

FW: Prozac

[Redacted]

Thu 13/05/2010 13:37

[Redacted]

Unless I am mistaken or suffering from hallucinations/delusions, I believe there have been several preclinical FUM assessments regarding the Prozac sexual development issue. Can you please update me on the latest status?

Many thanks

[Redacted]

From: [Redacted]
Sent: 12 May 2010 17:36
To: [Redacted]
Subject: FW: Prozac

[Redacted]

See response from SE. Let's discuss tomorrow.

Regards

[Redacted]

Special Populations Group Manager
VRMM Division
MHRA
Tel 0207 084 2373

[Redacted]

We are not aware of any new information, or discussion of the non-clinical issues that were outstanding, since we gave our comment in September 09, but maybe we have missed something? If no new info are available, we still think that at least the non-clinical issues should be taken as far as possible before a final conclusion regarding the clinical part can be drawn. Nevertheless, we do certainly acknowledge the problems about clinical follow up as outlined by the MAH. We will send a question to some children/teenagers psychiatrists in Sweden, to hear their view about this issue, and potential possibilities for follow up. We will get back to you as soon as we have any further information. I hope this is to some help for now.

Best regards

[Redacted]