Dear [REDACTED]

RE: Request for Information – RFI5094

Thank you for your request for information which was processed in accordance with the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA).

You requested the following information:

This is a freedom of information request about the Cambridge Growth Company Advisory Council. Could you please send me:

- 1) copies of the agendas and minutes of all the meetings of the Advisory Council that have already taken place;
- 2) the dates and, where available, agendas for any future meetings that have been planned.

Response

We can inform you that we do hold the information that you have requested. However, we rely on section 22, exemption where information is intended for future publication under the FOIA.

The full text of the legislation can be found on the following link and we have quoted section 22 below for ease.

(1) Information is exempt information if:

- (a) the information is held by the public authority with a view to its publication, by the authority or any other person, at some future date (whether determined or not),
- (b) the information was already held with a view to such publication at the time when the request for information was made, and
- (c) it is reasonable in all the circumstances that the information should be withheld from disclosure until the date referred to in paragraph (a).

(2) The duty to confirm or deny does not arise if, or to the extent that, compliance with section 1(1)(a) would involve the disclosure of any information (whether or not already recorded) which falls within subsection (1).

Section 22 is a qualified exemption. This means that in order to withhold information under this exemption, we must consider the public interest in disclosure.

Public Interest Test – Factors in favour of disclosure

- Homes England is compliant with the government agenda of transparency and recognises the benefit of publishing the information, particularly when it concerns how Homes England undertakes its work.

Public Interest Test – Factors in favour of non-disclosure

- It is reasonable that a public authority does not divert resources where the information is readily available to the public. To disclose information via FOIA that will be available on a publicly accessible website would increase the likelihood of future requests being made under FOIA for similar publicly available information. This would divert resources away from requests for information that would not otherwise already be in the public domain. This would cause detriment to Homes England's ability to promptly deal with requests under FOIA.
- Releasing the information ahead of scheduled publication is not in line with accepted practices and releasing the information ahead of its scheduled publication date may allow third parties to gain an advantage in obtaining the information prior to general publication. As this information is due to be published soon, we consider there is a stronger interest in withholding this information until the intended publication date.

Therefore, after careful consideration we have concluded that at this time, the balance of the public interest favours the non-disclosure.
