Dear Sir/ Madam,

I would like to object against Site A as I am aware that the correct surveys have not been carried out on site regarding the Ecological elements of the area.

There are protected birds, butterflies, newts, bats and flowers within the site.

Works cannot proceed as these are protected species.

The B4011 is an extremely busy and dangerous road.

There is a history of fatalities and accidents on that road and also the adjoining A41.

My family moved to [redacted] 32 years ago and my friend was killed by an artic lorry on the A41.

With migrants being issued with high viz jackets this is already highlighting the danger concerns.

Migrants will be killed and Highway users will be killed. This is inevitable.

There is a history of fatalities and accidents on the B4001 and there are 4 junctions close to the entrance at Site A.

There are no pathways or lights on the roads and it's a recipe for disaster.

I'm aware the 20,000 litres of diesel needed a day to provide electricity with cause pollution to the air.

Yours faithfully,
