I wish to state my objections to this and various other projects that house large groups of males with no respect or regard for females in the UK, nor indeed the western world.

In 2022 I [redacted] to a beautiful little girl and I now genuinely fear for her safety. Far too many HMOs are being approved in our town and we have to walk past groups of males just hanging around. They like children's playgrounds in particular. Their attitude and their looks toward us speak volumes.

I recently had to discourage a man wearing a turban from touching [redacted] He referred to her as my little beauty and was bending down as he approached us so as to stroke her-I cannot express how utterly disgusted I felt. No adult male should feel they have the right to do this. If either of my sons were to behave that way there would rightly be uproar, but these males hide behind their culture and religion. It's unacceptable. What happens when she is a little older and wants to venture out with friends? What about the safety of older girls and women right now?

Almost daily now, I see another case of a male foreign national being convicted of the rape or sexual assault of a female: I can't say woman because they aren't all women, many are children. We have enough home grown sexual predators without allowing more into the country. Generally the foreign perpetrators are then allowed to remain in the country under some spurious human rights excuse.

It's very easy to sit in your safe environments and tell people they are racist, but we aren't. We really don't care if people from other countries migrate legally, integrate and contribute-it's the illegal ones and those that push their medieval attitudes to females and try to circumvent the laws of this land in favour of Sharia law that are the problem.

It's bad enough having the congregations in a town or city, but to flood a small village is just plain irresponsible and dangerous. How will all of these males occupy themselves? That's aside from the obvious strain on infrastructure the influx of that many people will cause.

Incidentally, [redacted] yet had he arrived illegally, he would be living a comfortable lifestyle at the expense of the taxpayer. How can any of our recent governments justify this?

Some common sense is needed and people in positions of influence and power need to stop hiding behind the racist label and look at this with clarity. They don't necessarily see the evidence on a daily basis but they have to start listening and stop dismissing genuine concerns.
