FULL REASONS

REASONS

Background

1. By way of an RR1 application dated 2 November 2023, the landlord made an application for rent re-registration of a fair rent to the Rent Officer. The previous rent was determined by the Rent Officer on 19 March 2020 at £188.00 per week.
2. On 2 January 2024, the Rent Officer registered a fair rent of £256.43 per week with effect from 2 January 2024.
3. By an email dated 5 January 2024, the tenant wrote to the Valuation Officer objecting to that rent. The tenant was concerned at the level of increase and specifically pointed out that improvements had been undertaken to the kitchen and bathroom areas by the tenant and that these matters had not been addressed in the landlord's application.
4. On 4 March 2024 the Tribunal issued Directions to the parties requiring them to produce any evidence on which they wished to rely in support of their respective cases, including by way of a reply form. The matter was set down for a determination on the papers, unless either party requested a Hearing, which neither did. The landlord was directed to return a reply form with any other documents upon which it wished to rely by 18 March 2024. The tenant was directed to do likewise by 1 April 2024 with the landlord given the opportunity to respond by 8 April 2024. Neither party complied with the Directions.
5. On 30 April 2024 on the basis of papers and without Hearing, the Tribunal determined the fair rent of the above property at £255.50 per week.

The Law

6. When determining a fair rent, the Tribunal, in accordance with the Rent Act 1977, Section 70, had regard to all circumstances (other than personal circumstances) including the age, location and state of repair of the property. Section 70 is set out in the Appendix below.
7. In Spath Home Ltd v Chairman of the Greater Manchester, etc Tribunal (1995) 28 HLR 107 and Curtis v London Rent Assess Tribunal (1999) QB 92 the Court of Appeal emphasised that ordinarily a fair rent is the market rent for the property discounted for “scarcity” (i.e. that element, if any, of the market rent that is attributable to there being a significant shortage of similar properties in the wider locality available for letting on similar terms – other than as to rent – to that of the regulated tenancy) and that for the purpose of determining the market rent, assured tenancy (market) rents are usually appropriate comparable (these rents may have to be adjusted where necessary to reflect any relevant differences between those comparables and the subject property).

The Property

8. From Google Maps and information included on the Rent Register, the Tribunal found as follows:

The property comprises a self-contained split-level flat on the first and top floor of a converted three storey house believed to have been constructed circa 1900.

The property in a typical suburban London location and is fairly well placed for transport and shopping facilities.

The accommodation comprises lounge, two bedrooms, kitchen / diner, bathroom / WC and garden.

The property is understood to be fully centrally heated.

Valuation

9. From Spath Home Ltd v Chairman of the Greater Manchester etc Tribunal other registered rents are not relevant as a starting point because they are not market rents.
10. The Tribunal must first determine the market rent for a property of this size, in this location and in its current condition. It must also disregard the personal circumstances of either party. The Tribunal notes that the Rent Officer adopted a starting point of £460.00 per week . The tribunal is of the opinion that the open market rent of the property should be £575.00 per week.
11. However, all white goods, carpets and curtains are presumed to be the property of the tenant. In addition, a tenant of a Rent Act property has more onerous repairing obligations than those under an assured shorthold tenancy.

12. The Tribunal, therefore, made the following deductions from the market rent of £575.00 per week to reflect those differences plus tenant’s improvements which are understood to have taken place:

Market Rent:	£575.00 per week
• Landlord & Tenant Act 1985 repairing obligations – 5%.	Section 11 of the
• and curtains by tenant – 4%.	The provision of carpets
• goods by tenant – 2.5%.	The provisions of white
• the kitchen – 7%.	The modernisation of
• the bathroom by the tenant – 5%.	The modernisation of
Total: 23.5%	£135.12 per week
Adjusted rent:	£439.88 per week
Scarcity – 20%	£ 87.98 per week
Fair rent determination	£351.90 per week.

13. The Tribunal must register the lower of the adjusted market rent or maximum fair rent as the fair rent for the property. In this instance, the maximum fair rent produces a lower figure and the Tribunal, therefore, registered the rent at £255.50 per week for this property with effect from 30 April 2024 being the date of the Tribunal Decision.

If a party wishes to appeal this decision to the Upper Tribunal (Lands Chamber), then a written application for permission must be made to the First-tier Tribunal at the regional office which has been dealing with this case.

The application for permission to appeal must arrive at the regional office within 28 days after the Tribunal sends written reasons for the Decision to the person making the application.

If the application is not made within the 28 day time limit, such application must include a request for an extension of time and the reason for not complying with the 28 day time limit; the Tribunal will then look at such reason(s) and decide whether to allow the application for permission to appeal to proceed, despite not being within the time limit.

The application for permission to appeal must identify the decision of the Tribunal to which it relates (i.e. give the date, the property, and the case number), state the grounds of appeal and state the result the party making the application is seeking.
