Grenfell Tower ninth anniversary

The Grenfell community is preparing to commemorate the ninth anniversary of the tragedy this June. We remain committed to supporting bereaved families, survivors and the wider community at this time. As a mark of respect, work at the Tower will pause from lunchtime on Friday 12 June and will not resume until Tuesday 16 June. To mark this important date, additional lighting will shine from the Tower. Due to ongoing works, it will not be possible to access the Grenfell Tower site during this year's anniversary commemorations.

Grenfell heart banners

As work to carefully take down Grenfell Tower progresses, we have been moving the banners down the Tower. The banner lights have been repositioned so that they shine upwards onto the banners. The banners will stay in place for the ninth anniversary of the tragedy and will then be carefully removed from the Tower and stored safely. We recognise that the Tower will look different, and that the banners are meaningful to many people. Please get in touch with us at the email address on the next page if you have any questions.

Tower lighting

We have heard it is important that there is a visible reminder while the Tower is being carefully taken down. Beams of light will continue to shine upwards at each corner of the Tower every night, from dusk until 11pm. The lights shining on the Grenfell heart banners are also on from dusk until 11pm each night.

Monitoring information on dust, vibration, and noise

The government is committed to ensuring that all work at the Grenfell Tower site is carried out to the highest standards. The safety and wellbeing of the community and people working at the site remain our priority. There are monitors at the site collecting live data on dust, vibration, and noise. The data is published every month. To see the latest reports, please click on the links below:
