

South Korea

| Country name                      | South Korea  |  |  |
|-----------------------------------|--|--|--|
| State title                       | Republic of Korea  |  |  |
| Name of citizen                   | South Korean   |  |  |
| Official language                 | Korean (kor¹)  |  |  |
| Country name in official language | 대한민국 (Daehan Minguk), or informally 한국(Hanguk)                         |  |  |
| State title in official language  | As country name  |  |  |
| Script                            | Hangul (romanized Hangeul in South Korea)                           |  |  |
| Romanization System               | South Korean national system, adopted for use by PCGN and BGN <sup>2</sup> |  |  |
| ISO-3166 code (alpha-2/alpha-3)   | (KR/KOR)   |  |  |
| Capital                           | Seoul <sup>3</sup>   |  |  |
| Capital in official language      | 서울 (Seoul)   |  |  |
| Population/Area                   | 51million (UN data) / 100,363 km²  |  |  |

Introduction

South Korea forms the southern part of the Korean peninsula and shares a land border only with North Korea. The Koryŏ<sup>4</sup> dynasty, from where the country name Korea is drawn, was the first dynasty to unify the Korean peninsula in 918. The dynastic tradition continued until Japan annexed the peninsula in 1910, control which lasted until the conclusion of the Second World War when the Korean peninsula was divided into two occupation zones along the 38th parallel.

In 1950, North Korean forces invaded, starting the Korean War. The war did not conclude until 1953 at which time the gains and losses resulted in a dividing line between the two countries little different from the post WW2 division. At the resulting truce line, a demilitarized zone (commonly DMZ) of 238 km became the de facto boundary between the countries.

&lt;sup>1</sup> ISO 639 codes are given for the languages mentioned in this Factfile.

&lt;sup>2</sup> Sometimes described as the 'Ministry of Culture and Tourism (MOCT) system' or 'Revised Romanization of Korean'.

&lt;sup>3</sup> Sejong was originally intended to be a new capital, replacing Seoul, and while some government offices have moved there, the intended status has been somewhat reduced by the constitutional court. Though the city continues to develop, PCGN currently continues to show Seoul as the only capital city.

&lt;sup>4</sup> Romanized Goryeo according to the South Korean national system.

Since the Korean War, South Korea has seen a period of military dictatorship but is now a flourishing and wealthy democracy, albeit one with an ever-present threat from the north.

Geographical names policy

PCGN policy for geographical names in South Korea is to apply the approved romanization system (see detail below) to Korean names (written in Hangul) or to use official romanized sources which represent the native script according to the national romanization system. The South Korean national system was designed for use in romanizing the Korean language as a whole, though it should be noted that PCGN applies it only to geographical names (for instance using more widely known spellings for other Korean terms, such as Hangul and Koryŏ in this document).

Romanized names on South Korean sources (official mapping and other tourist mapping/road signs etc.) may be used with a high degree of confidence, and the US Board on Geographic Names (BGN) Geographic Names Server: GNS Search & Download WebApp (nga.mil) is also a good source of names for South Korea.

Language

South Korea's official language is Korean (ISO 639 code kor). Korean is written in Hangul script, a script that was developed in the 15th century, and which has since largely replaced Sino-Japanese characters (called Hanja in Korean). Hanja are still used to a certain extent mainly for ceremonial or formal purposes (e.g. legal documents)<sup>5</sup>.

The Korean language itself is composed of approximately half Chinese-derived vocabulary (Sino-Korean) and half 'pure' Korean words (the latter of which would not be written in Hanja). Most place names are of Sino-Korean origin, though an exception is Seoul (서울), a pure Korean word.

Hangul is alphabetic but letters are grouped together into syllables, as Chinese characters are (e.g. Daegu is written  $\ \vec{H} \vec{\rightarrow} = 'Dae-gu'$  (i.e. consonant-vowel; consonant-vowel)).

There are a number of different romanization systems that are applied to Hangul and until 2011 PCGN used the McCune-Reischauer system (which is still the system PCGN recommends for application to names in North Korea). However, at that time BGN and PCGN judged that the South Korean national system of romanization, which had been developed some 10 years earlier, had a sufficiently high level of implementation within the country that Roman-script maps, documents and other materials were very widely produced using this system and that UK and US would also adopt this approach. The BGN/PCGN Romanization agreement for Korean in South Korea does not contain any letters or diacritical marks beyond those of the basic Roman script.

-

&lt;sup>5</sup> To romanize names written in hanja which are not available in hangul, it is necessary to find the hangul equivalents of the hanja characters in a hanja-to-hangul reference table, and then romanize the hangul by means of the hangul-to-Roman tables in the BGN/PCGN System.

Different dialects exist across the country but the only one that differs significantly from standard Korean is that spoken on Jeju island. The Jeju dialect is sufficiently distinct to be considered by most as a separate language (ISO 639 jje), though knowledge of this language has dwindled to such a level that it is classified as 'critically endangered' by UNESCO.

Administrative structure

South Korea is divided into 17 divisions at the first-order level (ADM1): 1 teukbyeolsi (special city); 6 gwangyeoksi (metropolitan city); 6 do (province); 3 teukbyeoljachido (special self-governing province) and 1 teukbyeoljachisi (special self-governing city).

| Administrative division (romanization) <sup>6</sup> | Administrativedivision(Korean) | ISO 3166-2code | Administrative centre (romanization) | Administrative centre(Korean) | Administrative centre location |
|---|--|--------------------|--------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| Busan-gwangyeoksi                                   | 부산광역시                                  | KR-26              | Busan                                | 부산                                | 35°06'10"N 129°02'25"E         |
| Chungcheongbuk-do                                   | 충청북도                                   | KR-43              | Cheongju                             | 청주                                | 36°38'07"N 127°28'04"E         |
| Chungcheongnam-do                                   | 충청남도                                   | KR-44              | Hongseong                            | 홍성                                | 36°36'03"N 126°39'54"E         |
| Daegu-gwangyeoksi                                   | 대구광역시                                  | KR-27              | Daegu                                | 대구                                | 35°52'13"N 128°35'28"E         |
| Daejeon-gwangyeoksi                                 | 대전광역시                                  | KR-30              | Daejeon                              | 대전                                | 36°20'57"N 127°23'06"E         |
| Gangwon-teukbyeoljachido <sup>7</sup>               | 강원특별자치도                                | KR-42              | Chuncheon                            | 춘천                                | 37°52'29"N 127°44'03"E         |
| Gwangju-gwangyeoksi                                 | 광주광역시                                  | KR-29              | Gwangju                              | 광주                                | 35°09'17"N 126°54'56"E         |
| Gyeonggi-do   | 경기도                                    | KR-41              | Suwon                                | 수원                                | 37°17'28"N 127°00'32"E         |
| Gyeongsangbuk-do                                    | 경상북도                                   | KR-47              | Andong                               | 안동                                | 36°33'59"N 128°43'22"E         |

&lt;sup>6</sup> The names of South Korean divisions containing buk or nam (north or south) are often contracted as follows: Chungcheongbuk-do to Chungbuk; Chungcheongnam-do to Chungnam; Gyeongsangbuk-do to Gyeongbuk; Gyeongsangnam-do to Gyeongnam; Jeollanam-do to Jeonnam. These are in common use, but PCGN recommends reflecting the full form.

&lt;sup>7</sup> Gangwon became a 'special self-governing province' in July 2023.

| Administrative division (romanization) <sup>6</sup> | Administrativedivision(Korean) | ISO 3166-2code | Administrative centre (romanization) | Administrative centre (Korean) | Administrative centre location |
|---|--|--------------------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| Gyeongsangnam-do                                    | 경상남도                                   | KR-48              | Changwon                             | 창원                             | 35°13'41"N 128°40'52"E         |
| Incheon-gwangyeoksi                                 | 인천광역시                                  | KR-28              | Incheon                              | 인천                             | 37°27'13"N 126°43'54"E         |
| Jeju-teukbyeoljachido                               | 제주특별자치도                                | KR-49              | Jeju                                 | 제주                             | 33°30'35"N 126°31'19"E         |
| Jeonbuk-teukbyeoljachido <sup>8</sup>               | 전라북도                                   | KR-45              | Jeonju                               | 전주                             | 35°49'19"N 127°08'56"E         |
| Jeollanam-do  | 전라남도                                   | KR-46              | Muan                                 | 무안                             | 34°59'23"N 126°28'17"E         |
| Sejong-teukbyeoljachisi                             | 세종특별자치시                                | KR-50              | Sejong                               | 세종                             | 36°36'33"N 127°17'31"E         |
| Seoul-teukbyeolsi                                   | 서울특별시                                  | KR-11              | Seoul                                | 서울                             | 37°35'55"N 126°58'42"E         |
| Ulsan-gwangyeoksi                                   | 울산광역시                                  | KR-31              | Ulsan                                | 울산                             | 35°32'14"N 129°19'00"E         |

&lt;sup>8</sup> This province was also upgraded to become a 'special self-governing province' (formerly 'do' (province)) in January 2024. Additionally, its name has been adopted in the formerly contracted form (Jeonbuk rather than the fuller Jeollabuk).

Other Significant Locations

| PCGNApprovedName    | Name in Korean                             | ConventionalName        | Location                  | Feature Type   |
|-----------------------------|--|-----------------------------|---------------------------|--|
| DemilitarizedZone (DMZ) | 한반도 비무장 지대(Hanbando BimujangJidae) | DemilitarizedZone (DMZ) | 38°19′44″N127°15′00″E | Border/buffer zone   |
| Hallasan                    | 한라산 (Hallasan)                             | -                           | 33°21′42″N126°31′45″E | Mountain   |
| Hangang                     | 한강 (Hangang)                               | Han River                   | 37°45′N126°11′E       | River  |
| Korea Strait                | 대한해협 (DaehanHaehyeop)                  | Korea Strait                | 34°40'00"N129°00'00"E | Strait betweenSouth Korea andJapan                             |
| LiancourtRocks*         | 독도 (Dokdo)                                 | LiancourtRocks          | 37°14′30″N131°52′00″E | Rocks  |
| Sea of Japan †   | 동해 (Donghae,meaning 'east sea')        | Sea of Japan                | 43°30'00"N135°45'00"E | Sea, littoral states:North Korea, SouthKorea, Japan,Russia |
| Ulleungdo                   | 울릉도 (Ulleungdo)                            | -                           | 37°30′04″N130°51′23″E | Island   |
| Yellow Sea                  | 서해 (Sohae, meaning 'west sea')             | Yellow Sea                  | 36°00'00"N124°00'00"E | Sea, littoral states:North Korea, SouthKorea, China            |

*A disputed feature, Liancourt Rocks is the English-language name for these uninhabited rocks in the Sea of Japan. Claimed by Japan (with the name Take Shima), they are administered by South Korea. PCGN advises use of the English name so as not to attribute sovereignty.

&lt;sup>†</sup>The subject of a significant diplomatic issue between Japan, North Korea and South Korea since all have been members of the United Nations (1991), South Korea desires that a translation of the Korean name (so 'East Sea' in English) be used for this sea in English-language contexts. PCGN policy is to use the established English conventional name for this body of water, which is Sea of Japan. More information can be supplied on request.

Useful references

- BBC country profile: https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-asia-pacific-15289563
- BGN/PCGN Romanization Agreement for Korean in South Korea: https://assets.publishing.service.gov.uk/government/uploads/system/uploads/attachmen t data/file/693724/ROMANIZATION OF KOREAN- MOCT for ROK.pdf
- CIA World Factbook: https://www.cia.gov/the-world-factbook/countries/korea-south/
- Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO) Travel Advice https://www.gov.uk/foreign-travel-advice
- FCDO Geographical Names & Information: https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/geographical-names-and-information
- International Organization for Standardization (ISO): http://www.iso.org
- ISO Online Browsing Platform (OBP): https://www.iso.org/obp/ui
- PCGN Country Names list: https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/country-names
- South Korea National Geographic Information Institute: https://www.ngii.go.kr/eng/main.do
- South Korea Toponymic Guidelines: https://www.ngii.go.kr/other/file_down.do?sq=77254
- Unicode www.unicode.org
- US Board on Geographic Names (BGN) Geographic Names Server: GNS Search & Download WebApp (nga.mil)

Compiled by PCGN info@pcgn.org.uk September 2022, updated January 2024