Grenfell Tower site update March 2025: summary of recording

The future of Grenfell Tower

The Deputy Prime Minister recognises that decisions about Grenfell Tower are a deeply personal matter for the people affected.

In February, she met bereaved families, survivors and residents in the immediate community to share her decision that the Tower will be carefully taken down. She has reached this decision after listening carefully to the community and considering independent expert advice.

The government is committed to taking the next steps respectfully and carefully. There will be continued support for, and engagement with, the community throughout the process.

The Deputy Prime Minister will ensure the community continues to have opportunities to speak with her and Ministers on issues that matter to them.

You can read more about how the Deputy Prime Minister has reached her decision, and the next steps, by going to Update on the future of Grenfell Tower – GOV.UK

Annual Tower rewrapping

Grenfell Tower is enclosed in two layers of protective wrapping attached to the scaffolding around the Tower. The wrapping protects the building from the weather and prevents any loose material falling into public places. The wrapping also sensitively and respectfully covers the building from view.

The outer layer of wrapping material deteriorates over time, and we need to replace it annually so that it continues to be effective. We'll be replacing the outer wrapping floor by floor. This started in March and we expect it to take about 10 weeks, depending on the weather.
