Risk Description	The product presents a serious risk of choking because it contains small parts which may become accessible or are already small enough to fit wholly within the small parts cylinder. The squeaker from the duck and the rabbit component from the carrot can detach at forces below the required minimum and present a choking hazard to children under 36 months. The small plastic chicks also fit wholly within the small parts cylinder, and the spinner can break during impact and release a small component, presenting a further choking hazard. The plastic packaging bag has a measured thickness of 0.030 ± 0.002 mm, below the required minimum of 0.038 mm, and is sufficiently large to also present a serious asphyxiation hazard. Additionally, the cord attached to the whistle exceeds the permitted length for a fixed loop and does not separate under the required force, presenting a strangulation hazard to a young child. The product does not meet the requirements of the Toys (Safety) Regulations 2011.
