You can only make an application for divorce or dissolution if you have been in your marriage or civil partnership for at least one year.

If there are exceptional reasons why your application should be dealt with urgently then please set those reasons out in a covering letter.

1.1 What application are you making?

Divorce on the ground that the marriage has broken down irretrievably

Dissolution on the ground that the civil partnership has broken down irretrievably

1.2 Are you applying as a sole applicant or joint applicants?

A sole application – I am applying on my own.

You will complete this application on your own before you submit it to the court. The court will send a copy of your application to your spouse/civil partner.

You will be referred to as the sole applicant, and your spouse/civil partner will be referred to as the respondent in this application.

A joint application – We are applying together.

You and your spouse/civil partner will complete this application jointly before you submit to the court.

You will be referred to as applicant 1 and your spouse/civil partner as applicant 2 in this application.

Applicant 2 must complete section 3 and the statement of truth.

Relationship support and child arrangements

Where it may be helpful (and safe) to receive relationship support, you can find information at: <https://www.nhs.uk/Service-Search/other-services/Relationship%20counselling/LocationSearch/400>

You can also find information on making child arrangements if you divorce or separate at: <https://www.gov.uk/looking-after-children-divorce>

Note: If you entered into a religious marriage as well as a civil marriage, these divorce proceedings may not dissolve the religious part of your marriage. It is important that you contact the relevant religious authority and seek further guidance if you are unsure.

Note 1.2: How you divide your money and property is dealt with separately. You may wish to consider taking legal advice.

It should not affect your decision on whether to do a sole or a joint application.

Any application for costs should be made using form D11 application notice. This is available on the gov.uk website.

1.3 What documents are you supplying to support your application?

Your marriage or civil partnership certificate or a certified copy of the certificate from where you got married or entered into a civil partnership (a photocopy will not be accepted).

A translation that has been certified by a notary public or authenticated by a statement of truth by the person who did the translation. This should be provided if your marriage or civil partnership certificate (or a similar document issued under the law in the country you registered your marriage or civil partnership) is not in English.

For marriages/civil partnerships in England and Wales you can order a copy of the certificate at www.gro.gov.uk/gro/content/certificates. You will need to pay for each copy.

In cases of urgency it may be possible for you to make an application to allow you to deliver the original or a certified copy of the marriage/civil partnership certificate to the court at a later date, if the document is unavailable. If you do not have the original certificate and cannot get a copy of it, you will have to make a separate application, alongside this application, to issue this form without it.

Section 5 – Why this court can deal with your case (Jurisdiction)

The court needs to understand why you think it has the legal power (jurisdiction) to deal with your application.

Please complete section 5.1 or if that section does not apply to you then complete section 5.2.

Important: If you need help deciding which reasons apply to you then you should consider seeking legal advice, particularly if you live outside England and Wales.

5.1 The usual basis for the court to have jurisdiction is where one or both parties are habitually resident in England and Wales.

Habitual Residence

Your habitual residence is the place in which your life is mainly based. You must be settled there and intend to stay settled there. Some of the following may apply: you work there, own property, have your children in school there, and your main family life takes place there.

Domicile

Your domicile is the place of your permanent home in which you live, or to which you intend to return.

When you were born you will have acquired your parents' domicile (for example, your father's if they were married, or your mother's if they weren't married or if your father died before you were born). If you have since moved to another country and made that your permanent home then your domicile may have moved there.

If you were born in England or Wales, lived your entire life here, and intend to stay here, then it is very likely that you'll be both habitually resident and domiciled here.

As the court will need to know the reason(s) for why you think it has jurisdiction to deal with the application, please tick the reason(s) from the list over the page.

Please tick the reasons that apply:

both parties to the marriage/civil partners are habitually resident in England and Wales;

both parties to the marriage/civil partners were last habitually resident in England and Wales and one of them continues to reside there;

the respondent is habitually resident in England and Wales;

this is a joint application and either

applicant 1

or

applicant 2

is habitually resident in England and Wales;

the applicant is habitually resident in England and Wales and has resided there for at least one year immediately before the application was made;

the applicant is domiciled and habitually resident in England and Wales and has resided there for at least six months immediately before the application was made;

both parties to the marriage/civil partners are domiciled in England and Wales; or only

applicant/applicant 1

respondent

is domiciled in England and Wales.

OR for civil partners or same sex marriage only

5.2 If the options in section 5.1 do not apply to you, please consider if below is applicable:

the parties registered as civil partners of each other in England or Wales or, in the case of a same sex couple, married each other under the law of England and Wales and it would be in the interests of justice for the court to assume jurisdiction in this case.

Section 6 – Statement of irretrievable breakdown (the legal reason for your divorce or dissolution)

- 6.1 You must state that your marriage or civil partnership has broken down irretrievably in order for the court to make an order.

I confirm that my marriage or civil partnership has broken down irretrievably

No

Note 7: Joint applicants are to complete the details necessary together in the same box provided.

- an order for maintenance pending suit/outcome
- periodical payments order
- secured provision order
- lump sum order
- property adjustment order
- Pension sharing/compensation sharing/attachment order

You can apply for orders for yourself, and/or, if appropriate for your children.

If you agree with your spouse or civil partner about how your property, money, pensions and other assets will be split, and want it to be legally binding, you can apply for a financial order to be made by consent.

If you disagree with your spouse or civil partner about how your property, money, pensions and other assets will be split, then you can ask the court to decide for you.

Money and property when you divorce or separate

You may be able to solve your financial and other arrangements outside of court, for example through mediation. You can find more information on mediation at <https://www.gov.uk/money-property-when-relationship-ends/mediation>

If you answer 'Yes' to question 8.1 the court will take no action at this stage. To formally start financial proceedings, you will also need to complete a separate application Form A or Form A1 and pay another court fee.

You can find more guidance on financial orders and how to get help agreeing on any issues at www.gov.uk/money-property-when-relationship-ends/apply-for-a-financial-order

If you answer 'No' to question 8.1 you can still apply for a financial order in the future, but only until you remarry or form another civil partnership. This restriction does not apply to pension sharing or pension compensation sharing orders.

If you are unsure what to do here it is recommended you seek legal advice.

Please note that decisions regarding child maintenance are usually made by agreement or by the Child Maintenance Service and the court can only make these orders under certain circumstances.
