

DFID UGANDA

The Department for International Development (DFID) leads the UK's global efforts to end extreme poverty, deliver the Global Goals for Sustainable Development (SDGs) and tackle a wide range of global development challenges. The UK's focus and international leadership on economic development is a vital part of Global Britain - harnessing the potential of new trade relationships, creating jobs and channelling investment to the world's poorest countries. Throughout history, sustained, job-creating growth has played the greatest role in lifting huge numbers of people out of grinding poverty. This is what developing countries want and is what the international system needs to help deliver. Whilst there is an urgent need for traditional aid in many parts of the world, ultimately economic development is how we will achieve the Global Goals and help countries move beyond the need for aid.

Headline deliverables

- Economic development: UK support has led to a 62% average time reduction a targeted border crossings, a 50% reduction in customs clearance times from 3 days to 1.5 days and a reduction in cargo transit time from 8 days to 2 days to provide goods to the East African marketise ving over 200 million people. We will continue to unlock opportunities for the UK and other businesses to pid to US $24 billion of public private partnerships projects and support increased incomes for 331 200 people. This will help Uganda create jobs for its people and become a greater trading partner for the UK in the future.
- Women and girls: We focus on strengthening health and education systems nationally in order to help manage Uganda's population growth rate. We are also helping to bring positive social change by increasing choices for women and girls, tackling violence against women and girls and managing high birth rates. Over the next five years we will support over 360,000 women and girls with modern methods of family planning; and help 200,000 women and girls receive an education. Young people and the disabled, often marginalised because of cultural and structural barriers, are at the core of our work.
- Humanitarian: Between December 2016 and February 2018, we provided food for over 1,000,000 people; supported 64,000 women and 146,000 under-fives with immunisation and food supplements; ensured 2,000 children have access to education services; ensured 73% of the refugee population in Uganda accessed water through sustainable water systems at an average of 17 litres per person per day; and provided relief items (blankets, kitchen sets, jerry cans, mosquito nets) to 11,000 people. We are also challenging UN agencies to reform and ensure they deliver effectively for the most vulnerable and are providing value for money for the UK tax payer.

Why DFID is investing in Uganda

Uganda's influence and relative stability in the region makes it a priority country for UK objectives. Despite reducing national poverty rates over the last decade, Uganda remains very poor and inequality is growing. 63% of Uganda's 35 million people are either poor or at risk of falling back into poverty due to dependence on subsistence agriculture. Half the population is under 15 years old (the world average is 27%) and women have on average 5.4 children. High population growth rates have a negative impact on economic growth and create challenges for education and health services. Over 700,000 young people enter the labour parket each year with few job opportunities.

Uganda hosts over one million refugees, predominately from South Sudan, and is the third largest refugee hosting nation in the world. This number is expected to continue to increase. Refugees are unlikely to return home in the pear future because of conflict and political instability.

How will the UK respond to opportunities and challenges?

The UK helps Uganda average the challenges of growing inequality and slowing growth rates by leading international efforts to boost business opportunities by creating jobs and increasing investment in regional trade. We will support the Continued development of a stable and prosperous Uganda by delivering economic stability, higher growth, increased domestic revenues and more transparent and accountable state-society relations. This will refuse Uganda's growing dependence on external sources of finance, and pave the way for a sustainable each om aid. We will support increased provision of family planning services and access to education, particularly for girls. We will support Uganda's anti-corruption and accountability institutions to increase their ability to deter, detect and punish corruption. This helps citizens to hold governments to account and report colcuption. We are supporting the government of Uganda to respond to the influx of refugees from South Curlan and Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) by providing emergency assistance. We will also ploving esupport to Ugandan communities hosting refugees by increasing the provision of health and education services.

What is being achieved for the UK?

Uganda is an important partner for the UK in tackling povert; and regional instability. Uganda plays an active role within the East and Central Africa region and we have in tual security interests, particularly in South Sudan and Somalia. Uganda is the largest troop contributor to the African Union's peacekeeping mission in Somalia. On migration, Uganda hosts over one million refuge is from its neighbouring countries (notably South Sudan, the DRC, Burundi and Somalia). Its progressive refugee policy, which allows refugees to settle in Ugandan communities rather than in camps, together with the right to work, means refugees remain in the region. This reduces the incentives for onward migration to Europe and the numbers of people who may otherwise fall victim to criminal gangs and people smugglers. A prosperous Uganda also creates opportunities for UK business. Across the energy, financial and professional service sectors, there are over 200 UK businesses in Uganda. Together these actions support Uganda's growth and stability which is firmly in our national interest.

Partners

- DFID works with the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Ministry of Defence, Department or International Trade, UK Export Finance and British Council to achieve the UK's objectives in Uganda.
- We channel our funding through multilateral organisations, bilateral partners, private sector contractors and non-governmental organisations and also continue to work with the Government in other ways. We hold regular meetings with all our partners to support wider DFID reform and commercial objectives.
- We have recently undertaken a review to focus our portfolio on the most important issues affecting development in Uganda; the protracted refugee crisis and rapid population growth which defines the scale of challenges in the economic development, health and education sectors. This will ensure we get the greatest impact for every pound we spend as well as focus on the most critical issues for Uganda.
