

Reference: 2025-085

Thank you for your email in which you requested the following information under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA):

Please provide, for the period 1 January 2023 to the date of this request, the total number of the following items reported lost or stolen from your department:

- Laptops or desktop computers
- Tablets (including Ipads) or mobile phones
- Removable media devices (including USB flash drives, CDs, DVDs, external hard drives)

For each category above, please provide:

- The number recorded as lost
- The number recorded as stolen
- The total recorded cost of replacement (if held)

Response

The SFO holds this information. However, this is exempt from release under section 31(1) of the FOIA.

Section 31(1)(a), (b), and (c) provides that:

Information which is not exempt information by virtue of section 30 is exempt information if its disclosure under this Act would, or would be likely to, prejudice—

- (a) the prevention or detection of crime,*
- (b) the apprehension or prosecution of offenders,*
- (c) the administration of justice:*

How the exemption is engaged

As a law enforcement agency, the Serious Fraud Office (SFO) holds highly sensitive information which is of interest to others, including those we investigate. A breakdown of the number of lost and/or stolen IT equipment could assist potential attackers by indicating areas of vulnerabilities for them to target and compromise SFO investigations and systems, thereby prejudicing the interests at (a) and (b) above.

Public interest test

Sections 31(a), (b), and (c) are qualified exemptions and require consideration of whether, in all the circumstances of the case, the public interest in exempting this data outweighs the public interest in disclosing it. More information about exemptions in general and the public interest test is available on the ICO's website at www.ico.org.uk.

It is recognised that there is a general public interest in publicising information about the SFO, so that the public knows that serious fraud, bribery, and corruption are being investigated and prosecuted effectively, and so that the public can be reassured about the general conduct of our organisation and how public money is spent.

However, having considered the public interest in releasing this information, we consider that the stronger interest lies in maintaining these exemptions of the FOIA. Primarily, the risk that this information could pose to the SFO's security systems against which it is essential to safeguard given the highly sensitive nature of the information held as a law enforcement agency. Releasing sensitive information regarding IT systems risk compromising the SFO's ability to provide and maintain data security for the cases at pre-investigation, investigation, prosecution stages and beyond.

Having considered the opposing arguments, I believe that the stronger public interest lies in exempting the information from release.
