Summary

The meeting set the road ahead for the panel, covering how the Panel could advise the Government on delivery of the National Semiconductor Strategy. The panel agreed the terms of reference, including the overall objectives and ways of working, that meetings will include deep-dives on priority topics to which additional experts outside of the panel will be invited on an ad-hoc basis, and which may be further pursued through sub-groups of the panel. On skills, the panel exchanged ideas on what outreach to promote semiconductor careers could look like and some possible interventions to build the skills pipeline. Building semiconductor skills will be discussed in more depth at a future panel meeting. The panel agreed to meet again in September.
