessible playgrounds?

Planning for emergencies

Emergencies are serious things that can hurt people. They include floods and diseases.

We want to include disabled people more when we plan for emergencies.

We would like to do this by working more with groups of disabled people.

Question 3a: Do you agree or disagree that we should talk more to disabled people about emergency planning?

Question 3b: If you want to, please tell us why you think this.

Question 3c: Are there any groups of disabled people that you think we should listen to?

Climate change

When climate change happens, we will need to make changes to how we live. This is called 'climate adaptations'.

We think we should include disabled people more when we think about climate adaptations.

Question 4a: Do you agree or disagree that we should spend more time working on climate adaptations?

Question 4b: Please tell us if there is anything more the Government should do to include disabled people in climate adaptations.

We mainly want to know about things we can do in 2023 to 2024.

We are already thinking about including disabled people in:

- Clean Air Zones (CAZ).
- Ultra Low Emission Zones (ULEZ).

Question 4c: Please tell us if there are any more climate adaptations that you think we should think about.

Disability Enabled Badge

We are thinking of creating a 'Disability Enabled Badge'.

This will be a way for companies and services to show that they have given their staff training about disability.

This will make it easy for disabled people to see which companies and services have had training.

Question 5a: Do you agree or disagree that this would make it easier for disabled customers to know which companies or services have trained their staff about disability?

Question 5b: If you want to, please tell us why you think this.

Special Olympics

The Special Olympics is an event where people with learning disabilities from around the world play sport against each other.

We are thinking about if the Special Olympics could happen in Britain in 2031.

Having the Special Olympics in Britain would:

• Support people to learn more about people with learning disabilities.

• Support more people with learning disabilities to take part in sport.

Question 6b: If you want to, please tell us why you think this.

Question 6c: Please tell us about any disability sport organisations that you think we should work with.

This might include making companies pay more money to us if they do it. This is called a fine.

We will work with guide dog organisations to do this.

We want to do more to stop access refusals.

If a company does stop a person with a guide dog, this is called an 'access refusal'.

The Law

Guide dogs

The law says that companies cannot stop a person with a guide dog from coming into their building.

that more disabled people would know about and could use assistive technology if the Government knew more about it, and could tell them about it?

We want to do more to help people understand assistive technology and what it can do.

If the Government knows all about new assistive technology, it can support disabled people to use it.

Assistive technology is items like special computers that can make life easier for disabled people.

Neither Disagree Agree a Agree a Disagree Don't agree nor lot little a little a lot know disagree

Assistive technology

Question 8b: If you want to, please tell us why you think this.

We want disabled children to:

- Be happier.
- Get more chances in life.

Different parts of the Government would work on this.

We would get different services that support disabled children to work together.

The team would think about issues that affect disabled children, like:

- Becoming an adult.
- Getting around.
- Bullying.
- Being safe.
- Finding out what support they need.
- Support for their families.

I think this team should work on... Question 9b: If you want to, please tell us if you think there are any other issues this team should work on.

We mainly want to know about things we can do in 2023 to 2024.

Support for disabled parents

We would like to create a team to give more support to disabled parents.

Different parts of the Government would work together on this team.

They would think about issues that affect disabled parents, like:

• Getting support to be a parent from health and care services.

• Family Court and child protection.

Family Court decides where a child will live after their parents split up.

Child protection makes sure children are safe.

They would also think about domestic abuse support.

Domestic abuse is when you are hurt or treated badly by someone you are close to, like a husband, wife or family member.

Question 10a: Do you agree or disagree that this team should look at:

i: Getting more support to be a parent from health and care services?

should work on...

ii: Family Court and child protection?

We mainly want to know about things we can do in 2023 to 2024.

Information about disabled people

When we use a project or service to improve the lives of disabled people, we look at information.

This information helps us see if we have made a difference.

But we think it is also important to listen to what disabled people say.

They can tell us more about what really makes a difference in their lives.

Question 11a: Do you agree or disagree that we should set up a group of disabled people, to listen to what they say, as well as looking at information?

The future

We want to look at what issues disabled people might have in 5, 10 and 20 years' time.

This will help us to:

- Think about what new issues we may need to look at.
- Make plans for the future.

If we do this, we may need to spend less time thinking about what issues disabled people have now.
