DECISION

1. The Applicant seeks an order pursuant to s.20ZA of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985 (“the Act”) for prospective dispensation with the consultation requirements in respect of lift repair works at the property known as Wythburn Court, 34 Seymour Place, London, W1H 7NS (“the property”).
2. The property is described as being a block of 16 self-contained flats built in the 1930s. The Applicant is the freeholder of the property.
3. It is the Applicant’s case that the passenger lift serving the front of the building is in urgent need of comprehensive refurbishment. A number of its component mechanisms have been subject to repeated repairs. However, these elements are now approaching critical failure. There is a significant risk that, on safety grounds, the lift may be required to be taken permanently out of service if remedial works are not undertaken. The availability of a fully operational lift is essential at this property, particularly given that a number of residents are elderly and rely on lift access to safely and reasonably access their homes. In particular, one lessee is said to be in his early 90’s and can only travel with an oxygen supply on his person.
4. By an application dated 15 September 2025, the Applicant applied seeking prospective dispensation for the lift repair works. On 15 December 2025, the Tribunal issued (amended) Directions requiring the Applicant to serve the Respondents with a copy of the application by 5 January 2026, which was done on 15 and 16 December 2025. The Respondents were directed to respond to the application stating whether they objected to it in any way.
5. By a letter dated 20 January 2026, the Applicant confirmed that service had been effected on the Respondents as directed and that none of them have objected to the application.

Relevant Law

6. This is set out in the Appendix annexed hereto.

Decision

7. As directed, the Tribunal’s determination “on the papers” took place on 9 February 2026 and was based solely on the documentary evidence filed by the Applicant. As stated earlier, no objections had been received from any of the Respondents, nor had they filed any evidence.
8. The relevant test to be applied in an application such as this has been set out in the Supreme Court decision in Daejan Investments Ltd v Benson & Ors [2013] UKSC 14 where it was held that the purpose of the consultation requirements imposed by section 20 of the Act was to ensure that tenants were protected from paying for inappropriate works or paying more than was appropriate. In other words, a tenant should suffer no prejudice in this way.

9. The issue before the Tribunal was whether dispensation should be granted in relation to the requirement to carry out statutory consultation with the leaseholders regarding the lift repair works. The Tribunal is not concerned about the actual cost that has been incurred.
10. The Tribunal granted the application for the following main reasons:
  - (a) The Tribunal was satisfied that the Respondents had, at all material times, been kept informed of the need for the lift repair work and had been served with the application together the evidence in support. There has been no objection from any of them. The Tribunal attached significant weight to this.
  - (b) The Tribunal accepted the Applicant's unchallenged evidence that the passenger lift serving the front of the building is in urgent need of comprehensive refurbishment. A number of its component mechanisms have been subject to repeated repairs. However, these elements are now approaching critical failure. There is a significant risk that, on safety grounds, the lift may be required to be taken permanently out of service if remedial works are not undertaken.
  - (c) The Tribunal was mindful of the fact that there is only one lift in the property which is defective. Therefore, the loss of amenity caused by the delay in the Applicant having to carry out consultation would have been significant for the Respondents, especially given that some or all of them are elderly with at least one of them having significant health problems. The Tribunal was, therefore, satisfied that there is an urgent basis for the lift repairs to be carried out.
  - (d) Given that the application is unopposed, the Tribunal was also satisfied that the requirement to carry out consultation was in effect academic and meaningless and would merely result in further unnecessary delay for the Respondents.
  - (e) Importantly, the real prejudice to the Respondents would be in the cost of the work and they have not been able to establish any such prejudice. Furthermore, the Respondents have the statutory protection of section 19 of the Act, which preserves their right to challenge the actual costs incurred by making a separate service charge application under section 27A of the Act.
11. The Tribunal, therefore, concluded that the Respondents were not being prejudiced by the Applicant's failure to consult, and the application was granted as sought.
12. It should be noted that in granting this part of the application, the Tribunal makes no finding that the scope and cost of the repairs are reasonable.

Rights of appeal

By rule 36(2) of the Tribunal Procedure (First-tier Tribunal) (Property Chamber) Rules 2013, the tribunal is required to notify the parties about any right of appeal they may have.

If a party wishes to appeal this decision to the Upper Tribunal (Lands Chamber), then a written application for permission must be made to the First-tier Tribunal at the regional office which has been dealing with the case.

The application for permission to appeal must arrive at the regional office within 28 days after the tribunal sends written reasons for the decision to the person making the application.

If the application is not made within the 28-day time limit, such application must include a request for an extension of time and the reason for not complying with the 28-day time limit; the tribunal will then look at such reason(s) and decide whether to allow the application for permission to appeal to proceed, despite not being within the time limit.

The application for permission to appeal must identify the decision of the tribunal to which it relates (i.e. give the date, the property and the case number), state the grounds of appeal and state the result the party making the application is seeking.

If the tribunal refuses to grant permission to appeal, a further application for permission may be made to the Upper Tribunal (Lands Chamber).
