

██████████ and CMA group seem to have their goal to be the utter removal of all non-corporate veterinary businesses. With the taxes already increased by this government. The rise in the cost of living. The asinine recommendations of the corporate friendly CMA review and now you want to levy businesses which will disproportionately affect already struggling independent practices. It's an absolute ██████████. How much more do you think independent practices can weather? ██████████ and all the corporates can lay off vets and pump more money in but the independent practices that invest, interact and live in their communities you corporate shills want to keep bleeding to feed the bureaucratic machine. You have no knowledge of veterinary business and none of truly competitive business at all and will only see what you hope for which is further corporate takeover and the end of independent practice.
