8	Are you free from aches and pains in your neck, back, shoulder or upper limbs?			Take regular breaks. Check posture, workstation setup and furniture adjustments etc.
9	Do you have enough room to change position and vary movement?			Space is needed to move, stretch and fidget.
				Consider reorganising the office layout and check for obstructions.
				Cables should be tidy and not a trip or snag hazard.
10	Do you suffer from headaches, sore, tired or dry eyes?			Check humidity and lighting, have eyesight tested.
11	Do you have difficulties in focusing on the screen or difficulty in re-focussing when looking away from the screen?			Consider having an eyesight test. Take regular breaks from screen use.
12	Is the chair suitable and the seating position comfortable? (most chairs have time / weight limitations).			Replace / adjust the chair to provide adequate support (including lumbar) and a good posture.
13	Are your feet flat on the floor without too much pressure from the seat on the backs of the legs?			Consider using a footrest or getting the desk height adjusted.
14	Are your forearms horizontal and eyes at roughly the same height as the top of the screen?			Adjust the chair and screen. Support can be gained from, for example, the desk surface or arm of a chair. If not, a separate supporting device may help.
15	Do you have good keyboard technique?			Avoid having your hands bent at the wrist, hitting keys too hard or overstretching your fingers
16	Do you consider that the lighting is suitable, e.g. not too bright or too dim to work comfortably?			Users should be able to control light levels, e.g. by adjusting window blinds or light switches. Consider shading or repositioning light sources or providing local lighting, e.g. desk lamps (but make sure lights don't cause glare by reflecting off walls or other surfaces).
17	Do you feel the air condition is comfortable?			Display screens and other equipment may dry the air. Circulate fresh air if possible. Plants may help. Consider a humidifier if discomfort is severe.
