

Extra-Statutory Concessions

Concessions as at 6 April 2018

The Civil Partnership Act (CPA) received Royal Assent on 18/11/2004 and became effective from 5 December 2005. The Government's commitment is that, for all tax purposes, same-sex couples who form a civil partnership will be treated the same as married couples.

As part of this commitment to tax parity, from 5 December 2005 all Extra Statutory Concessions (ESCs) or Statements of Practice (SoPs) should be taken as extended to apply equally to civil partners and married couples.

Introduction

This guide details the Extra-Statutory Concessions previously operated by Inland Revenue in use at 6 April 2018. Extra-Statutory Concessions previously operated by HM Customs & Excise can be found in Notice 48 at www.gov.uk.

An Extra-Statutory Concession is a relaxation which gives taxpayers a reduction in tax liability to which they would not be entitled under the strict letter of the law. Most concessions are made to deal with what are, on the whole, minor or transitory anomalies under the legislation and to meet cases of hardship at the margins of the code where a statutory remedy would be difficult to devise or would run to a length out of proportion to the intrinsic importance of the matter.

The concessions described within are of general application, but it must be borne in mind that in a particular case there may be special circumstances which will need to be taken into account in considering the application of the concession. A concession will not be given in any case where an attempt is made to use it for tax avoidance.

Concessions which have become obsolete are not reproduced, but their titles are printed, in italic bold type. A concession is obsolete if it has been superseded by legislation; superseded by a later concession; contained a time-limit which has now expired; withdrawn or referred to a tax or duty which no longer applies.

The titles and text of concessions which have become obsolescent are printed in italic type. A concession is obsolescent if the number of potential beneficiaries cannot now increase and will diminish over time.

- could claim relief under Section 278, ICTA 1988 (claim to personal reliefs by certain non residents); or
- could claim entitlement to exemption in respect of FOTRA Securities issued in accordance with section 714 ITTOIA; or

- in the year it is made the payer does not have sufficient income charged to income tax to cover the payment,

A18. Change of accounting basis on the merger of professional firms – Obsolete A19.

Giving up tax where there are Revenue delays in using information

Arrears of income tax or capital gains tax may be given up if they result from the Inland Revenue's failure to make proper and timely use of information supplied by: a taxpayer about his or her own income, gains or personal circumstances an employer, where the information affects a taxpayer's coding; or the Department for Work and Pensions, about a taxpayer's State retirement, disability or widow's pension.

Tax will normally be given up only where the taxpayer: could reasonably have believed that his or her tax affairs were in order, and was notified of the arrears more than 12 months after the end of the tax year in which the Inland Revenue received the information indicating that more tax was due, or was notified of an over-repayment after the end of the tax year following the year in which the repayment was made.

In exceptional circumstances arrears of tax notified 12 months or less after the end of the relevant tax year may be given up if the Revenue failed more than once to make proper use of the facts they had been given about one source of income allowed the arrears to build up over two whole tax years in succession by failing to make proper and timely use of information they had been given.

A27. Mortgage Interest Relief: Temporary absence from mortgaged property

Under the provision of s354 and s355, ICTA 1988 tax relief for interest paid on a mortgage is given where the loan is applied for the purchase of a property which, at the time the interest is paid, is used as the only or main residence of the borrower. Temporary absences of up to a year are in practice ignored in determining whether a property is used as an only or main residence. In addition where a person is required by reason of his employment to move from his home to another place, either in the UK or abroad for a period not expected to exceed four years, any property being purchased with the aid of a mortgage which was being used as his only or main residence before he went away, will still be treated as his only or main residence, provided it can reasonably be expected to be so used again on his return. Where a person has acquired an estate or interest in a property, for example by exchange of contracts, but is prevented by his move from occupying it as his home, he will nevertheless be regarded as having used the property as his home for the purposes of the concession. Relief will not be given beyond a period of four years but if there is a further temporary absence after the property has been reoccupied for a minimum period of three months, the four year test will apply to the new absence without regard to the previous absence.

Where a person by reason of his office or employment has moved his home abroad and that office or employment is an office or employment of the type specified in (a) of s132 (4), ICTA 1988 (certain offices and employments under the Crown), then any property being purchased with the aid of a mortgage which has been used as his only or main residence before he went away will still be treated as his only or main residence, provided it can reasonably be expected to be so used again on his return.

If an individual already on an overseas tour of duty purchases a property in the UK in the course of a leave period and uses that property as an only or main residence for a period of not less than three months before his return to the place of his overseas employment he will be regarded as satisfying the condition that the property was being used as his only or main residence before he went away. If an individual lets his property while he is absent the benefit of the concession may be claimed, where appropriate, if this is more favourable than claiming a deduction in computing the profits or losses of a Schedule A business.

A32. Tax relief for life assurance premiums: position of certain pension schemes which are unapproved after 5 April 1980

Sections 19(4)(b) (which allowed life assurance premium relief on certain non-qualifying policies) and 393(2)(b) (which protected the policyholder from any tax charge on policy gains) ICTA 1970 were repealed with effect from 6 April 1980 as part of the series of measures introducing the new tax code for superannuation. The result is that premium relief may not be available for 1980/81 and future years and there may be a charge to tax on the surrender etc of the policy. In order to continue the protection afforded by these provisions the Inland Revenue will continue to give relief as though they were still in force. The concession will not apply in the case of a policy issued in connection with a retirement benefit scheme established after 5 April 1980.

Where an individual is treated as in pensionable employment solely because provision is made under a scheme or arrangement existing on 14 October 1980, fully or partly at the cost of the employer, for a benefit in pension form payable only on death or disability, the employment will be treated as non-pensionable for any tax year in which the individual has not become entitled to benefit as a result of that provision. In accordance with the provisions of Section 619(4), ICTA 1988, the individual will be entitled to pay a retirement annuity premium in the following tax year and, within that same year to elect to have it related back for tax purposes to the previous year, and set against the earnings from the employment for that year subject to the limits on relief in force.

Relief will be available on a year to year basis for the period of employment or until benefit becomes payable as a result of death or disability. The employment in the tax year in which such a contingency occurs will be regarded as pensionable and retirement annuity relief will not be available for that year, but no attempt will be made to recover retirement annuity relief already given for earlier years in the same employment.

A41. Qualifying life assurance policies: statutory conditions

Life assurance policies which contain minor technical infringements of the qualifying conditions in Schedule 15, ICTA 1988 cannot strictly be treated as qualifying. Similarly, under paragraph 21(1), Schedule 15, ICTA 1988, policies in respect of insurances made on or after 1 April 1976 (or varied on or after that date) are not qualifying policies unless they have been certified as such by the Board, or conform to a certified standard form.

In certain circumstances, the Board may be prepared by concession to relax the strict statutory conditions. These relaxations are as follows:

- a. where, under paragraph 1(8), Schedule 15, ICTA 1988, the commencement date of a policy is back-dated by not more than three months, for the purposes of testing varied or substituted policies under paragraph 17(2) of the same Schedule, calculating the chargeable event period under Section 540(1), ICTA 1988, and applying the ‘clawback’ provisions of Sections 268 to 270, ICTA 1988, the earlier date will be treated as the date on which the assurance is made;
- b. a reduction in premium level in the first year of a policy will not be regarded as a significant variation, provided that the reduction leads to an appropriate reduction in the sum assured and that any excess of premium is used to pay further premiums within the first year of the policy or returned to the policy holder or retained by the insurer, with no value being credited to the policyholder;
- c. certain trivial infringements of the qualifying rules may be disregarded. In such cases, the insurer will be required to give written confirmation that all reasonable steps have been taken to ensure that such errors will not be repeated; and
- d. a policy in respect of an insurance made on or after 1 April 1976 (or varied on or after that date) which has not been certified by the Board, but which is capable of certification, may be certified as a qualifying policy from the date when the insurance was made (or the policy varied) and any premium relief already given will normally not be recovered. Uncertified policies which are not capable of being certified will normally be regarded as non-qualifying policies from commencement or, where appropriate, the time at which uncertifiable wording was added.

A56. Benefits in kind: the tax treatment of accommodation in Scotland provided for employees

1. Section 102 of (ITEPA) charges to tax in certain circumstances the benefit of living accommodation provided by reason of a person's employment. The charge is based either on the rent paid by the person providing the accommodation, or the property's 'annual value' if greater, less any amount made good by the employee.
2. Annual value is defined in Section 110 ITPA 2003 in terms similar to the definition of 'gross value' for rating purposes in the General Rate Act 1967. In practice, therefore, a property's gross rateable value may be taken as its annual value for Sections 105 & 106 ITEPA purposes where the property is situated in the United Kingdom.
3. To avoid unfairness as between taxpayers in different parts of the United Kingdom, the Inland Revenue will not assess the benefit arising on property in Scotland in accordance with the 1985 Scottish rating revaluation figures.
4. Instead, the existing 1978 valuations will form the basis of assessment for existing properties for 1985/86 and 1986/87. For 1987/88 and subsequent years and for new properties the Inland Revenue will scale back the 1985 figures by the average increase in rateable values in Scotland between 1978 and 1985 (170 per cent); (e.g. a 1985 gross rateable value of £270 will be reduced to £100 for the purposes of Section 33).
5. Additional yearly rent which is required for properties costing over £75,000 by Section 106(2) Step 2 of ITEPA is unaffected.

A74. Meals provided for employees – Obsolete – enacted in sections 266 & 367 ITEPA 2003

A75. Theatrical entertainers

The earnings of theatrical entertainers were before 6 April 1990 generally taxed under Schedule D. But 'standard contracts', which are widely used for theatrical engagements are generally contracts of employment and the earnings from them are properly taxable under employment income. From 6 April 1990 earnings from engagements under "standard contracts", which are contracts of employment, and from other contracts of employment, are taxed as employment income except where a theatrical entertainer can claim reserved trading income (formerly Schedule D) status in accordance with the conditions below. In such cases income from theatrical performances, under "standard contracts" or under any other contract of employment, will continue to be taxed as trading income.

Entertainers qualify for reserved trading income status where one of the following conditions is satisfied either Schedule D assessments have been made in respect of income from engagements as a theatrical entertainer for at least the three tax years

1986-87, 1987-88 and 1988-89, and an assessment for at least one of those years has been based on accounts or a return of income for that year submitted before 31 May 1989

or

- Schedule D assessments have been made in respect of income from engagements as a theatrical entertainer for at least three of the years 1979-80 to 1988-89 provided that
- there has been a satisfactory history of Schedule D treatment and
- accounts or returns of income for all relevant years up to and including 1986-87 were submitted before 31 May 1989

and

- the entertainer's last theatrical engagement which started before 6 April 1990 was dealt with under Schedule D (whether or not it ended before that date).

These conditions mean that a theatrical entertainer starting in the profession after 5 April 1987 cannot qualify for reserved trading income status.

Entertainers qualifying for reserved trading income status will only be assessed under Schedule D so long as they continue to meet their tax obligations satisfactorily, and continue their professional activities without a break. If, following a break, professional activities are resumed, Employment income treatment will apply to any income from a contract of employment.

For the purposes of this concession

- 'standard contract' means a standard contract agreed between theatrical employers and the British Actors Equity Association (Equity)
- 'theatrical entertainer' means an actor, singer, dancer, musician or other theatrical entertainer, and includes stage managers
- "break" in professional activities means a cessation agreed under the trading income rules between the HM Revenue & Customs and the theatrical entertainer. This concession was announced, in a letter to Associations representing theatrical entertainers and employers, on 25 June 1989.

A87. Loss relief on accounts basis – Obsolete

A88. Cessation adjustment where loss relief has been allowed on accounts basis – Obsolete

A89. Mortgage interest relief: Property used for residential and business purposes

Where tax relief for interest paid on a loan to buy the borrower's home is given under the provisions of S353, ICTA 1988 no deduction is allowed for any of the interest on the loan in a computation of profits or losses for the purposes of a Schedule A or Schedule D Case I or II business (see S368 (4)). Conversely, where a deduction is allowed under Schedule A or Schedule D Case I or II no relief can be claimed under S353 (see Section 368(3)). By concession, however, relief for interest on a loan to buy a property used for both residential and business purposes in the circumstances set out below may be allowed in part under S353 and in part as a deduction in computing profits or losses.

Similarly, where tax relief for interest paid on a loan to buy the borrower's home is given under the provisions of S369, ICTA 1988 - the mortgage interest relief at source (MIRAS) arrangements - no deduction is allowed for any of the interest on the loan in a computation of profits or losses for the purposes of a Schedule A or Schedule D Case I or II business (see S369 (3)). By concession, however, relief for interest on a loan to buy property used for both residential and business purposes in the circumstances set out below may be allowed in part under the MIRAS arrangements and in part as a deduction in computing profits or losses, provided the interest on the loan is 'relevant loan interest' within the terms of S370.

The circumstances in which this concession applies are as follows.

Where a part of a property, which is the borrower's only or main residence, is used exclusively for business purposes the loan in question may be apportioned on the basis of the proportion of the property so used. Mortgage interest relief may then be claimed for the interest on the part of the loan attributable to residential use and a deduction may be allowed for the interest on the part of the loan attributable to business use. Where a part of a property, which is the borrower's only or main residence, is only sometimes used for business purposes (but for a significant amount of time and then exclusively) the loan in question may be apportioned on any reasonable basis that takes account of both the proportion of the property so used and the duration of such use. Mortgage interest relief may then be claimed for the interest on the part of the loan attributable to residential use and a deduction may be allowed for the interest on the part of the loan attributable to business use. A90. Jobmatch pilot scheme- Obsolete

A91. Living accommodation provided by reason of employment

This concession applies to living accommodation treated as earnings under Part3, Chapter5 ITEPA 2003. Where Section 106 ITEPA 2003 applies and the cash equivalent of the benefit of the accommodation is calculated by reference to the annual rent the property might fetch on the open market, the Inland Revenue will disregard 'additional yearly rent'. If 'the additional yearly rent' is disregarded then the amount of 'the excess rent' is deemed to be nil.

A92. Tax Exempt Special Savings Accounts (TESSAs): European authorised institutions – Obsolete

A93. Payments from offshore trusts to minor, unmarried child of settlor: Claim by settlor for credit of tax paid by trustees

Income arising to a trust within the scope of Section 686 ICTA 1988 is charged to tax on the trustees at the rate applicable to trusts or the Schedule F trust rate. Where such income is distributed to or for the benefit of an unmarried minor child, of the settlor, it is treated as the income of the settlor and becomes chargeable on them for the year in which it is distributed under Section 660B ICTA 1988.

Section 687 ICTA 1988 provides for the settlor of a resident trust to be given full credit against tax due from them under Section 660B for tax paid by the trustees at the rate applicable to trusts in respect of income distributed. Section 687 does not, however, apply where the trustees exercise their discretion outside the UK. The settlor of such a trust could therefore be liable to tax under Section 660B without being able to claim credit against their liability for any tax paid by the trustees.

By concession, the settlor will be able to claim credit against their liability to tax under Section 660B for tax paid by the trustees, as if the payments out of UK income were from a UK resident trust. This will apply to the extent that the distribution is made out of income which arose to the trustees not earlier than 6 years before the end of the year of assessment in which the distribution was paid.

For this purpose, the distribution will be treated as having been made rateably out of the total of the various sources of income arising to the trustees on a last in first out basis. Credit will be given to the settlor for the tax paid by the trustees on the income to the extent that:

- the distribution is regarded as being made from income chargeable to UK tax; and
- such income has not previously been allocated to earlier distributions on a last in, first out basis.

This concession will only apply where the trustees:

- have made trust returns, giving details of all sources of trust income and payments made to beneficiaries for each and every year for which they are required; and
- have paid all tax due, and any interest, surcharges and penalties arising; and
- keep available for inspection any relevant tax certificates.

Credit will be granted to the settlor on a claim made within five years and ten months of the end of the year of assessment in which the beneficiary received the payment from the trustees.

No credit will be given for UK tax treated as paid on income received by the trustees which would not be available for set-off under Section 687(2) if that section applied, and that tax is not repayable (for example on dividends). However, such tax is not taken into account in calculating the gross income treated as taxable on the settlor under this concession.

A94. Profits and losses of theatre backers (Angels) – withdrawn for new users from 6 April 2017

An individual who backs a theatrical production, except where such backing activity forms part of a trade or profession within the theatre industry, is a theatre 'angel'. If the show is successful, the money is first repaid, and then the angel receives a share of any profit. If the show fails, the angel may lose not only the hope of a return on the money but also all or part of the original investment. Any return a theatre angel receives over and above the original investment is strictly assessable under section 683 of Income Tax (Trading and Other Income) Act 2005, and the CGT rules apply to losses.

Despite the strict rules, UK resident angels may, in respect of any particular transaction, treat profits under section 687 of Income Tax (Trading and Other Income) Act 2005, and losses under section 872 of Income Tax (Trading and Other Income) Act 2005. Where this concessionary treatment is given, any loss in respect of that transaction cannot also qualify as a capital loss.

Unincorporated payers who make payments liable under section 683 of Income Tax (Trading and Other Income) Act 2005 have the right, but usually no obligation, to deduct tax. Incorporated payers will always have an obligation to deduct tax. The Revenue will not however insist on deduction of tax from payments to theatre angels for their theatrical investments if the angel's usual place of abode is in the United Kingdom. Payers who do exercise their right to deduct tax under Section 349(1) of the Income and Corporation Taxes Act 1988 must account to the Inland Revenue for the tax.

Guidance for the performance of the review was issued by the FSA.
2. A payment within paragraph '3' below which is made as a result of a review of an FSAVC covered by the FSA/PIA Policy Statement and FSA Guidance will not be chargeable to income tax. Nor will the receipt of such payment be regarded for the purposes of capital gains tax as the disposal of an asset.
3. (a) The payment is a capital sum by way of compensation which has been determined in accordance with the FSA Guidance for the performance of the review.
(b) The payment is interest on the whole or part of the capital sum described at '(a)' for a period ending on or before the earliest date on which the capital sum was determined.

- have been entitled to exemption in respect of FOTRA Securities issued in accordance with Section 154 FA 1996; or

- not have been chargeable to UK tax because of their not resident and/or not ordinarily resident status the beneficiary may claim that exemption or relief or, where the beneficiary would not have been chargeable, repayment of the tax treated as deducted from the payment (or an appropriate proportion of it). For this purpose, the payment will be treated as having been made rateably out of all sources of income arising to the trustees on a last in first out basis.

Relief or exemption, as appropriate, will be granted to the extent that the payment is out of income which arose to the trustees not earlier than six years before the end of the year of assessment in which the payment was made, provided the trustees:

- have made trust returns giving details of all sources of trust income and payments made to beneficiaries for each and every year for which they are required, and -
- have paid all tax due, and any interest, surcharges and penalties arising, and -
- keep available for inspection any relevant tax certificates.

Relief or exemption, as appropriate, will be granted to the beneficiary on a claim made within five years and ten months of the end of the year of assessment in which the beneficiary received the payment from the trustees.

Non-resident trusts

A similar concession will operate where a beneficiary receives a payment from discretionary trustees which is not within section 687(2) ICTA 1988 (i.e. where nonresident trustees exercise their discretion outside the UK).

Where a non-resident beneficiary receives such a payment out of income of the trustees in respect of which, had it been received directly, it would have been chargeable to UK tax, then the beneficiary

- may claim relief under Section 278 ICTA 1988 (personal reliefs for certain nonresidents); and
- may be treated as receiving that payment from a UK resident trust but claim credit only for UK tax actually paid by the trustees on income out of which the payment is made. The beneficiary may also claim exemption from tax in respect of FOTRA Securities issued in accordance with Section 154 FA 1996 to the extent that the payment is regarded as including interest from such securities.

A UK beneficiary of a non-resident trust may claim appropriate credit for tax actually paid by the trustees on the income out of which the payment is made as if the payments out of UK income were from a UK resident trust and within Section 687(1) ICTA 1988.

This treatment will only be available where the trustees:

- have made trust returns giving details of all sources of trust income and payments made to beneficiaries for each and every year for which they are required, and -
- have paid all tax due and any interest, surcharges and penalties arising, and -
- keep available for inspection any relevant tax certificates.

Relief or exemption, as appropriate, will be granted to the beneficiary on a claim made within five years and ten months of the end of the year of assessment in which the beneficiary received the payment from the trustees.

No credit will be given for UK tax treated as paid on income received by the trustees which would not be available for set off under Section 687(2) ICTA 1988 if that section applied, and that tax is not repayable (for example on dividends). However, such tax is not taken into account in calculating the gross income treated as taxable on the beneficiary under this concession.

B31. Capital allowances: plant or machinery which is a fixture in a business building situated within an enterprise zone.

The rate of capital allowances on expenditure on machinery or plant, whether the assets are chattels or fixtures (including parts of a building) is normally 25 per cent of the reducing balance. This is a higher rate than that due on expenditure on the construction of an industrial building (4 per cent straight line) whilst in general no allowances at all are due on the construction of a commercial building. Exceptionally a 100 per cent initial allowance is due on expenditure on the construction of an industrial building or a commercial building in an enterprise zone.

Such expenditure does not, however, include expenditure on the provision of machinery or plant which becomes an integral part of such a building; expenditure on such machinery or plant only qualifies for a 25 per cent writing down allowance. By concession, where a taxpayer is entitled to a 100 per cent initial allowance in respect of expenditure on the construction of an industrial or commercial building in an enterprise zone, he may elect to treat as part of the said expenditure on the provision of machinery or plant which is to be an integral part of such a building. B32. Payroll giving - Administrative costs – Obsolete

C. CONCESSIONS APPLICABLE TO COMPANIES ETC (CORPORATION TAX AND INCOME TAX)

C1. Credit for underlying tax: dividends from trade investments in overseas companies

(a) Portfolio shareholders

Credit is still available under a few double taxation agreements for underlying tax on portfolio investments. Where a United Kingdom resident receives dividends on a holding of ordinary shares (including the participating part of participating preference dividends) in a company resident in an overseas territory with which the United Kingdom has an agreement which provides for such relief, the credit legally due against the United Kingdom tax chargeable on the dividends takes into account, in addition to any direct tax on the dividends, the underlying tax payable in the other country on the company's profits. In practice, provided that the overseas countries concerned have agreements with the United Kingdom of the type mentioned above, the credit also takes into account any United Kingdom tax or foreign tax in a third country payable by the overseas company on its income; and, when the overseas company's profits include ordinary or participating preference dividends from a second company resident in that or another overseas country, both the direct tax charged on the dividends and the underlying tax payable on the profits of the second company. Relief is given similarly for the tax relating to dividends and profits of companies at further removes along a chain of shareholdings. (b) Insurance companies – obsolete – withdrawn with effect from 1 April 2017

C2. Loan and money societies – Obsolete

C3. Holiday clubs and thrift funds - Obsolete

C4. Trading activities for charitable purposes – Obsolete – enacted by SI 2011/1037 C5.

C6. Close companies: excess of relevant income over distributions: small amounts – Obsolete

C7. Close companies: interest on inter-bank loans – Obsolete

C8. Close companies: loan creditors – Obsolete – withdrawn with effect from 1 April 2010

C9. Associated companies

1. Section 13, ICTA 1988 (small companies' relief) and Section 13AA, ICTA 1988 (corporation tax starting rate) contains rules which apply when one company is associated with one or more other companies. Broadly speaking, one company is associated with another if one of the two has control of the other, or both are under the control of the same person or persons. The rules about control are contained in Sections 416 and 417, ICTA 1988. The provisions of this concession relate to the application of those rules only for the purpose of Sections 13 and 13AA.

2. The Revenue will not, by concession, treat one company as being under the control of another where the first company is only under the control of the second by taking into account fixed rate preference shares (as defined in paragraph 13(6), Schedule 28B, ICTA 1988) which a company possesses. Nor will the Revenue treat one company as associated with another where those companies are only under common control by taking into account fixed rate preference shares which another company possesses. In all cases, this part of the concession applies only when the company possessing the fixed rate preference shares:

- is not a close company, and
- takes no part in the management or conduct of the company which issued the shares, or of the business of that company, and
- subscribed for the shares in the ordinary course of a business carried on by it which includes the provision of finance.

3. The Revenue will not, by concession, treat one company as being under the control of a loan creditor of that company where there is no past or present connection between the company and the loan creditor other than the loan or loans which cause it to be a loan creditor. Nor will the Revenue treat one company as associated with another where the first company is only associated with the second by being controlled by the same loan creditor provided there is no past or present connection between the companies other than the common loan creditor. In all cases, this part of the concession applies only when the loan creditor:

- is a company which is not a close company, or - is a bona fide commercial loan creditor.

4. The Revenue will not, by concession, treat one company as being associated with a trustee company (for example, a trustee company of a clearing bank) where the company is only associated with that trustee company because it is under its control by taking into account rights and/or powers the trustee company holds in trust provided there is no past or present connection between the company and the trustee company other than those rights and/or powers. In these circumstances, the Revenue will not, by concession, treat the trustee company as being associated with the other company. Nor will the Revenue treat one company as being associated with another because they are controlled by the same trustee by virtue of rights and/or powers held in trust by that trustee provided there is no past or present connection between the companies other than those rights and/or powers.

5. The Revenue will, by concession, treat the definition of a relative (in Section 417(4), ICTA 1988) for the purpose of Sections 13 and 13AA as including only a husband or wife or child who is a minor. This part of the concession applies only in respect of companies where there is no substantial commercial interdependence between them.

This treatment was superseded by s27 – s30 CTA 2010 for accounting periods ending on or after 1 April 2010.

C10. Groups of companies: arrangements - Obsolete – enacted by SI 2012/266

C11. Demergers: Section 213(7) & (9), ICTA 1988

To satisfy the conditions for relief in a demerger under Section 213, ICTA 1988, the distributing company must after the distribution be either a trading company or the holding company of a trading group.

Section 213(7), ICTA 1988 relaxes that condition if: -

- a. the transfer relates to two or more 75 per cent subsidiaries of the distributing company; and
- b. the distributing company is dissolved without there having been after the distribution any net assets of the company available for distribution in a winding-up or otherwise.

However, a company will not be regarded as failing to comply with the requirements of Section 213(7), ICTA 1988 merely because it retains after the distribution sufficient funds to meet the cost of liquidation and to repay a negligible amount of share capital remaining. Share capital will be regarded as negligible if it amounts to £5,000 or less.

This concession applies equally to Section 213(7) and (9).

C12. Retail co-operative societies: accounting periods withdrawn with effect from 01 April 2018

C13. Agricultural co-operative associations 'second and third-tier' associations – Obsolete – withdrawn with effect from 1 April 2010

C15. Dissolution of unincorporated associations: distributions to members

Where a company which is an unincorporated association is dissolved the distribution of its assets to its members is an income distribution within Section 209, ICTA 1988, limited where Section 490(1) or (4) of that act applies to the amount distributed out of profits brought into charge to corporation tax or out of franked investment income. If substantially the whole of the association's activities have been of a social or recreational nature, it has not carried on an investment business or a trade other than a mutual trade, and the amount distributed to each member is not large, it is given the option of not having Section 209 applied and of having the whole of the amounts distributed treated as capital receipts of the members for the purpose of calculating any chargeable gains arising to them on the disposal of their individual interests in the association.

D10. Unquoted shares acquired before 6 April 1965: disposal following Reorganisation of share capital

Where, in consequence of a reorganisation of share capital before 6 April 1965, computation of a gain by reference to value at that date is required by paragraph 19(1) Schedule 2, TCGA 1992 or where, under paragraph 19(2) in consequence of such a reorganisation after 6 April 1965 time apportionment applies only to the gain or loss up to the date of reorganisation, capital gains tax is not charged on a disposal of the entire new shareholding on more than the actual gain realised.

For the purposes of this concession, the disposal of the entire new holding by way of a number of separate transactions all within the same income tax year (or, in the case of a company, the same accounting period) will be treated as a single disposal.

D11. Retirement relief: asset owned by a director and used by the company - Obsolete

D12. Close companies: apportionments of income and the consequential for capital gains tax: close companies in liquidation - Obsolete

D13. Retirement relief: sale of assets in anticipation of liquidation – Obsolete

For the purposes of Section 152, TCGA 1992, where a person sells a business, or a business asset, and for purely commercial reasons subsequently repurchases the same asset, that asset will be regarded as a ‘new asset’.

D17. Unit trusts for exempt unit holders: Section 100(2), TCGA 1992 – Obsolete – enacted in section 20 F(2)A 2005

D18. Default on mortgage granted by vendor

Where on the sale of an asset at arm's length there has been a default in respect of a loan granted by the vendor to the purchaser of all or part of the proceeds, and as a result the vendor has regained the beneficial ownership of the interest which he has contracted to sell, the vendor may elect that for Capital Gains Tax purposes the gain realised by him on that sale be taken as limited to the amount of the proceeds (net of allowable incidental costs of disposal) retained by him and the loan be treated as never having come into existence. Accordingly the computation of the gain (or loss) on any later sale of that asset will be made by reference to the original date and cost of acquisition. The treatment for income tax purposes of any interest received in respect of the loan will remain unaltered.

D19. Replacement of buildings destroyed - Obsolete

D20. Private residence exemption: residence occupied by dependent relative

Where relief is claimed under Section 226, TCGA 1992 (Section 105, CGTA 1979) in respect of the disposal by an individual of a dwelling house which has at any time been the sole residence of a dependent relative, the condition that the dwelling house must have been provided rent free and without any other consideration will be regarded as satisfied where the dependent relative pays all or part of the occupier's council tax and the cost of repairs to the dwelling house attributable to normal wear and tear. Additionally, the benefit of the relief will not be lost where the dependent relative makes other payments in respect of the property either to the individual or to a third party, provided that no net income is receivable by the individual, taking one year with another.

For this purpose net income will be computed in accordance with the normal rules of Schedule A, except that any mortgage payments (including both income and capital elements) and any other payments made by the dependent relative as consideration for the provision of the property, whether made directly to the mortgagee or other recipient or indirectly via the individual will be credited as receipts. The deductions to be debited will be computed in accordance with the normal rules of Schedule A. D21. Private residence exemption: late claims in dual residence cases

Where for any period an individual has, or is treated by the Taxes Acts as having more than one residence, but his interest in each of them, or in each of them except one, is such as to have no more than a negligible capital value on the open market (e.g. a weekly rented flat, or accommodation provided by an employer) the two year time limit laid down by Section 222(5)(a), TCGA 1992 for nominating one of those residences as the individual's main residence for capital gains tax purposes will be extended where the individual was unaware that such a nomination could be made. In such cases the nomination may be made within a reasonable time of the individual first becoming aware of the possibility of making a nomination, and it will be regarded as effective from the date on which the individual first had more than one residence.

D22. Relief for the replacement of business assets: expenditure on improvements to existing assets

Where a person carrying on a trade uses the proceeds from the disposal of an 'old asset' on capital expenditure to enhance the value of other assets, such expenditure is treated for the purposes of Sections 152 to 158 and Schedule 4, TCGA 1992 as incurred in acquiring other assets provided:

- (a) the other assets are used only for the purposes of the trade, or
- (b) on completion of the work on which the expenditure was incurred the assets are immediately taken into use and used only for the purposes of the trade.

D23. Relief for the replacement of business assets: partition of land on the dissolution of a partnership

Where land used for the purposes of a trade carried on in partnership is partitioned by the partners, the land acquired is treated for the purposes of Sections 152-158, TCGA 1992 as a 'new asset' provided that the partnership is dissolved immediately thereafter. This concession also applies to other qualifying assets which are acquired on the partition.

D24. Relief for the replacement of business assets: assets not brought immediately into trading use

Where a 'new asset' is not, on acquisition, immediately taken into use for the purposes of a trade, it will nevertheless qualify for relief under Sections 152-158, TCGA 1992 provided: -

- (a) the owner proposes to incur capital expenditure for the purposes of enhancing its value;
- (b) any work arising from such capital expenditure begins as soon as possible after acquisition, and is completed within a reasonable time;
- (c) on completion of the work the asset is taken into use for the purpose of the trade and for no other purpose; and
- (d) the asset is not let or used for any non-trading purpose in the period between acquisition and the time it is taken into use for the purpose of the trade. Where a person acquires land with a building on it, or with the intention to construct a building on it, the land is treated as qualifying for this concession provided that the building itself qualifies for the relief, whether by this concession or otherwise, and provided the land is not let or used for any non-trading purpose in the period between its acquisition and the time that both it and the building are taken into use for the purposes of the trade.

D25. Relief for the replacement of business assets: acquisition of an interest in an asset already used for the purposes of a trade.

Where a person carrying on a trade uses the proceeds from the disposal of an 'old asset' to acquire a further interest in another asset which is already in use for the purposes of the trade, the further interest is treated for the purposes of Sections 152-158, TCGA 1992 as a 'new asset' which is taken into use for the purposes of the trade.

D26. Relief for exchanges of joint interests – Obsolete – enacted by SI 2010/157

D27. Earn-outs – Obsolete – enacted in section 138A TCGA 1992

D28. Assets of negligible value – Obsolete

D29. Transfers of Long-term Business under Section 49 of the Insurance Companies Act - Obsolete

D30. Relief for the replacement of business assets - Obsolete – enacted in section 48 FA 1995

D31. Retirement Relief: Date of Disposal. – Obsolete

D32. Transfer of a business to a company

Where liabilities are taken over by a company on the transfer of a business to the company, the Inland Revenue are prepared for the purposes of the 'rollover' provision in Section 162, TCGA 1992, not to treat such liabilities as consideration. If therefore the other conditions of Section 162 are satisfied, no capital gain arises on the transfer. Relief under Section 162 is not precluded by the fact that some or all of the liabilities of the business are not taken over by the company.

D33. Capital Gains Tax on Compensation and Damages Zim Properties Ltd - Compensation and Damages

1. Introduction

A person who receives a capital sum derived from an asset is treated for the purposes of capital gains tax as disposing of that asset. The case of Zim Properties Ltd v Proctor 58 TC 371 has established that the right to take court action for compensation or damages is an asset for capital gains tax purposes. It follows that a person who receives compensation or damages, whether by court order or arbitration or by negotiated settlement as a result of a cause of action may be regarded as disposing of the right of action. A capital gain may accrue as a result.

The strict position

2. Cost of acquisition

A capital gain will accrue if the capital sum received as compensation exceeds the amount which may be deducted as the cost of acquiring the right of action. A right of action will almost invariably be acquired otherwise than by way of bargain made at arm's length. Special rules for determining the cost of acquisition apply in these circumstances. Where the right of action was acquired on or before 9 March 1981, it is deemed to have been acquired for a sum equal to its market value on the date of acquisition. Where it was acquired on or after 10 March 1981 and there was no disposal of the right of action corresponding to the claimant's acquisition of it, then where - as is usually the case - the taxpayer gave no consideration to acquire it is treated as having been acquired without cost.

If the cause of action was held on 31 March 1982 and disposed of on or after 6 April 1988, it will, in accordance with the rebasing rules, be deemed to have been disposed of and immediately reacquired at its open market value on 31 March 1982.

If a right of action passes on the death of the claimant, it is treated as acquired at its open market value on the date of death.

In computing the gain or loss, a deduction may be made for any legal and professional fees incurred in pursuing the claim. If the action in respect of a claim of substance fails, or if the expenses exceed the compensation, a capital loss may accrue.

3. Date of acquisition

A right of action accrues and so is acquired by a person for capital gains tax purposes when, for example as a result of a breach of contract or the negligent actions of another person (tort), he or she suffers actual loss or damage.

4. Market value on acquisition

In practice, where relevant, the Board of Inland Revenue will be prepared to accept a valuation which gives rise to neither chargeable gain nor allowable loss.

5. Date of disposal

The right of action is treated as disposed of when a capital sum derived from it is received, and if a series of capital sums is received, each receipt is the occasion of a separate disposal.

6. Rebasing to 31 March 1982

If an asset which was held on 31 March 1982 is disposed of on or after 6 April 1988, the gain or loss is normally computed as if it had been disposed of and immediately reacquired at its open market value on 31 March 1982. If an underlying asset were held on 31 March 1982, but a right of action related to that asset were acquired after 31 March 1982, the rebasing provisions would apply on the disposal of the underlying asset but not on the disposal of the right of action.

7. Reliefs and exemptions

Some forms of compensation are specifically exempted from liability to capital gains tax (see paragraph 12 below) and these remain exempt despite the decision in Zim Properties. But other statutory reliefs and exemptions are not available where the receipt of the compensation is regarded as giving rise to a disposal of the right of action, not of any underlying asset to which the relief or exemption might apply. These include deferment relief for compensation applied in restoring or replacing an asset, roll-over relief for the replacement of business assets, retirement relief and private residence relief.

8. Relief by concession

Where a gain arises on the disposal of a right of action, the case may alternatively, by concession, be treated in accordance with the following paragraphs of this statement.

9. Underlying assets

Where the right of action arises by reason of the total or partial loss or destruction of or damage to a form of property which is an asset for capital gains tax purposes, or because the claimant suffered some loss or disadvantage in connection with such a form of property, any gain or loss on the disposal of the right of action may by concession be computed as if the compensation derived from that asset, and not from the right of action. As a result a proportion of the cost of the asset, determined in accordance with normal part-disposal rules, and indexation allowance, may be deducted in computing the gain. For example if compensation is paid by an estate agent because his negligence led to the sale of a building falling through, an appropriate part of the cost of the building may be deducted in computing any gain on the disposal of the right of action.

The gain may be computed by reference to the original cost of the underlying asset, with time-apportionment if appropriate if the asset was acquired before 6 April 1965, or by reference to its market value on 6 April 1965. For disposals on or after 6 April 1988, the gain may be computed in appropriate cases by reference to the value of the asset on 31 March 1982.

10. Other reliefs and exemptions

If the relief was or would have been available on the disposal of the relevant underlying asset, it will be available on the disposal of the right of action. For example, if compensation is derived from a cause of action in respect of damage to a building suffered by reason of professional negligence, and the compensation is applied in restoring the building, deferment relief under Section 23, TCGA 1992 will be available as if the compensation derives from the building itself and not from the right of action. Other reliefs which may become available in this way include private residence relief, retirement relief and roll-over relief. HMRC Board will be prepared to consider extending time limits in cases where because of a delay in obtaining a capital sum in compensation, the normal time limit allowed for a relief has elapsed. If the right of action relates to an asset which is specifically exempt from capital gains tax, such as a motor car, any gain on the disposal of the right of action may be treated as exempt.

11. No underlying asset

A right of action may be acquired by a claimant in connection with some matter which does not involve a form of property which is an asset for capital gains tax purposes. This may be the case where professional advisers are said to have given misleading advice in a tax or other financial matter, or to have failed to claim a tax relief within proper time. Actions may be brought in relation to private or domestic matters. Where the action does not concern loss of or damage to or loss in connection with a form of property which is an asset for capital gains tax purposes, the approach in paragraph 9 above of treating the compensation as deriving from the asset itself is not appropriate. In these circumstances any gain accruing on the disposal of the right of action will be exempt from capital gains tax up to a limit of £500,000 for any compensation awarded in a single set of legal proceedings.

Any awards of compensation above this threshold will need to be reviewed on a case-by-case basis to ensure that they remain within the Commissioners' collection and management powers. Therefore such claims will need to be notified to HM Revenue and Customs in writing.

Other points

12. Personal compensation or damages

Section 51(2), TCGA 1992 provides that 'sums obtained by way of compensation or damages for any wrong or injury suffered by an individual in his person or his profession or vocation' are not chargeable to capital gains tax. The words 'wrong or injury' include breaches of contractual duties and torts (in Scotland, delicts). If the exemption would have applied to damages received for any wrong or injury, it also applies to any compensation for professional negligence in relation to an action in respect of that wrong or injury.

The words 'in his person' are to be read in distinction to 'in his finances' but they embrace more than physical injury so that distress, embarrassment loss of reputation or dignity may all be suffered 'in the person'. Compensation or damages for unfair or unlawful discrimination suffered 'in the person' and for libel or slander (in Scotland defamation) would thus be included. Similarly the words 'in his profession or vocation' refer to compensation or damages suffered by an individual in his professional capacity such as unfair discrimination, libel or slander (in Scotland, defamation) as distinct from 'in his finances'. If the compensation is received by the members of a partnership, each member, in Scotland as elsewhere, is treated as receiving a share of the compensation. The exemption is extended by concession to such compensation received by an individual in his trade or employment.

The exemption also extends to compensation received by a person other than the individual who suffered the wrong or injury, such as relatives or personal representatives of a deceased person. It also extends to compensation for emotional distress caused by the death of another person, and compensation for loss of financial support.

It does not apply to compensation for any other wrong or injury suffered by any person other than an individual.

13. Indemnity payments

The principle in Zim Properties Ltd is not regarded as applicable to payments made by the vendor to the purchaser of an asset under a warranty or indemnity included as one of the terms of a contract of purchase and sale.

Where such a contractual payment is made, then the cost of the asset to the person acquiring it will, on the occasion of a further disposal be reduced by the sum received.

The sale proceeds of the person who makes (or is treated by Section 171A TCGA as making) the disposal of the asset are adjusted under Section 49, TCGA 1992 in respect of the sum received. Where a warranty or indemnity payment is not made in accordance with the terms of the contract, the principle in Zim Properties may apply and the sums received by the vendor or purchaser as appropriate may be identified as capital sums derived from the asset, or from the right of action, depending on the facts of the case.

14. Date of commencement

The concessions and practices set out in this Statement will apply to all open cases on the date of issue, 19 December 1988.

D34. Rebasing and indexation: shares held at 31 March 1982

Where, for the purposes of the rebasing provisions in Section 35, TCGA 1992 and the indexation provisions in Section 55, TCGA 1992, it is necessary to determine the market value of shares or securities of the same class in any company on 31 March 1982, all the shares or securities held at that date will be valued as a single holding whether they were acquired on or before 6 April 1965 or after that date.

If the shares or securities in the relevant disposal represent some but not all of those valued at 31 March 1982 then the allowable cost or indexation allowance as appropriate will be based on the proportion that the shares or securities disposed of bears to the total holding at 31 March 1982.

D35. Employee trusts: transfers of assets to beneficiaries- Obsolete – enacted by SI 2009/730

D36. Relief for irrecoverable loans to traders: time limits for claims – Obsolete

D37. Private residence exemption: relocation arrangements- Obsolete – enacted by SI 2009/730

D38. Capital Gains Tax: qualifying corporate bonds

Where a person acquired corporate bonds in respect of shares or securities and those bonds became, or would fall to be treated as, qualifying corporate bonds by virtue only of Section 139 FA 1989 (see para. 16(4) Schedule 11, TCGA 1992), an allowable loss for capital gains purposes will accrue if:

- the qualifying corporate bonds were issued in respect of shares or other securities before 14 March 1989 and were still retained at that date by the person to whom they were issued. - the bonds were acquired in a transaction within Section 116(1), TCGA 1992 (Section 64(7) FA 1984) and on disposal on or after 14

March 1989 fall to be treated as qualifying corporate bonds as a result of Section 139 FA 1989;

- relief under Section 254, TCGA 1992 (Section 136A CGTA 1979) would have been available had the loan been a qualifying loan within Section 254(1);
- a taxpayer claiming relief under this concession agrees that if part or all of the amount relieved is subsequently recovered the relief will be clawed back in the same way as if Section 254, TCGA 1992 (Section 136A CGTA 1979) had applied, save that in all cases the chargeable gain will be treated as accruing to the claimant;
- when this concession applies, any gain or loss on the original shares or securities will be treated as accruing at the same time as the loss on the bonds in accordance with Section 116(15), TCGA 1992 (paragraph 12, Schedule 13, FA 1984).

The loss is computed in accordance with the rules in Section 254, TCGA 1992 (Section 136A CGTA 1979) and will be treated as arising when the benefit of this concession is claimed. However, the Inland Revenue will be prepared to accept that any such loss should be treated as arising in an earlier year of assessment (or accounting period in the case of a company) provided that:

- the claim is made not later than two years after the end of that year of assessment (or accounting period); and
- all the conditions for the relief are satisfied at the date of claim; and
- the relief would have been available at the end of the year of assessment or accounting period for which relief is claimed.

D39. Extension of leases

Where the extension of a lease other than under its original terms involves the surrender of the old lease and the grant of a new lease, a liability to Capital Gains Tax may strictly arise. In an arm's length transaction, the value, if any, of the new lease is taken into account as consideration for the disposal of the old lease.

In practice, however, the surrender of a lease before its expiry and the grant of a new lease for a longer term will not be regarded as a disposal or part disposal of the old lease where all the following conditions are met:

- the transaction, whether made between connected or unconnected parties, is made on terms equivalent to those that would have been made between unconnected parties bargaining at arm's length; the transaction is not part of, or connected with, a larger scheme or series of transactions;
- a capital sum is not received by the lessee;
- the extent of the property in which the lessee has an interest under the new lease does not differ in any way from that to which the old lease related;
- the terms of the new lease (other than its duration and the amount of rent payable) do not differ from those of the old lease. For this purpose trivial differences will be ignored.

D40. Non-resident trusts: definition of participator – Obsolete – enacted by SI 2017/495

D41. Non-resident trusts: loans repayable on demand – Obsolete

D42. Mergers of leases

Where a leaseholder of land acquires a superior interest in that land (either a superior lease or the freehold reversion) so that the first lease is extinguished the two assets are merged within the meaning of Section 43 TCGA 1992. On a subsequent disposal the allowable expenditure will include:

- the cost of the first lease (after exclusion if appropriate of that part 'wasted' down to the date of acquisition of the superior interest (Schedule 8 TCGA 1992, in the case of a lease with 50 years or less to run); and
- the cost of the superior interest. If the superior interest is itself a lease with 50 years or less to run, the total of these two amounts will be 'wasted' down to the date of disposal under Schedule 8 TCGA 1992.

In strictness, indexation allowance on the total of these two amounts is calculated by reference to the date of acquisition of the superior interest. By concession indexation allowance on the earlier, inferior, lease will be calculated by reference to the date of its acquisition.

For disposals before 29 June 1992, indexation allowance will be given by concession for the total of these two amounts by reference to the date of acquisition of the inferior interest.

D43. Settled property

On the death of a person entitled to a life interest in possession in settled property, as defined in Section 68, TCGA 1992, (except where the property reverts to the settlor) the trustees are deemed to have disposed of the property and reacquired it at market value and, subject to Sections 67 and 74 TCGA 1992

- if the property continues to be settled property, by reason of Section 72 TCGA 1992 there is no chargeable gain or allowable loss
- if someone becomes absolutely entitled within Section 71 TCGA 1992, by reason of Section 73 TCGA 1992 there is no chargeable gain or allowable loss. By concession these provisions will also be applied on the death of a person with any other type of interest in possession in settled property.

Where property continues to be settled property, the concession may be claimed on the subsequent disposal of that property and the market value on date of death shall be reduced by the amount of any outstanding chargeable gain which was held over when that property was transferred to the trustees. The concession may not be claimed for any assets where there is a charge under Sections 67 or 74 TCGA 1992 on the subsequent disposal.

If this concession is claimed, it must apply to all of the assets in which the deceased had an interest in possession, other than any assets for which the CGT computations were settled before 17 February 1993 or are subject to a charge under Sections 67 or 74 TCGA 1992. All references to TCGA 1992 include references to corresponding provisions in earlier legislation.

D49. Private residence relief: Short delay by owner-occupier in taking up residence

This Concession applies:

where an individual acquires land on which he has a house built, which he then uses as his only or main residence where an individual purchases an existing house and, before using it as his only or main residence, arranges for alterations or redecorations or completes the necessary steps for disposing of his previous residence.

In these circumstances, the period before the individual uses the house as his only or main residence will be treated as a period in which he so used it for the purposes of Sections 223(1) and 223(2)(a) TCGA 1992, provided that this period is not more than one year. If there are good reasons for this period exceeding one year, which are outside the individual's control, it will be extended up to a maximum of two years.

Where the individual does not use the house as his only or main residence within the period allowed, no relief will be given for the period before it is so used. Where relief is given under this Concession it will not affect any relief due on another qualifying property in respect of the same period.

D50. Treatment of compensation – Obsolete- enacted by SI 2010/157

D51. Transfers of assets from a close company at undervalue- Obsolete – enacted by SI 2009/730

D52. Share exchanges, company reconstructions and amalgamations: incidental costs of acquisition and warranty payments

This concession applies to

- incidental costs of acquisition or disposal which would be allowable under Section 38(1)(a) or (c) TCGA 1992
- payments in respect of contingent liabilities as defined in Section 49(1)(c) TCGA 1992 incurred

(i) on, or as a result of, shares or debentures to which Section 135 TCGA 1992 applies, or
(ii) under an arrangement as mentioned in Section 136(i) TCGA 1992 which is entered into for the purposes of, or in connection with a 'scheme of reconstruction' as defined in Schedule 5AA TCGA 1992) in circumstances where Section 136 TCGA 1992 applies.

Any such costs or payments attributable to the new holding of the shares and/or debentures may be treated as consideration given for the shares or debentures. In the case of contingent liabilities the total allowed under Section 49(1)(c) TCGA 1992 and this concession will be restricted to the amount that would have been allowed under Section 49(1)(c) if Sections 135 and 136 TCGA 1992 had not applied.

D53. Section 50 Taxation of Chargeable Gains Act 1992: Grants repaid

Where some or all of the cost of acquiring an asset is met by the Crown or by, any Government, public or local authority, Section 50 TCGA excludes an amount equal to the grant from the allowable acquisition costs in computing the gain on a subsequent disposal. By concession, where the grant is later repaid in whole or in part the consideration received on the disposal of the asset may be treated as reduced by an amount equal to the amount repaid.

This concession will also apply to the extent that it can be demonstrated that repayment of the grant has taken place by way of a corresponding reduction in the amount of a later grant which would otherwise have been made.
