

Voter registration form for registering anonymously

You may be able to register to vote anonymously if you are concerned about your name and address appearing on the electoral register because you think it could affect your safety, or the safety of someone in the same household as you.

You will need to:

- Explain why your safety (or the safety of someone in the same household as you) would be at risk if your name and address appeared on the electoral register
- Provide a court document or an attestation from an authorised person to support your application (more info on pages 4-5).

How registering anonymously works

If you are registered to vote anonymously, your name and address will not appear on the electoral register and you will not be included on any registration forms sent to your address. Your electoral registration office will contact you separately. You will still be able to vote.

Anonymous registrations last for one year. You should keep copies of court orders or attestations for any future applications.

How to register to vote

- 1 Fill in this voter registration form.
- 2 Make sure you sign the declaration.
- 3 Provide evidence to support your application (more info on pages 4-5).
- 4 Return your completed form and the relevant evidence to your electoral registration office.
You can find their address and more information at electoralcommission.org.uk/voter.
- 5 Problems with the form? Contact your electoral registration office if you need help understanding or completing this form – or if you need this form in large print or in another format.

Register to vote as soon as possible, or it may be too late to vote in the next election.

Registering to vote

You can register to vote if you are resident (usually live) in Scotland and aged 14 or over (but you will not be able to vote in Scottish Parliament or local council elections until you are 16 and you will not be able to vote in UK Parliament elections until you are 18).

You must also be one of the following:

- A British, Irish or European Union citizen, or
- A Commonwealth citizen or foreign national who has permission to enter or stay in the UK, Channel Islands or Isle of Man, or who does not need permission. Permission to enter or stay in the UK, Channel Islands or Isle of Man (also called Leave to Enter or Remain) refers to a legal immigration status.

Registering anonymously

Do you want to be included on the electoral register anonymously? Please tick. No Yes

If yes, please tell us why you want to be included anonymously. For example, because your safety or the safety of someone living in the same household would be at risk.

You must provide a court document or an attestation in support of your application. (more info on pages 4-5)

Voting at the polling station

At UK Parliament elections, you will need to show photo ID at your polling station to cast your vote. If you are registered to vote anonymously, the only accepted form of photo ID you can use is an Anonymous Elector's Document. Contact your electoral registration office for more information and to request an application form.

If you need help filling in this form please contact your electoral registration office.

You can find their address and more information at electoralcommission.org.uk/voter.

Supporting evidence

You must provide a court document or an attestation as evidence that your safety or the safety of someone in your household would be put at risk if your name and address appeared on the register.

Please tick the one that applies:

- I have enclosed an eligible court document which is for my protection (please see section A below)
- I have enclosed an eligible court document which is for the protection of someone in my household (please see section A below) and proof (e.g. photo driving licence or utility bill) that I live in the same household as them
- I have enclosed an attestation from a qualifying officer certifying that my safety would be at risk (please see section B and attestation form overleaf)
- I have enclosed an attestation from a qualifying officer certifying that the safety of another person in my household would be at risk (please see section B and attestation form overleaf) and proof (e.g. photo driving licence or utility bill) that I live in the same household as them.

As anonymous registrations last for one year, you should keep copies of court orders or attestations for any future applications.

If you are unsure about what supporting evidence you can provide please contact your electoral registration office. You can find their address and more information at electoralcommission.org.uk/voter.

A Eligible court documents

Eligible court documents you can use to support your application:

If you are unsure about what supporting evidence you can provide, please contact your electoral registration office. You can find their address and more information at electoralcommission.org.uk/voter.

Your nationality

We may need additional evidence about your nationality or we may check your nationality or immigration status against government records.

Your date of birth

If you don't know your date of birth please give the date you put on official documents (for example, your passport or driving licence) or tick one of the boxes. Your date of birth identifies you and confirms your eligibility to vote.

Changed your name?

For example, you may have got married and changed your name. You do not have to give us details of your name change but it will help us identify you. If this information is not given then you may need to provide additional documentary evidence.

The open register

There are two registers. Why?

Using information received from the public, registration officers keep two registers – the electoral register and the open register (also known as the edited register).

The electoral register lists the names and addresses of everyone who is registered to vote in public elections. The register is used for electoral purposes, such as making sure only eligible people can vote. It is also used for other limited purposes specified in law, such as:

- detecting crime (e.g. fraud)
- calling people for jury service
- checking credit applications.

The open register is an extract of the electoral register, but is not used for elections. It can be bought by any person, company or organisation. For example, it is used by businesses and charities to confirm name and address details. If you are aged 16 or over your name and address will be included in the open register unless you ask for them to be removed. Removing your details from the open register does not affect your right to vote.

If you are included in the electoral register anonymously, no information about you will appear on the electoral register or the open register.

You can find out more information about both registers and how they may be used at gov.uk/register-to-vote.

Privacy statement

The Electoral Registration Officer is the Controller. Their lawful basis for collecting the personal information in this application form is that the processing is necessary in order to perform a task in the public interest as set out in the Representation of the People Act 1983 and related legislation.

The Electoral Registration Officer is legally required to process your personal information securely and comply with data protection legislation.

If you opted-out of the open register, your name and address can only be used for electoral purposes (including matching it against other data sources to support the electoral register) and other limited purposes specified in law. The law allows your information to be used for democratic engagement activities (by political parties, candidates, and agents), crime detection, jury summoning, and credit application identity checks.

If you did not opt-out of the open register your name and address can be bought by anyone and used for lots of purposes, including direct marketing.

You can view the privacy notice on the website of your electoral registration office, or you can contact them to request a copy. You can find their website address and contact details at electoralcommission.org.uk/voter.

Problems with the form?

Contact your electoral registration office if you need any help understanding or completing this form – or if you need this form in large print or in another format. You can find their address and more information at electoralcommission.org.uk/voter.
