Information

If the Upper Tribunal grants your application for a witness summons the judge may require you to provide the witness summons to the witness. If the judge orders this, instructions will be given to you with the witness summons.

The witness summons must give the witness at least 14 days' notice of the hearing (unless ordered otherwise by the judge). Therefore, you must file this application with the tribunal early enough for the tribunal to decide the application and for any summons to be provided to the witness with sufficient notice.

You may be required to pay the witness' expenses for attending the tribunal to give evidence.
