I don't think the building should be any higher than it is now, it should stick to just two floors, with maybe possible space for loft room. Also it's needs to be in keeping with the area, and be a family accommodation of maybe 3 or 4 bedroom houses, not flats, and not 1 or 2 bedrooms. The homes should be suitable for families and have garden space. Could they not stick to similar architecture to the original pub. Could the housing also be shared ownership houses therefore affordable to families. And freehold not leasehold.

Kind regards
